Outside Journals Face Ad Ban Too

VANCOUVER (CP) — The head of a major magazine distributing company said Wednesday he has been advised by the attorney-general's department that the forthcoming ban on liquor and tobacco advertising in B.C. will apply to magazines printed outside the province.

James Grubb, manager of Vancouver Magazine Service Ltd., said he was told the ban, which goes into effect Sept. 1, definitely includes material coming into B.C. for distribution.

During debate in the legislature preceding final approval of the legislation Tuesday, opposition members repeatedly asked Attorney-General Leslie Peterson how the law would be applied to advertising in out-of-province journals.

Without giving a clear-cut explanation, Mr. Peterson said.

WANTS MEETING

"I think the provisions in this particular statute must be read in the light that the province can only legislate within its own jurisdiction."

Mr. Grubb said he has been attempting to arrange an appointment with Mr. Peterson to discuss the new legislation but "so far I haven't had any luck."

He said his business would be "hurt very seriously" by the legislation and estimated it could mean a drop of up to 60 per cent in gross sales now exceeding $10 million annually.

Vancouver Magazine Service is the major distributor of magazines and books on the lower B.C. mainland. It has 82 employees.

Mr. Grubb said that if the government is able to enforce the ban, it would virtually wipe out the magazine sales business in B.C.

He said readers would be forced to obtain out-of-province magazines by subscription through the mails.

"In other words," he said, "publishers in Eastern Canada would earn extra profits at the expense of earnings and jobs in B.C."

'Separatist Generals'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Quebec separatist leader Rene Levesque said Wednesday there are separatist generals in the Canadian Armed Forces. Speaking on a local CBC television show, he made the statement while speculating on a possible military solution to Quebec's problems.

2 More Shocks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two more aftershocks jolted the earthquake-jittery San Fernando Valley today. There were no reports of new damage.

Probe Announced

TORONTO (CP) — Defence Minister Donald Macdonald says he has begun an inquiry to determine the extent to which Quebec separatism affects members of the armed forces but that the inquiry is not a "big deal."

New Judge Assigned

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI) — A new judge took over the Angela Davis case today, and Miss Davis promptly moved for his disqualification on grounds of prejudice. Superior Judge Alan A. Lindsay, assigned to the case only two weeks ago, recessed pretrial hearings until 1 p.m. PST to consider the motion.

ENGINEERS TALKING

Rails' Non-Ops Agree to Pact

56,000 Involved

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (CP)— All elements for a settlement of the threatened rail strike are "in place" Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey told the Commons today.

MONTREAL — Canada's major railways and 56,000 non-operating employees today reached a contract agreement which Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey hopes will exert pressure on 7,000 locomotive engineers scheduled to strike Monday.

Negotiations resumed today between the engineers and Canadian National Railways and CP Rail.

Sitting in on negotiations is Bernard Wilson, assistant deputy labor minister.

Unless a settlement can be reached, Canada appears headed for its second national railway strike in five years following the decision Wednesday by the brotherhood to call its 7,000 members off the job Monday.

PARALYSE TRAFFIC

The walkout would paralyse all traffic by the CNR and CP Rail, including freight, passenger and commuter service.

Already, all of Western Canada is without railway service. Traffic on the Victoria-Courtenay line of the E and N halted today.

The CN has adjusted its schedule for transcontinental trains to ensure that passengers are not caught in mid-trip when the engineers walk off.

Some businessmen reacted to the news that the brotherhood's negotiating committee had broken off contract talks with predictions of serious economic problems and possible price increases.

The port of Vancouver will be effectively closed Monday if the tieup is not settled this weekend, acting port manager William Duncan said.

Duncan said there were seven grain vessels in berth this morning, but only four were taking on grain. Four

REGINA LABOR LAW TO GET TEETH

Times News Services

REGINA — Power to impose compulsory arbitration in all labor disputes falling under provincial jurisdiction would be given the Saskatchewan government under an amendment introduced in the legislature Wednesday.

Under terms of the government-sponsored amendment heavy fines would be imposed on either employees or employers if arbitration awards are rejected by either side.

Before the Wednesday amendment, the Essential Services Emergency Act, originally passed in 1966, covered only employees in such services as electric power, natural gas, water, hospital employees and construction workers.

Ecuador Quells Military Revolt

QUITO (AP) — Without firing a shot, the Ecuadorean government ended today a military revolt against President Jose Maria Valesco Ibarra's regime, the defence ministry announced.

Gen. Francisco Guzman, undersecretary of defence, said Gen. Luis Jacome Chavez, the rebel leader, surrendered to the army commander-in-chief.

Earlier, the rebels were reported gaining support in their revolt, aimed not at the president but at his nephew, the defence minister.

They not only demanded the replacement of Defence Minister Jorge Acosta Velasco but the ouster of the army commander, Gen. Julio Sacoto Montero. They threatened force if the demand was not met. Jacome Chavez had been fired Tuesday as head of Ecuador's War Academy.

Fifty academy officers who supported him were reported detained in barracks.

Before the capitulation, Jacome Chavez had claimed support of the army's airborne battalion and "military units throughout the country with the exception of one in Quito."

FIRE BASE HIT . . . . . ROCKET BARRAGE

Reds Drive Out S. Viets

SAIGON (AP) — A North Vietnamese regiment crossed from Laos into South Vietnam's central highlands and in a furious assault drove Saigon's troops out of a frontier fire base, the South Vietnamese Command reported today.

Continuing an upsurge of offensive action that began Sunday, apparently in relaliation for the South Vietnamese invasion of Laos, the North Vietnamese also unleashed a barrage of 500 rockets against two other artillery bases close to the Laotian border.

Meanwhile, a South Vietnamese commando force returned from an overnight raid on a North Vietnamese base on the Ho Chi Minh trail six miles inside Laos. The 26-hour operation apparently produced only minor results, with the South Vietnamese destroying some ammunition and fuel but failing to engage the North Vietnamese.

DAWN ATTACK

The North Vietnamese attack on the Firebase No. 6 began at dawn Wednesday with rocket and recoilless rifle bombardments. This was followed by a ground assault by the veteran 28th North Vietnamese Regiment.

The attacking force, estimated at more than 2,000 men, penetrated the base several times and forced out its two companies of South Vietnamese, said a spokesman for the South Vietnamese command, Lt.-Col. Le Trung Hein.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION MAY END SATURDAY

The legislative session is expected to end Friday or Saturday after a record number of sittings.

Work left to be done includes approval of Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi's spending estimates, salaries of the ministers without portfolio and miscellaneous other votes as well as committee debate and third reading for as many as 12 bills.

If the house progrogues Friday afternoon the legislature will have had 77 separate sittings. The previous high of 75 was in 1968.

Pakistan Launches 'All-Out Offensive'

NEW DELHI (Reuter) — Pakistan military forces have launched an all-out offensive against the followers of East Pakistan secessionist leader Sheik Mujibur Rahman in five cities and towns of East Pakistan, All-India Radio reported today.

And in Islamabad, Pakistan, a foreign office spokesman said today armed Indians have infiltrated border areas of East Pakistan. He said the authorities in East Pakistan are "fully alive to the needs of the situations and are taking the necessary steps to meet it adequately."

But official sources in New Delhi denied the Pakistan allegation.

All-India Radio, quoting reports reaching Calcutta from across the border, said the Pakistan army, navy and air force offensive is aimed at Mujib's followers in the capital of Dacca, the port city of Chittagong and in Comilla, Rangour and Bogra.

The reports quoted by the radio said the offensive was intensified following the arrival of more troops from West Pakistan.

The radio quoted another report reaching the Indian border town of Shillong, saying the West Pakistan army early today launched a heavy attack on the East Pakistani area around Cherrapunji.

Heavy gunfights between West Pakistani soldiers and East Pakistani riflemen were reported south of the Cherrapunji hills, the radio said.

Delayed reports reaching Kishanganj on the Bihar state border said the town of Dinajpur, in East Pakistan, was recaptured by Sheik Mujib's followers Wednesday, All-India Radio reported.

There was no confirmation here of London reports that Sheik Mujib, leader of the outlawed Awami League, has

Calley Term Draws Flood of Protests

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — Thousands of telegrams and telephone calls flooded the White House Wednesday and today in the wake of the conviction and sentencing of Lt. William Calley for the My Lai massacre.

Support for Calley, sentenced to life in prison, was running almost 100 to 1 against the conviction, officials said.

Calley, 27, was spared the death penalty Wednesday by the same military jury which convicted him Monday of the murder of 22 Vietnamese men, women and children.

The sentence will be subject to automatic review through a procedure that could take at least a year and possible as long as five years.

After exhausting its remedies within the military judicial system, as high as the U.S. Court of Military Appeals, the defence would have recourse to civil courts.

President Nixon could at any time pardon Calley or reduce his sentence, although there has been no indication he would do so.

At Fort Benning, Calley's civilian defence lawyer, George Latimer, said: "Lieut. Calley was relieved when the court martial sentenced him to life — he got the best of two terrible penalties."

There were two verdicts available to the jury — death, presumably by hanging, or life imprisonment. The life

Chinese 'Spitting' On Soviet Experience

MOSCOW (Reuter) — China has not escaped sharp criticism at the 24th Soviet Communist party congress despite the olive branch offered to Peking this week by party leader Leonid Brezhnev.

One of Brezhnev's senior lieutenants, Pyotr Masherov, said Wednesday Chinese leaders are "spitting" on Soviet experience in the creation of communism.

This was the sharpest retort yet to Peking press attacks on Moscow just before the congress began this week, at which China is not represented.

Masherov's broadside came just a day after Brezhnev, in a keynote address to the 5,000 delegates, offered to re-establish friendship and good-neighbor relations with Peking.

Gaglardi 'To Name' Welfare Abusers

In a drive against welfare fraud, the provincial rehabilitation department is circulating "names of persons who have defrauded or appear likely to do so to all offices for checking."

The policy was revealed in a report to the legislature released today by Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi.

It does not say how the department arrives at the names of persons likely to defraud the department.

FRAUD ON INCREASE

Figures in the report say that charges of fraud against individuals rose from 75 in all of the 1968-70 fiscal year to 100 in the period from October, 1970, to February, 1971.

The total amount alleged to have been defrauded in the October to February period was $88,855 and 91 of the 180 persons were convicted on a total amount of $53,341.

The percentage of convictions for the year ending March 31, 1970 was much higher. A total of 56 of the charges resulted in convictions totalling $34,340.

The figures were expected to come in for close study today during debate on Gaglardi's spending estimates.

CBC Workers Terminate Walkout

TORONTO (CP) — All employees were scheduled to be back to work today in CBC centres across Canada following a brief walkout by television production employees at some centres Wednesday, a corporation spokesman said. No programming was affected.

He said mediation talks at Montreal between representatives of the CBC and the Canadian Union of Public Employees broke off at 6 a.m. this morning.

"The negotiators will get some sleep and be back at the bargaining table at 3 p.m.," he said.

A CUPE official said the talks were proceeding satisfactorily but still were a long way from reaching a conclusion. The union spokesman said earlier the men left their jobs to protest the protracted talks in Montreal.

A promise by the CBC to work for an early contract settlement lured the men back.

Guy Coderre, vice-president of administration for the CBC, "advised the union that the CBC is willing to continue negotiations immediately in hopes of an early settlement," the CUPE official said.

About 1,600 employees were involved across Canada, including 600 in Toronto. Affected were studios in all cities with CBC facilities except Halifax.

Ford Offers 32.4 Per Cent Pay Raise

LONDON (AP) — A pay raise of 32.4 per cent over two years, to settle Ford of Britain's two-month-long strike dismayed the British government Thursday.

The deal shatters the ceiling the government has tried to impose on wage increases in its battle to contain inflation.

Over the winter months Prime Minister Heath's government withstood strikes and go-slows in vital public sectors of industry including power and postal workers to keep pay increases down about the 10-per cent mark.

A two-year contract offered by Ford Wednesday to its 48,000 striking labor force provides a raise of 16 to 17 per cent on basic rates in the first year, and 32.4 per cent over two years.

Second Round Begins in Oil Tanker Fight

By JOHN MIKA
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Commons special committee on environmental pollution today picked itself up off the floor to fight the proposed Alaskan oil tanker route again.

The committee authorized chairman David Anderson to arrange for expert witnesses to be brought here from the West Coast later this month and to renew its request for permission to travel to Victoria and Vancouver about the end of next month to hold public hearings. (See also Page 3.)

The action was taken at a post-mortem meeting this morning to decide what to do as a result of the Commons' shelving two weeks ago the committee's plans to hold hearings in Vancouver and Victoria this week.

Anderson was blamed by some members for mishandling the presentation to the Commons and he also was criticized for publicly blaming all MPs from B.C. for the earlier failure. The Liberal backbencher apologized to the committee.

"I'm quite cheerful because the committee hasn't given up on this after all," Anderson said after the meeting.

"The criticisms were fair enough and perhaps I should have done things differently but I don't have all the answers."

He said he hopes to have the first experts from both the Canadian and U.S. sides of the Georgia Gulf-Puget Sound area testifying before the committee about April 26 or 27. They likely would be oceanographers, biologists and mariners.

"These are the kinds of people who can tell us what the dangers of oil spills are in those waters, where the currents would take the oil and what it would do to the oyster industry and so on," he said.

"After those witnesses are heard here, we'll reword our request to take the committee to the West Coast for two or three days for hearings on the spot. I'd say the target date for doing that now would be June 1."

Anderson said the committee's second travel request would have better chances of succeeding because of the public reaction to his humiliation in the Commons when his effort to get the original motion through was blocked by all parties and only committee vice-chairman Philip Givens supported him.

"We'll try the motion again and try harder this time with more lobbying for it in advance," he said.

"But the real lobbying has been done already by the people in B.C. who have been writing lots of letters to the prime minister and the government House leader (Allan MacEachen).

"They (letter writers) have changed the attitude around here so that I think the chances of success next time will be higher."

more grain vessels were at anchor in the harbor.

There is a total of 22 ships in the harbor, Duncan said.

"There are only 6 million bushels of grain in the port's elevators, compared with a normal storage of 16 million bushels, because the grain just hasn't been coming in."

No grain has been loaded for shipment to the Orient since Monday.

In Ottawa Prime Minister Trudeau declined today to say whether emergency legislation will be introduced in the Commons to avert a strike or halt one if it starts Monday.

"I couldn't say at this point," Trudeau told a reporter before entering a cabinet meeting.

ORDERED BACK IN 1966

The government ordered workers back to work after a seven-day strike in 1966.

The regular weekly cabinet meeting was to hear a report on the situation from Mackasey, the prime minister said.

An emergency Commons debate today was considered a distinct possibility.

The agreement reached today between the railways and non-operating employees must go to the membership of the eight unions involved.

Dick Smith, chairman of the non-ops negotiating committee, said ballots will be mailed as soon as they can be prepared and results are expected in three to four weeks.

TWO-YEAR PACT

Terms of the proposed two-year contract, calling for a eight-per-cent pay increase retroactive to Jan. 1 and a further seven per cent Jan. 1, 1972, were announced at a news conference by Smith.

The settlement also provides for an improved job security program and improvements in sickness, vacation and holiday benefits.

The settlement was in line with an agreement reached last December by the railways and seven shop-craft unions representing 20,000 employees.

The shop-craft group, representing tradesmen such as machinists, electrical workers, plumbers and sheet metal workers, also settled for increases of eight per cent and seven per cent over two years.

The shop-craft settlement brought the hourly rate for top mechanics to about $4.30 from $3.50 after two years.

There was no immediate estimate of the hourly increase the agreement would give non-operating employees, who now earn an average of $3.20 an hour.

BEGAN TALKS NOV. 1

Talks between the railways and the non-ops began Nov. 1, two months before the old contract expired.

In addition to the pay increases, the non-op settlement provided for:

- Company-paid life insurance of $4,500 for each employee, up from the present $3,000.
- A $500 paid-up life insurance policy on retirement.
- Weekly indemnity benefits of about $80 a week, up from the present $60.
- Medical and surgical payments by the railways of $11.50 a month for married employees and $5.50 for single employees, except in Quebec where a flat payment of $10 a month will be made for each employee.
- Ten statutory holidays annually, starting in 1972, compared with nine under the previous contract.
- Three weeks of paid vacation after eight years instead of 10 years.
- Five weeks of paid vacation after 30 years.

been arrested and flown to Lahore in West Pakistan.

The Indian government was reported pursuing diplomatic efforts to focus world attention on what it called "the massacre of innocent people" in East Pakistan.

Informed sources here said the Indian government was in touch with the United States and the Soviet Union both here and in Washington and Moscow.

PASS RESOLUTION

Both houses of the Indian Parliament unanimously passed resolutions Wednesday expressing sympathy with the people of "East Bengal."

A Lahore radio report, monitored here today, said the Pakistan government took a "very serious view" of the Indian Parliament's declaration of solidarity with the people of East Pakistan and said this was "blatant interference in the internal affairs of Pakistan."

Radio Pakistan said Wednesday night peaceful conditions have been restored and East Pakistan is preparing to resume normal economic activity.

But it admitted for the first time that large numbers of refugees have fled from East Pakistan—presumably to the west— and now are asking for facilities to return.

The radio also said the situation is returning to normal in Chittagong, repudiating Free Bengal Radio claims that the port had been wrecked.

Students Condemn Secret Meeting

A student steering committee at the University of Victoria this morning criticized the administration and some 40 full professors for not making public the results of a crucial meeting Wednesday night to discuss a contract and tenure dispute involving three faculty members.

A spokesman for the committee, struck by the Alma Mater Society said the professors had refused comment on ground they had been sworn to secrecy about the meeting.

"This is not acceptable in an academic community," a steering committee statement said.

"The professors last night abandoned their academic principles and responsibilities; by accepting secrecy imposed by the president they are participants in his campaign to ruin this university as a qualified and credible academic institution.

'DIVIDE FACULTY'

"They and he have collaborated to discredit and divide the faculty and to disgrace and destroy this university."

It is believed Uvic president Bruce Partridge came up with a plan for an internal tribunal to hear the cases of Dr. Tikam Jain, Dr. William Goede and Toby Graff.

The Canadian Association of University Teachers, which has investigated the cases, has stated strongly it believes only an extrernal tribunal could deliver an impartial decision.

The student steering committee also attacked the CAUT's actions in the dispute in a statement addressed to organization president Dr. Gordin Kaplan.

"It is inconceivable that CAUT would stall, make concessions, and play games with people's lives and careers while professing to help.

'DISGUSTED'

"We are disgusted, disillusioned and angry, and we demand that you release any information that Partridge conveys to you immediately upon receipt.

"If CAUT goes along with the confidentiality game then CAUT will be ruined across the country on every campus."

sentence carries the possibility of parole after 10 years.

The sparing of Calley's life was expected to ease to some degree the nation-wide furore over his conviction.

It took the jury of six combat veterans 13 days to convict Calley. They deliberated his sentence a total of five hours, 58 minutes.

BREATHES DEEP SIGH

He breathed a deep sigh when he heard the words, "to be confined at hard labor for the length of your natural life." It meant he would not hear the death sentence.

In addition, the jury sentenced him to dismissal from the service and to forfeit all pay and allowances. His monthly pay was $773.10.

Calley was the first American to be convicted in the aftermath of My Lai, where American infantrymen had expected to find a Viet Cong battalion.

Several hours after the sentencing, Latimer visited Calley at the stockade and said he found the young officer depressed.

Latimer said that since there is no bail procedure under military law, he had requested that Gen. Orwin Talbott, commanding general of Fort Benning, release Calley on his own recognizance.

Latimer said Talbott told him he would consider the request and reply in the next day or so.

Indian Ritual Shown On Videotape

University of Victoria students Wednesday night saw the videotape recording of an Indian ritual revived last winter after 80 years.

Filmed by Arnold and Diana Recalma of Qualicum Beach at the opening of a Nimpkish village in the Nass River Valley, it was one of the first public showings of the tape.

Their tape of the Aiyanish ritual will become part of an Indian resource library at the University of B.C.

Missing Pilot's Body Discovered

CAMPBELL RIVER — The body of a former operations manager of Victoria Flying Services was found Wednesday on the west side of Thurlow Island.

Gordon Andrew Jeune, 39, moved to Campbell River two years ago to join Trans-Mountain Air Service Ltd.

The jacket of his passenger, Hubert Gerald Young, 36, also of Campbell River, was found in four feet of water across the channel from the island near Grismond Point.

The search continues for Young. An equipment operator at Eena Logging Company at Grassy Creek, he was believed to be returning to Grassy Creek after a few days off in the float-equipped Cessna 180 piloted by Jeune.

Jeune is survived by his wife, Shirley, and four children.

His body was recovered by an armed forces helicopter, one of several aircraft in the search.

AMS President Survives Vote

Almer Mater Society president Ian J. McKinnon survived another non-confidence motion Wednesday at the Uiversity of Victoria.

McKinnon narrowly won by 60 votes at a general meeting of the society which drew some 600 students.

The vote, by division and with no official count, was about 330 to 270.

Russell Freethy, a third year arts student, charged McKinnon with doing everything in his power to hinder the activities of the student steering committee concerned over a Uvic contract and tenure dispute involving 12 teachers.

McKinnon defended himself by saying he would push for Partridge's resignation as president of the university.

Deterioration 'Inevitable'

A recent meeting of Vancouver Island Socred party members was warned by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell that higher property taxes and deteriorating municipal services are inevitable without joint negotiations of civic employee contracts.

And Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis repeated his council's opposition to the idea today, suggesting Campbell hasn't looked at the problem very closely.

The Socred meeting last weekend was closed to press and public but sources said Campbell blamed parochial municipal attitudes for most of the increasing expensive contracts negotiated with civic employees.

The minister is reported to have told the 100 or so party members present that unless municipalities unite in an effort to check above-average wage demands, taxes must rise and services be reduced.

Curtis said Saanich council recently considered the question of joint bargaining once again and "there was a strong view we have far more to lose for our taxpayers than to gain."

All signs suggest joint bargaining would eventually mean a joint contract. That's just what the unions want, said Curtis, a master contract preferably covering all of B.C. and pegged to the highest existing wage rates.

Saanich this year successfully resisted paying the higher rates won by municipal employees up-island, he noted.

WOMAN LAY ON FLOOR FOUR DAYS

A woman believed to have been lying on the floor of her apartment for four days is in fair condition today in St. Joseph's Hospital after being found Tuesday by another tenant.

Mrs. Constance Knowles, 77, of 1149 Hilda, was found by upstairs tenant Sean Lees, 21.

Lees, police said, was concerned because he had not seen Mrs. Knowles since late last week and obtained keys to her suite to check on her safety.

Nature of the woman's illness is not known.

$1 Million Donated, Returned

SEATTLE (AP) — Children, pensioners, small investors and corporate chiefs, angry and sometimes tearful over death of the supersonic transport, have volunteered $1 million to the Boeing Co. to resurrect the program.

The flood of unsolicited contributions and pledges in the week since the government turned thumbs down on continued SST financing is heartening but futile, the aerospace firm says.

A million dollars, Boeing says, amounts to one-fifth of one per cent of the $1 billion it estimates is needed to complete the prototype.

The correspondence ranges from a youngster's neatly block-lettered note to typewritten copy under corporation letterheads.

Some contain money. Other letters offer suggestions for continuing SST development, such as sale of stock or bonds and public subscription drives.

ANSWERS LETTERS

Boeing answers each person, whether he sent a letter scrawled on dime-store notepaper with a dollar bill attached or a telegram offerings $50,000. Boeings also returns the money.

But some refuse to be discouraged.

A retired 88-year-old Redmond, Wash., man sent a dollar bill inscribed to the SST and got a new one from Boeing in return.

Undaunted, he fired back a letter — and a second dollar bill.

A letter in a child's printing two inches high enclosed a dollar "to help keep the SST in America."

"Please keep America first," the writer said, "so I can be proud and free when I grow up."

A Peekshill, N.Y., man mailed in a $100 cheque.

"Since I am currently in the service," he wrote, "I cannot afford more than this amount, but I trust you can make good use of this to redevelop your SST plans."

A Boeing spokesman said the offers are unprecedented.

Anderson Continues Anti-Tanker Fight

By JOHN MIKA
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Like the possibility of Alaskan oil tankers along the West Coast, embattled backbencher David Anderson just won't fade away — much as some of his Liberal party cohorts may wish for it.

He'll be in Vancouver talking up the issue this weekend and in an interview here he said he still hopes to take his Commons environmental committee to B.C. for on-the-spot hearings of potential dangers from tanker spills.

The Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal MP will deliver a Saturday night speech in the Bayshore Inn to wind up the Pipeline Contractors Association of Canada convention.

DEVELOP PROCESS

Anderson's theme will be the need for developing a decision-making process which considers ecological as well as economic aspects in any major construction program.

He'll tell the pipeline contractors this would relieve them of responsibility should a disaster strike an approved project.

Sunday afternoon he'll move over to the campus auditorium at the University of B.C. to be the lead-off speaker in simulated hearings by the B.C. Environmental Council on the oil spill threat to the lower B.C. coastline posed by the oil tanker proposal of the Aleyska consortium of oil companies exploiting the Prudhoe Bay field.

The private organization set up the meetings after the Commons shelved the motion by Anderson, as chairman, to authorize the House committee to travel to the coast for public hearings.

Anderson will tell the conservation group that it's vital to document the likelihood and type of environmental risks posed by the tanker proposal, determine how they can be minimized and how damage can be lessened in event of mishaps.

"The chances of my committee being sent out to do that necessary job are not good but they're not entirely dead yet," he said.

"The motion was only deferred and not rejected outright and there still are a few flickers of life in it.

"The main thing is that there will be a joint Canada-U.S. committee discussion about this whole subject of pipelines so it is still very much in Canada's interests that we have a large amount of information from experts outside of government put on the record before that joint group meets.

"Public hearings by the environmental pollution committee still are the best, and virtually the only, way of getting that information on the record and for that it would be best to go out there so the local experts and citizens could be heard."

Oil Firm Halts Payments To Bay Bird Care Centre

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Standard Oil Co. has halted payments to a bird care centre set up after an oil spill in San Francisco Bay on grounds it had already spent more than $400 per surviving bird.

The company said it had given the Richmond Bird Care Centre $150,000 since Jan. 18, when two of the firm's tankers collided and dumped 840,000 gallons of oil in the bay.

The centre, operated by a group of young people at a University of California warehouse, still has 305 birds.

The youthful volunteers say the waterfowl are surviving on "love" and hundreds of dollars of sardines and shrimp being handfed them.

The California fish and game department recommended that the birds be taken to the San Francisco Zoo, where many other birds caught in the oil spill are being treated.

But the Richmond centre said its "intensive care methods" have resulted in a 26 per cent survival rate, although it has released only 27 of the 1,332 birds brought in after the oil spill as "rehabilitated".

The centre has asked for public support — $700 a day worth.

58 Americans Killed in Combat

SAIGON (AP) — The United States command reported today that 58 Americans were killed in combat last week and 542 were wounded. It was the highest U.S. death toll in a month and the largest number of wounded in six months.

South Vietnamese headquarters also announced an increase in casualties this week, with 756 killed and 1,726 wounded. But the commands reported a sharp reduction in Communist casualties, with 3,574 reported killed, more than 2,000 less than the 5,819 reported the week before.

The U.S. casualties did not include the 33 American soldiers killed and 76 wounded early Sunday in the North Vietnamese attack on Fire Base Mary Ann.

The U.S. command said American casualties for the war now total 44,788 dead, 296,911 wounded and 9,386 dead from non-hostile causes.

Magazines Banned

SAIGON (Reuter) — The latest issues of the U.S. weekly magazines Newsweek and Time have been banned from circulating in South Vietnam, it was officially announced. A government spokesman said the ban referred to the April 5 issues of both magazines. He said the ban had been imposed because of articles alleged to be harmful to national security.

DALLAS — Police Chief Frank Dyson used the police radio network Wednesday night to announce to officers that he had promoted Director William Fulgham to assistant police chief. A voice from out on the network replied: "God help us all." Dyson, furious, ordered an immediate search for the culprit.

NEW YORK — Bob Denver, star of the televison program, Gilligan's Island, won an uncontested divorce Wednesday from his wife Jane on ground of abandonment. Dever told New York State Supreme Court that his wife had refused to share his bed since June, 1968. They were married in September, 1967. Mrs. Denver waived alimony.

SALERNO, Italy — Italians expressed outrage Wednesday over the case of American actor William Berger who spent nearly eight months in jail awaiting trial on drug charges and then was acquitted in a one-day trial. The first action of the 43-year-old actor after being acquitted Tuesday was to visit the grave of his wife, actress Caroline Lobravico, who died in a prison hospital last October while awaiting trial on the same charges. Berger was allowed to see her once — in handcuffs — and he refused to attend her funeral in the same manner.

LONDON — The Soviet Union protested to Britain Wednesday over the case of a Soviet diplomat involved in a toy store hassle about a Mickey Mouse kaleidoscope. "It was a frameup," charged Stanislav Semenko, a first secretary at the Soviet embassy. The diplomatic incident flared when the embassy's second secretary, Ivan Kulikov, 40, was hotly pursued down a London street Tuesday amid cries of "Stop thief!" According to sources, Kulikov looked at a $12 kaleidoscope in the store. An assistant questioned him. Kulikov fled.

LITTLE WALTHAM, England — Winton Goodchild forgave his dog Wednesday for biting to death his 19-month-old daughter and said the large hound only did so because it was "slightly jealous." He said he had no intention of destroying Blackie, a part Alsatian who jumped into Sarah Jane Goodchild's crib Monday and bit her on the face, back and legs. "I know the dog will never strike again," said Goodchild, 35. "I think it was slightly jealous at the attention the baby got. This is a terrible tragedy for our family, but we feel we would suffer even more if we had the dog destroyed."

The Hostages

THE NATION-WIDE RAILWAY strike now getting under way brings Canada face to face with a now familiar problem. The geographical nature of this country — a coast-to-coast strip which still finds railway transportation an essential ingredient of its economic life — makes a rail strike a blow of universal proportions. No part of the nation, whether directly dependent on railway transportation or not, can remain untouched by a lengthy shut-down.

The loss, to the business of the country, the consumers and the railway workers themselves, can never be fully made up. The government must therefore decide how long it can refrain from intervening in the labor-management dispute to restore the rail traffic which is Canada's lifeline.

Labor Minister Makasey has declined to intervene in the negotiations at this point, on the grounds that it is premature. But he has made it known that he is exerting pressure on both sides to come to a quick decision at the negotiating table.

The railway engineers have a major argument which should carry weight in the negotiations — they have been working for a year without a contract. This should not have been allowed to happen in such a vital public utility, regardless of the reasons. There should have been no disposition on either side to gamble with the country's economic security by delaying what obviously would have to be done sooner or later.

But the existence of a strike in such a vital industry again emphasizes that a modern country cannot afford such a development every few years; no essential service should have to live under the threat of strike or lockout. Clearly, relinquishment of strike rights by workers in such occupations should be balanced by arrangements for negotiation and settlement which would make such a costly weapon unnecessary. In the end, agreement is always reached. Why must it be wrung from the inconvenience and hardship of millions of Canadians who in effect become hostages to the negotiations?

We have achieved miracles in medicine, science, technology and other activities. But we still drag a medieval anchor in the sea of industrial labor relationships. We would not travel on trains which were built to engineering standards on the level of our standards of efficiency in industrial negotiation. We would quickly do something about improving the former. When do we do something constructive about the latter?

"All Aboard!"

Biochem Ban

New York Times

Senator Frank Church has chosen the lesser of two evils in proposing that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee send back to the White House for "clarification" the Geneva Protocol banning chemical and biological weapons.

To delay further in ratifying the Protocol, which the United States sponsored at Geneva in 1925 and which all other major powers have ratified, would be to perpetuate a national disgrace.

But it would be even more disgraceful for the Senate to pervert the Protocol by ratifying the document as the Administration has presented it—with the "understanding" that it does not forbid the use of tear gas and herbicides. This interpretation is completely at odds with the views of the majority of nations as expressed in a resolution adopted by an 80-to-3 vote of the United Nations General Assembly in 1969.

The Federation of American Scientists has succinctly observed that the Administration's reservations on the Geneva Protocol are "highly questionable legally, absurd politically, repugnant morally, and foolish strategically." In attempting to justify the continuing use of tear gas and herbicides in Vietnam, where these loathsome weapons appear to have had only marginal military utility at best, the White House has invited the censure of the world. It has risked undermining the barrier against more lethal chemicals which American statesmen wisely sought to erect at Geneva after World War I had exposed the full horror of gas warfare.

Patent Law Proposals to Help the Consumer

THE recommendations of the economic council with respect to patents, trade marks, copyrights and registered industrial design are very much in the consumer interest and provide an interesting test for the government. It has been demonstrated within the past year that the government is capable of swift action when satisfied that industry requires more effective protection. To take an obvious example, assistance did not wait on the passage of legislation in the recent textile case. With the bill still under cabinet consideration, Mr. Pepin took interim action, imposing the shirt tax and setting up his board.

Western

The sense of urgency evident in this matter presumably arises in the department of industry, certainly not in the economic council which does its best to advise government and has reported that effective protection of Canadian industry is in fact greater than is generally supposed.

Invisible but Painful

Patent reform, while preserving an incentive to innovation, would strike at the privately constructed protective systems which operate, more formidably than old-fashioned tariffs, to maintain artificially high prices in this country. Such systems are invisible to the consumer although the results are at times so painfully obvious as to arouse protests. A particular target of criticism at one time was the Canadian radio patents pool. More recently there was an outcry — so general that it produced a legislative response about patented drugs.

But this was exceptional. The general record in respect to patents speaks for itself.

As far back as 1954, the government appointed a royal commission headed by J. L. Ilsley, a judge with a long and brilliant record in public affairs, to inquire into this subject. The commission, after exhaustive study, duly reported in 1959. Now, 12 years later, we have another report similar in spirit from the economic council. Referring to the earlier investigation in this field, the council says: "however, most of the commission's recommendations were not incorporated in the legislation and the act of 1935 is today largely unchanged, despite the vast changes which have taken place in the economy in the last 35 years."

Is it unfair to suggest that, in matters affecting the consumer, governments act with something less than supersonic speed?

There seems to be a conviction among our rulers that what we don't see, we won't worry about.

It is possible in a brief space only to convey the general tenor of a report. The primary point is, however, that a patent provides the owner with the right to allow only persons he chooses to produce or to sell the product. This power can be used to impose an absolute veto on imports, useful in sheltering inefficient domestic production. Again, patent protection makes it possible for goods to be imported but sold in Canada at prices significantly higher than those charged in other countries where patent protection exists.

Our law recognizes the possibility of abuse and describes six situations in which the commissioner may impose remedies. In theory, there are two forms of remedial action. One is revocation of the patent, but this has never been invoked. The other is compulsory licensing. This involves a legal process averaging two years and so expensive that most applications are abandoned or withdrawn.

Domestic Protection

A difficulty is that the six situations are to be judged in light of the guiding principle that patents must be worked in Canada. "When the public interest is deemed to be damaged because the patentee is supplying the Canadian market by imports, the commissioner may decide, regardless of cost considerations, to allow the licensee to shut out these foreign goods so that domestic production can be initiated."

"Public interest," as the council notes, is limited in the philosophy of the act to the securing of commercial production in Canada although this may or may not contribute to the public welfare.

Changes proposed by the council are far-reaching. Thus:

"The main purpose . . . would be to prevent a patentee from using the Canadian patent system as a means of assisting any international price discrimination to Canada's disadvantage — i.e. from charging an unjustifiably higher price in Canada than in other countries where he has patent protection. It would also serve to discourage future use of the Canadian patent system as a trade barrier behind which to set up high-cost internationally noncompetitive production in Canada."

The council favors general compulsory licensing; that is to say all patents would normally become eligible for an automatic non-exclusive licence to manufacture in Canada five years after the date of application. It is critical of existing law which places the commissioner in the position of acting in arbitrary fashion to satisfy conflicting requirements. It proposes a new broad criterion. The commissioner shall "have regard to the desirability of making the patented article or article made by the patented process available to the public at the lowest possible cost consistent with giving to the inventor and his associates due reward for the once-for-all research and other innovation costs involved in bringing the product to the market."

By way of guidance to the commissioner, the council proposes a basic royalty rate, set out in legislation or regulations, subject to certain adjustments and open to appeal on specific grounds.

Such changes would probably produce salutary results from the standpoint of the Canadian consumer. The government took proper action in the case of drugs. There is before it now a very much wider matter on which the public has been awaiting action for a dozen years.

Which Comes First?

THROUGH SOME POLITICAL alchemy Victoria's acquisition of the Ocean Cement Co. property on the Inner Harbor has apparently become indissolubly wedded to the Reid hotel and apartment concept proposed for a site northward on Wharf Street. The original linkage was Mr. Reid's stand — and it was a logical one — that he would not proceed with his project unless the Ocean Cement property became, as planned, a park. But now the reverse of this concept seems to have taken over, in that, if the money to make the property into a park is received, then automatically, the Reid proposal will go ahead. That is not a valid syllogism.

Acquisition of the money and creation of the park do not mean that we are thereby committed to construction of the Reid complex. There is much more involved than the mere raising of a building. The Reid plan entails an addition to Wharf Street which could change the complexion of the whole area, seriously affect the city's westward outlook, and open the way to a downtown district of high-rise buildings in a style to which many Victorians object, as not being in the best interests of the community.

In our eagerness to have the Wharf Street area development proceed — and what has City Council done about it in the last two years except wait for this one single proposal to emerge — let us not grab at a plan which could change the environment of the city core to its detriment. With one of the finest natural locations in the world, Victoria should be an open city, not one turned in upon itself by super-tall construction.

Mr. Rod Clack, the man who designed Centennial Square and Bastion Square and now plays a leading part in planning the nation's capital, took a dim view of Wharf Street high-rise construction on his recent visit here, on the basis of its lack of harmony with the outstandingly attractive Causeway environment. It would be only common sense to have Mr. Reid meet the city's environmental requirements, rather than vice versa.

Discards

ALTHOUGH THERE IS SPECULATION that appeals may take as much as five more years before a final judgment is made, this week's disposition of the sordid, obscenity-ridden Manson case in California should give the public at least a respite.

Few criminal cases have matched the terrible details of this incredible story of casual murder and bestial enjoyment of it. The overtones of the drug cult, patriarchal community living and complete individual divorcement from everything with which modern society, with all its faults, has tried to enhance human dignity and humane appreciation of life, gave the court revelations a bizarre atmosphere of sick fantasy.

In so far as these twisted lives may be typical of a growing segment of the population, the United States has a grotesque social problem in its midst. Devoid of moral sense, of inhibitions, of humane feeling, and filled instead with a weird philosophy of anarchic slogans, these products of broken homes and stunted childhoods appear to be lost beyond recall.

They are at once a reproach and a danger to society, for unlike authentic protestants they offer no remedies, unlike true reformers they hold out no hope of improvement.

Correspondence From Our Readers

Not Her Theatre

In her "Sounding Board" article of March 27, Audrey Johnson does not answer her own question as to which aspect of the work of a theatre department is most valid and lasting, but from her phraseology she seems to be suggesting that its most valuable undertaking consists of "the enriching of the educational field through the training of young men and women to work creatively with children and adolescents" i.e. that it should be purely educational and further that it should educate people mainly in education technique.

I would contest this. I think the main work of a theatre department is to train people to be good artists of various kinds with an acute sense of quality and excellence in their field and I think that an important part of this process consists of putting them in contact with frequent examples of excellent theatre. This, it seems to me, the theatre department in its summer fair productions eminently does, and without the appearance of lavish expenditure that Audrey Johnson imputes to them.

If I were a student with a choice of major before me and my only experience of theatre were developmental drama, I should certainly look for another field more stimulating to the imagination. — Norma Rowen, Department of English, University of Victoria.

Developmental Drama

My position has been basically stated in "Sounding Board" by Audrey Johnson (page 15, in the March 27 Times). I would like to add, as head of the education students taking Developmental Drama committee, something we stated in our presentation to Dean Tyler, in our concern for the future of Developmental Drama.

"We regard Creative Drama (the Ed. name for D.D.) as one of the most beneficial course areas we have been exposed to in preparation for our teaching careers. As such we feel Creative Drama should continue to be offered as a teaching area."

We also stated in defence of Developmental Drama staying within the theatre complex that "Much is gained by Education students from their association with people in the theatre department. Interaction with these people has been beneficial for us in enhancing our knowledge of "productions," something which we will doubtless be exposed to as teachers, especially when one of our major teaching areas contains the word "Drama."

I would like to see Developmental Drama continue at Uvic, but with the present dichotomy of philosophies between the two factors, I doubt very much that Developmental Drama will continue for long at this university. — Michael D. Miller, 27-year-old 2nd year El. Ed.

Maternal and Indulgent?

Is it because Mrs. Audrey Johnson has watched amateur dramatics for many years with an indulgent and maternal eye that:

1. She confuses Mr. Courtney's superb performance as martyr with reality, despite the fact that his negotiations with the University of Calgary have been going on for some months?

2. She prefers work in progress to polished performance and stimulating interpretation?

Does she maintain in all seriousness that the training of teachers of self-expression has a more important place in a university department of theatre (not education) than the study and production of recognized and recognizable drama? And does she believe that a completed project is "window-dressing" for a course of study?

If this is indeed her point of view, perhaps she should be given a different kind of assignment in the future, from that of theatre critic. If it is not, then I fear she is reprehensibly self-indulgent or misinformed. — Jennifer R. Walters, Department of French Language and Literature, University of Victoria.

Questions

As a taxpayer, parent and graduate of Victoria College, I should like to support Audrey Johnson's plea for answers to certain questions concerning the administration of the University of Victoria. Since the university is a public institution, operated by large amounts of taxpayers' money, surely the public has a right to ask for and be given the administrators' reasons for their actions which have given rise to so much student unrest.

In particular I should like to know why when the university has been fortunate enough to acquire certain first-rate teachers, they are being dismissed or not retained? Why are promising programs not being developed? Is "shortage of funds" the real reason?

As Mrs. Johnson has pointed out, our university has the opportunity of becoming outstanding, particularly in the field of fine arts. That it has apparently forfeited this opportunity is not only most disappointing to many students and their parents but will be a loss to the whole community. — Gertrude B. Williams, 3140 Campion.

For Love of the Game

Jack Scott's article "On bringing back a civilized game" struck me as a gust of fresh air after being subjected to what we term as sport here in Canada and in North America.

I do not play cricket now and in fact I was never a very enthusiastic cricketer but I am very interested in amateur sport, especially rugby which is played for the sake of the game and not for the monetary interest. Here in Victoria and in fact on the Island rugby players pay to belong to rugby clubs and to play rugby without any thought of money and in consequence we provide an amateur sport which is a delight to those truly interested in sport and not in money.

Our referees work without any monetary reward and we provide coaches for the schools without any charge. Rugby like cricket and grass hockey is one of the few remaining amateur games in the world and I feel like your writer Jack Scott that the world has lost so much in basing so-called sport on monetary gain and not the love of the game. — M. B. Wrixon, 1680 Poplar.

Looking Back

From the Times of April 1, 1911:

LONDON — Establishing a new record for the 4¼ miles from Putney to Mortlake, Oxford today won from Cambridge by 2½ boat lengths in their 67th inter-university on the Thames. The dark blues did the distance in 18 minutes and 29 seconds. The best previous record was 18.47.

The conditions today were ideal and an enormous crowd saw the light blues go down to defeat after a gallant struggle. At no time, however, was Oxford in serious danger.

'RUMORS OF WAR'

Romantic View Of FLQ Crisis

By ANTHONY WESTELL

OTTAWA —The political analysis which underlies the fashionable new book on the FLQ crisis, Rumors of War, is mostly nonsense.

Like so many other political writers, the authors — Ron Haggart and Aubrey E. Golden — find romantic theories more exciting than humdrum. Politicians for them are seldom fallible human beings proceeding by trial and error through circumstances often beyond their control; they are devious men of power working from hidden motives to planned objectives.

When it is well done, the conspiracy style of political reporting can be at least entertaining if usually misleading. Unfortunately this book is badly done, a confusing chronology of the October crisis supported by interviews with a few of the personalities involved (much the best material in the package) and concluding with an obscure analysis of why the federal government acted as it did.

It was apparently researched and written at speed to meet a publishing deadline and it seems to have been prepared in separate chapters by two authors who were not completely co-ordinated.

There is little if any new information of importance to balance against considerable misinformation and significant areas of the crisis which would merit careful enquiry — for example, the role of the media during the crisis — are largely overlooked.

What remains of interest is the judgment of the authors on the most important political question of the time: was the Trudeau government justified in invoking the War Measures Act?

It is on this central issue that the analysis is so weak and so disappointing from two reputable and experienced commentators. Their innuendoes are unfair, their facts are often non-facts, their conclusions contribute more to public confusion than to clarity.

So why bother with such a book? Because it is receiving admiring attention from ill-informed reviewers, and in particular because it was the subject of a most misleading item on CBC-TV Weekend program on Sunday. Most viewers can hardly have been aware that Barry Callaghan who purported to question Haggart about the book, in fact shares all Haggart's prejudices and had already committed himself to a vitriolic attack on Trudeau's handling of the crisis.

The misguided reviews and the one-sided TV publicity are giving wide currency to the book's addled version of the October crisis and need to be challenged.

The principal political conclusion in the book is in this passage:

"... the roundup and internment of known separatist sympathizers should have caused an upheaval of opposition among the libertarian leadership of English Canada. It did not, because English Canada had been conditioned to believe that separatism meant violence and terror, and that conditioning was completed in October of 1970. English Canadians did not have to face the issue that the War Measures Act was invoked only in small part to fight violence, and in larger part to suppress a legitimate political movement, because they had come to believe that the political movement was inherently, necessarily violent."

In other words, Trudeau used emergency powers to attempt to crush the Parti Quebecois under cover of fighting the FLQ. He plotted to smear democratic separatists with the stain of terrorism.

If this were true, it would be dreadful crime against democracy. But it is untrue and contradicted by the record.

If the cabinet had wanted to associate the PQ with the FLQ, ministers would hardly have gone around warning people precisely against making that association. Yet that is what they did.

The day after the War Measures Act was invoked, for example, Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey addressed himself to an opposition member in the Commons: "... he does not understand the difference between the FLQ, the terrorists and bandits who make up that organization, and the legitimate political party known as the Parti Quebecois of Quebec. I would sacrifice my life to see the existence of that party preserved because it is a legitimate political party ...

"When we try to equate the FLQ with the Parti Quebecois we are equating bandits, terrorists and part of an international movement with a legitimate political party in this country."

In a TV interview in English on Nov 5, Trudeau stressed that the War Measures Act had no application to democratic separatists.

On French language TV on Nov. 3, he drew a distinction between legitimate separatists and illegitimate terrorists.

One could go on quoting numerous statements by members of the cabinet making the same point, but surely it is obvious nonsense to suggest that the government deliberately sought to confuse the issue in the public mind.

▣

Elsewhere, the book makes the fundamental assumption that the Trudeau government decided to invoke emergency powers for its own devious ends and then pressed the idea upon a reluctant Quebec government.

Both Trudeau and Premier Robert Bourassa have said the opposite and no one has yet produced a line of evidence to prove them liars.

The Quebec cabinet first discussed the possible need for emergency powers on the weekend that one of its members, Pierre Laporte, was kidnapped. Bourassa raised the question with Trudeau on the phone. It was several days later before the Quebec cabinet overcame its doubts and made a formal request to Ottawa, encouraged and supported by the city of Montreal.

What is the point of trying to pretend that Trudeau took the initiative?

The third area of political confusion is less important than the first two, but indicative of the shallowness of the book. The authors devote an entire chapter to the question of whether or not Claude Ryan, editor of Le Devoir, plotted to set up a provisional government in Quebec during the crisis.

After setting the background with colorful but sometimes erroneous detail, they ask: "The adventures of the takeover plot finally came to rest on this question. Were members of the government helping to spread the rumors, caring not about their truth, as a convenient way (1) to discredit Claude Ryan, a leading Trudeau critic in Quebec and (2) to provide a romantic ex post facto justification for the War Measure Act?"

The implication in the book is that the government was guilty on both counts. But the answer to question (2) should obviously be no, the government was not using this story to justify emergency action.

Both Trudeau and Bourassa denied that rumors of a plot influenced their decision. In other words, they rejected what is alleged to be their own alibi.

Question (1) about the intention to discredit Ryan has little to do with the crisis.

It is surely high time to forget the whole unfortunate business about the alleged plot. It started in a report in the Toronto Star but was never given much credence by observers in Ottawa. It was not at any time a major factor in the situation.

▣

Does all this criticism of the book mean that Trudeau and his government were faultless in their handling of the October crisis? Not at all. It means that the authors of this book, like many other intellectuals, have laid the wrong charges.

They make the dramatically satisfying charge of conspiracy and tyranny. But their evidence is so unconvincing that the puzzled court of public opinion can only in justice find the prime minister not guilty as charged, and discharge him from responsibility.

The real charge—which has been made before in this column — is that the government was negligently unprepared to meet terrorism and confused in its response to the threat. Its tactics were so misguided that it converted a handful of fanatics into an army of guerrillas, legitimizing the FLQ, misleading the media and so undermining public confidence that it had to resort to extraordinary measures to restore order.

The public does understand this sort of charge because it expects its politicians to fumble and to make honest mistakes. On the evidence of the October crisis, it might very well convict Trudeau of mishandling its affairs.

Such books as Rumours of War blur the charge sheet by incredible dramatization.

We Have Water But How Much?

THE GLOBE AND MAIL
An Editorial

The growing demand of the United States for fresh, clean water has been sending shivers of unease up and down the Canadian backbone for years.

As we contemplate our countless lakes and streams and consider the acute shortages Americans will be facing in the near future, we are as certain that Canada will face immense pressure to make deals as we are uncertain what our reaction will be.

By 1980, if no other sources are found, the United States will be short from 50 billion to 100 billion gallons of water a year. It will not be the only country in such a predicament.

By urging the Natural Resources Committee of the United Nations to declare 1975 an International Water Development Year, Secretary-General U Thant has dramatically demonstrated the extent and urgency of the problem.

Every year, fresh water is consumed at the rate of 500 tons for each person on this planet, and, because of growing irrigation and industrial use and higher standards of living, the annual water requirement is rising sharply. Every day the world's population increases by 200,000 persons; in 1971 this population increase will create an additional water demand of 36 billion tons per year, an amount equal to the water carried during the year by a medium-sized river.

U Thant emphasizes that the amount of fresh water in the world is basically fixed and unevenly distributed. He argues that a global effort must be made to collate the experience of all nations in water resource development and water use.

He wants to see in 1975 a review of the new technologies that can be harnessed to improve availability of water for the human race. Such a review could provide the stimulus necessary for increased international co-operation.

The Secretary-General listed some of the areas that will be studied if the United Nations agrees with his recommendation: co-ordination between countries in water management procedures; relocation of water use from low-benefit to high-benefit priorities to attack waste; better water quality management, and speedier development of water transport and desalinization techniques.

The idea is sound and could be as productive as the UN International Geophysical Year. It would present Canada, which has far more fresh water than most of the nations in the world, with a particular challenge.

Since the turn of the century the Canadian Government has been charting the volume of our major rivers. At present we have about 2,200 observation posts which check river flow and there are plans to set up a couple of dozen more. We have a fairly good understanding of what our major rivers can be expected to deliver, but we are a long way from knowing the potential of our myriad minor rivers and streams.

We know, for example, that the water that flows off Canada in rivers and streams is about the world average. We suspect, although we're not sure, that we are deficient in ground water, the greatest source of fresh water. But that's about the extent of our knowledge.

The Water Survey of Canada is preparing a program that will add another 1,100 hydrometric stations and enable us to begin a data bank on our ground water supplies. But the program, if it is accepted by the Government, will triple the $7-million it costs each year to operate the present meagre hydrometric network.

Even the most optimistic estimates indicate it will be at least five years before Canadians will know with any degree of precision the limits of our fresh water supplies.

This won't be good enough if the United Nations decides to declare 1975 International Water Development Year. We will have to accelerate the quest for self-knowledge that will be essential for intelligent participation in such an immense program.

A Ringing in the Ears

By RUSSELL BAKER

If you are the parent of a 13-year-old child or even an 18-year-old brute with biceps like Max Baer, you have doubtless wondered why your telephone keeps ringing. "That is the 200th time it has rung today," you have cried aloud to an indifferent heaven. "What can they possibly have to talk about?"

To answer this question scientifically, which is the only way a vital American answers a question of this sort, or almost any other sort for that matter, an 18-year-old named Mark was introduced into a house with a telephone, and the conversations were recorded. This then, unless the transcript has been falsified, is what they have to talk about:

Mark called Jimmy to say he was in a house with a telephone and was ready to take calls. Jimmy said he would notify several people he knew.

A few minutes later Mark received a call from Theodore, who inquired how Mark was feeling. Mark said he was feeling "not too bad." He also commented on local meteorological conditions, a recorded guitar performance and the condition of the human race. This last he said, seemed less than altogether satisfactory. Theodore responded in a sympathetic vein, and then broke off the conversation, explaining that he had to call "a chick named Ulalume," who was "such a drag she's only getting 50 to 60 phone calls a day." Mark volunteered to give Ulalume a few calls, as he loved humanity, whether it was a drag or not.

* * *

Then, Mark was called by Jimmy. Jimmy gave him the number of a person named Hector who was pining for the sound of telephone bells.

Before Mark could call Hector, however, he received a call from Dave. Dave said he had heared that Mark had just had a great telephone chat with Theodore. Dave congratulated Mark and said he was proud to know him and hoped Mark would feel free to phone him (Dave) some time "when the old dialing finger feels an itch to spin the wheel of yak."

Mark then phoned Theodore to tell him of Dave's congratulatory call. He could not give Theodore a full account of that moment, he said, as he had to phone "a cat named Hector."

* * *

Before he could dial Hector, however, Mark received a telephone call from Ulalume. She asked how Mark was feeling, how deeply she admired Dustin Hoffman and what he thought about Yoga. Mark said he would like to have a long chat with Ulalume because he had heard that she was having a most immemorial year. First, however, he had to call Hector. Would Ulalume call him back shortly?

Dialing the number which Jimmy had given him, Mark asked the boy who answered if he was Hector. The boy said he was Hector, all right. Mark said his friend, Jimmy, had given him this number and told him there was a cat there named Hector who wasn't hearing enough bells. Hector said it was good of Mark to make the old phone ring. Mark said he would telephone later. In the meantime, he suggested, Hector might like to phone Ulalume and ask how she was feeling.

Mark had scarcely rung off when his phone rang. It was Cora. She had had a call from Dave, who had asked her to call Mark because Mark was having a most immemorial year and needed lots of bell-ring, Cora said.

Mark told Cora that Dave had given her the wrong information and that it was Ulalume who needed bell sounds. Cora apologized, but said that as long as she had Mark on the phone she simply had to tell him about the terrific phone conversation Pedro and Gloria Carker had conducted 45 minutes ago. It was about the feasibility of Pedro's getting the use of the family car to go downtown and see some great new telephone equipment which was being installed, Cora said.

Mark immediately phoned Pedro to congratulate him, upon his phone conversation with Gloria Carker. Pedro said it was nothing really, compared to the terrific phone conversation which Mark had had with Theodore. Mark excused himself on ground that he had to phone Hector, and rang off.

Before Mark could activate the machinery to talk to Hector, however, Theodore phoned him. Theodore said he was extremely pleased about the terrific chat which he and Mark had had earlier. "Me, too," said Mark. "Let's do it again some time."

* * *

Next, Mark was telephoned by Hector, who said that he was feeling fine and that it was a nice day at his telephone location. Mark suggested that Hector telephone Cora and find out how the weather was at her house.

Then, almost immediately, Mark was phoned by Jimmy. Jimmy said his watch had stopped. He wondered if Mark knew anybody he could telephone who could give him a reliable reading on the exact time.

Mark's answer is not recorded, because of the cessation of service caused at Mark's house when the recording agent tore the telephone from the wall and hurled it through a picture window.

BUSINESS and FINANCE

Editor: G. S. Kent

CPR

Canadian Pacific will seek authority to split its ordinary shares on a five-for-one basis and issue new cumulative redeemable shares to expand ownership by Canadians.

The company said the request will be made at a special general meeting May 5.

GCOS

Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd., expects substantially reduced losses for the first quarter of 1971. President Kenneth Heddon told shareholders the first quarter loss is projected at about $1.9 million, vs. $5.2 million in 1970.

He did not estimate first-quarter revenues but noted that the gain to February 28 was more than 80 per cent over 1970. For the first two months revenues totalled $8.5 million compared to $4.5 million last year.

Hydrocarbons

Canadian Hydrocarbons Ltd. earned $6 million or $1.11 a share during 1970 compared with $5 million or $1.01 a share in 1969.

Gross revenues rose to $82 million for '53 million.

Canadian Hydrocarbons is mainly a marketer of petroleum products in Canada and the U.S. but has some refining and exploratory interests.

Steel Bros.

Steel Brothers of Canada Ltd. plans a $1 million expansion for its lime division near Exshaw, Alta., 40 miles east of Banff.

D. E. W. Thomas, president, said reasons for expansion include anticipated new markets in central B.C., new proven limestone reserves and lower interest rates.

Construction of the new facilities, expected to double plant capacity, is to be completed by early 1972.

Francana

Francana Oil and Gas Ltd. earned $904,000 after income taxes during 1970 compared with $769,000 in 1969.

The net income remained the same on a per-share basis, slightly more than 17 cents, due to an increase in the number of outstanding common shares.

Production of crude oil averaged 2,748 barrels a day while sales of natural gas were averaging 3.5 million cubic feet daily.

Murphy Oil

Murphy Oil Co. Ltd. and subsidiaries reports net income in 1970 of $2.35 million or 78 cents a share compared with $1.4 million or 44 cents a share in 1969.

Revenue in 1970 was $34.6 million and $33.4 million a year earlier.

Capital expenditures in 1970 totalled $6.5 million compared with $4.3 million for the previous 12 months.

Tartan-Mission

Tartan Breweries, of Prince George, has merged formally with Mission Hill Wines, Penticton, in an exchange of shares.

The new company, Uncle Ben's Industries Ltd., will be owned more than 90 per cent by brewer Ben Ginter, with value of 9.6 million shares.

Mission Hill in the last half of 1970 reported $68,000 in losses.

Imperial Oil

Imperial Oil Ltd. is taking initial steps to reorganize its producing department in Edmonton and Calgary.

Western region and Edmonton offices will be consolidated with one operating organization located in Calgary.

Consolidation will be completed next year with departmental control remaining at Imperial's corporate headquarters in Toronto.

$ EXCHANGE

VICTORIA—Purchase of U.S. funds in terms of the Canadian dollar was quoted by Royal Bank at $1.00¼ for cheques, $1.00⅛ for cash. .99⅛ for silver. Selling rates were $1.01¼ for cheques and $1.01⅜ for cash.

NOON PRICES

MONTREAL (CP) — U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds was unchanged at $1.00⅜ today. Pound sterling down ¼ to $2.43 5/16.

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian dollar down 1/64 at 99¼ in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling down 7/32 at $2.41 33/64.

VANCOUVER FIRM

Testing a Four-Day Week

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver engineering firm this week started an experiment involving longer working hours and fewer working days.

Employees of Read Jones Christoffersen Ltd., consulting engineers, will work alternating four and five-day weeks with the same number of hours every two weeks—75—that they had on the normal five-day-week basis.

It is believed to be the first breakthrough locally towards the four-day 40-hour week that is beginning to gain acceptance in the U.S.

★ ★ ★

Vice-president Peter Jones said the new system, proposed by management and generally agreed to by the staff, "seems to make sense, and if it is successful we could possibly extend it to a full four-day week."

The firm intends to assess the program at the end of April.

Under the system, the 35 employees in the firm's Vancouver head office will start work at 7:40 a.m. instead of 8:15, and with an hour off for lunch, will quit at 5 p.m. instead of 4:45.

Jones said he hopes the longer day will result in his staff getting more work done. It takes a little while to get going in the mornings, and the extra half-hour would be almost free of telephone calls.

About 100 firms are reported trying the four-day-week system in the U.S.

★ ★ ★

Locally, labor leaders are studying the idea, but have not committed themselves to it.

The shorter week could work well in urban situations, but not, for example, in a logging construction camp where there very often is little else to do than work.

Jones said he suspects that many reservations about the shorter week are due to the fact that "some of who work long hours are not too sure what we will do with an extra day off."

"Maybe it's a good idea to find out now instead of waiting until we're 65 and suddenly have five extra days off."

The Austin Mini: only $1745*

To make it any lower we'd have to let the air out of the tires.

$1745 never went so far. Because that's all it costs* to own a new Austin Mini. And although the Mini is a small car, it's all car. It's a great little performer —one that really hangs in there on the corners, parks on a dime, pulls through anything with front-wheel drive traction. The Mini gets up to 40 miles to the gallon, too. So you'll save a lot on gas. In fact, "save" is what Mini is all about; over 2,000,000 owners will testify to that! See it.

And while you're visiting your dealer kick the tires of Mini's big brother, Austin America. Another great value!

THE WEATHER

March ended with a bright sunny day in most areas of British Columbia but the remainder of the month was anything but sunny. In most of the province it was one of the wettest months on record. Vancouver Airport came within half an inch of setting a new rainfall record for the month.

The clear skies persisted overnight and temperatures lowered to the mid 30s in coastal areas and into the 20s in the Interior.

The exception was the north coast where gales and rain continued to pound the Charlottes and the northern mainland coast all night.

Although the disturbance has stalled in the north during the night it now shows signs of moving southeastward and it will spread rain to the south coast this morning and occasional rain or wet snow in the Interior this afternoon and overnight. A ridge of high pressure will move to British Columbia behind the disturbance and a clearing trend is expected in all areas Friday.

DOMINION PUBLIC WEATHER OFFICE
5 A.M. FORECASTS
Valid until midnight Friday
Victoria, Vancouver, East Coast: Cloudy with occasional rain. Friday, cloudy becoming sunny in the afternoon. Highs today and Friday, 50 to 55. Lows tonight near 35.

West Coast: Gale warning for waters adjacent to northern Vancouver Island. Rain, changing to occasional periods of rain. Friday, cloudy at first then turning sunny by noon. High both days near 45 except about 50 in inland valleys.

Women to Vote

BERN (Reuter) — A national referendum will be held in Switzerland June 5-6 to seek approval for a new article of the constitution on the protection of man and his natural environment, it was announced. Women will take part for the first time since a referendum last February gave them the vote.

BACK TO SOIL

SASKATOON (CP) — The Saskatchewan government Wednesday became the sole owner of 900,000 cubic yards of earth fill.

At a ceremony, Natural Resources Minister Ross Barrie produced an official receipt for, among other items, "one man-made mountain approximately 900,000 cubic yards of fill."

Thus the city relinquished claim to Mount Blackstrap-created to handle ski competition at the Canada Winter Games in February.

The city now has relinquished claim to all the facilities at Blackstrap, 25 miles south of the city, including tows, equipment, the ski jump and maintenance buildings.

Today the facilities become part of Blackstrap Provincial Park.

REGINA (CP) — Wilf Gardiner, who toured B.C. recently on behalf of Saskatchewan Homecoming '71, says if he's elected in the next provincial election he will work within the Liberal party to defeat Premier Ross Thatcher. He won the Liberal nomination in Regina North East Tuesday, two weeks after being fired as Homecoming '71 director following a dispute with the premier over the disbursement of homecoming grants.

Warning Given

CALGARY (CP) — Soil erosion, caused by careless farming and industrial practices, could soon destroy all trout fishing in southern Alberta, regional fisheries biologist Dennis MacDonald said Wednesday.

Ordinary dirt is the single most serious pollutant in the streams, he told a fish and game association meeting, because it covers gravel beds used for spawning and feeding.

The sedimentation and destruction of vegetation needed to shade the banks promoted a take-over by coarse non-game fish such as suckers.

Approval Needed

SASKATOON (CP) — Courses for which students have expressed willingness to pay Prof. John Richards to teach can not be credited for degrees unless approved by the college concerned, Dr. Carlyle King said Wednesday.

Dr. King, assistant vice-principal of the University of Saskatchewan, also said the university would not be obliged to pay Prof. Richard's salary if the classes were approved.

Abortion Opposed

SASKATOON (CP) — The Saskatchewan diocese of the Anglican Church of Canada affirmed their opposition to abortion on demand at the annual synod of the church Wednesday. Delegates argued that life exists immediately following conception and that abortion thus constitutes destruction of human life.

Buys Champ

EDMONTON (CP) — The grand champion market steer at the Canadian Western Stock Show and sale Wednesday, an 1,190-pound Charolais steer, was sold to Woodward Stores Ltd. for $1 a pound.

The Charolais, a French breed gaining fast popularity among Canadian stockmen, was exhibited by Earl Coats of Calgary. It was also named senior champion.

A Charolais-Hereford cross steer at 1,050 pounds earned the reserve grand senior champion titles for Lyle Heiberg of Kingman, Alta. It was sold for 82½ cents a pound to Graham Meats of Victoria, the first time an out-of-province buyer had attended the market cattle sale.

Meeting Disrupted

WINNIPEG (CP) — A storm that dumped three inches of snow in southern Manitoba overnight and created hazardous driving conditions with gusts up to 40 miles an hour disrupted campaigning for the provincial byelection next Monday in Ste. Rose constituency.

Alvin Hamilton, former federal minister of agriculture, and Sidney Spivak, Manitoba Conservative leader, cancelled a speaking engagement in Ste. Rose Du Lac when they were forced to stop overnight in Portage La Prairie, about 75 miles south of their destination.

A third Conservative speaker, Harry Enns, the party's deputy provincial leader, also failed to attend the meeting because of the storm.

Potash Crisis

REGINA (CP) — The current rail dispute has brought the potash industry in Saskatchewan to its kneees, Mineral Resources Minister A. C. Cameron told the legislature Wednesday.

He said if the disruption of freight traffic continues much longer, 3,000 employees in the potash industry could be laid off and the province's 10 mines closed.

Quebec Can Veto Jobs Project

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa told the Quebec national assembly Wednesday Quebec has been assured of its right to veto any federal move regarding summer job programs for students.

He said he received assurance of this Tuesday, following a meeting with Robert Quenneville, minister responsible for the program under State Secretary Gerard Pelletier in the Trudeau government.

The agreement has momentarily postponed the constitutional quarrel which sprang up between the two governments in early March when Mr. Pelletier's program was first introduced.

"The full authority for decisions we asked for has been accepted by the federal government," Premier Bourassa told the national assembly.

The state secretary's $57-million program is destined to help Canadian university and high school students obtain summer jobs or to profit from foreign trips in the field of cultural exchanges.

Cancer Drive Opens

Today marks the opening of a month-long fund drive by the Canadian Cancer Society in which B.C. has a campaign objective of $600,000 and Greater Victoria a target of $60,000.

Figures like these can be remote but others strike close to home. There were 1,076 patients treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital's cancer clinic last year, a slight increase of 17 from the previous year.

They came from Greater Victoria or elsewhere on Vancouver Island for the cobalt, superficial or deep X-ray or radium treatment. The clinic is the only one on the Island.

The hospital doesn't have ready figures reflecting cancer deaths. But international statistics show cancer kills an adult or child every two minutes in North America.

While many cancer victims can be treated successfully, particularly with early diagnosis, a multi-million dollar research program international in scope continues to probe for answers on why human cell production sometimes runs wild.

RESEARCH MONEY

Frank Nicholson, the Conquer Cancer Campaign secretary for Greater Victoria, says a good deal of research is under way at UBC. More research money is spent in B.C. than the province raises.

About 70 per cent of the funds the campaign produces are directed to research. Another 15 per cent goes to aid patients and their families. Most of the rest goes to education programs, in schools and through pamphlets.

Nicholson says less than 5 per cent of the money raised is spent on administration. The Canadian Cancer Society claims this is the lowest of any fund-raising society.

Contributions should be mailed to: Conquer Cancer Campaign, P.O. Box 202, Victoria.

Tree Victim Charges Runaround

A Highlands property owner said Wednesday he is getting the runaround from his MLA in a dispute over B.C. Hydro "invasion" of land in the area.

Aubrey Jenkins, 3025 Glen Lake Road, wrote all members of the legislature protesting the cutting down of trees to make way for a power line without Hydro negotiating with the landowners.

Jenkins said four MLAs replied, including Herb Bruch, who suggested he and Jenkins meet to discuss the issue.

Jenkins has been unable to get in touch with Bruch. He plans to write his MLA again to set up an appointment.

Hydro is clearing a right-of-way through 10 properties in Highlands "by actions bordering on stealing of property from individuals at prices not commensurate with present-day values," Jenkins said.

"Hydro is owned by the people, and I don't dispute that. But I don't know where they get their land values. They're completely out of line."

3 Charged In Welfare Fraud Case

SURREY (CP) — Two women and a man have been charged with defrauding the Surrey welfare department following a lengthy investigation into an alleged inter-provincial welfare fraud scheme.

Diane Callihoo, 24, is charged with defrauding the municipal welfare department between last December and February. She is to appear in court here April 14.

Joseph Louis Arthur Beaudin, 35, and Mona Grace Petty, 27, have been remanded to May on similar charges between May, 1970, and February of this year.

Police allege the women obtained welfare payments in Burnaby and Surrey at the same time and Beaudin was receiving aid from Vancouver as well as Surrey.

The charges came after Surrey council agreed to hire a welfare investigator on a temporary basis at a salary of $10,000.

Under Half of B.C. Texts Canadian

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Americans, British Make Inroads in Schools

Slightly less than half of textbooks prescribed in B.C. elementary and high schools are Canadian publications, according to figures appearing in a B.C. Teachers' Federation publication.

The latest newsletter of the B.C. Principals' and Vice-Principals' Association reports of all textbooks in the prescribed list: 45.6 per cent are Canadian publications, 36.6 per cent are American and 17.8 per cent are English.

The report says that from time to time there is concern about the source of B.C. textbooks and more particularly, reports of a large number of American textbooks.

●

So the summary was prepared to provide specific information showing that department of education policy giving priority to Canadian textbooks is in fact being carried out.

The newsletter says that at the elementary school level, 52.6 per cent of textbooks are Canadian in origin, 34.8 per cent are American and 12.6 per cent are English.

At the secondary level the breakdown is 43.8 per cent Canadian, 37.1 per cent American and 19.1 per cent English in origin.

Of textbooks originating in the U.S., 17.4 per cent were rewritten to make them appropriate for use in Canadian schools. Canadian authors were involved in the rewriting.

The remaining textbooks were on topics where subject matter wasn't affected by origin, such as books on typing and electronics.

●

The newsletter notes that these statistics relate only to the list of titles and could lead to misunderstanding unless the actual number of books in the hands of pupils is considered. Not all titles listed are provided in any quantity.

It illustrates the situation for one Grade 9 required course in a typical school of 200 pupils.

The course deals with modern history and geography of the developed world and there are three core books, specially prepared for Canadian schools by Canadian publishers and Canadian authors.

Of all books issued for this course, in terms of quantity: 66.6 per cent are Canadian (784 books), 23.2 per cent are English (284 books) and 10.2 per cent are American (120 books).

Entire Town Blasts Plan For Tailings

Almost all residents of Jordan River have signed a petition opposing an application of Dison Development Ltd. for permission to discharge mine tailings on a beach on the east side of the west coast settlement.

The 65-name petition has been submitted to the B.C. Pollution Control Board.

Cubs and Scouts have also written letters requesting the board to save the beach from being polluted by the discharge of one million gallons a day of mine slurry into tidal waters.

"It's the cub pack's favorite beach during the summer months," said Mrs. Mamie Dods, cub leader of the 6 Juan de Fuca Pack. "One other cub group from Victoria also uses the beach."

The petition said the recreational use of the beach is being sacrificed to a project which contributes little to the economy of Jordan River.

PROTESTS ACT

It also protests a section of the Pollution Control Act which states that only residents living within a five-mile radius of the mine have a right to protest to the board.

They say hundreds of people from Victoria and other areas who use the beach should also be allowed to file their objections.

"This effluent has a most objectionable odor, precluding enjoyment of swimming and surfing," the petition states. "The effluent builds up a black, clay-like mass, which adheres to clothing and skin. It also spreads to other beaches."

The Capital Regional District has protested to the board, stating the mine tailings may destroy the beach.

William Venables, director of the pollution control board, said a decision to hold a public hearing on the matter will only be made after all objections and the company's application have been processed.

He said this takes about 180 days.

"Then a decision is made on whether a hearing will be held," he said. "A hearing is only held if there is additional information which may assist the director to arrive at a decision."

'Greasers' to Get the Boot, Today Is Not Grub Day

Ten April Fool "greasers" were "kicked out for the day" this morning before they reached their home room class, a Cedar Hill Junior Secondary student said.

"We just came dressed normally, but tried to be like the teachers — conformists. All we did was put on hair cream and slicked our hair back. It says on the tube, greaseless," said 15-year-old Peter Taggar.

Taggar, who last month was elected "Spring King," by the teachers, said he signed up for king so he could organize some activities in the school.

"Yesterday I was teacher's pet, today I'm a student rebel. We only did it as an April Fool's joke. We haven't even had a grub day yet, nobody organizes things."

Although he didn't initiate this gag, he thought it was a good idea, so he and a few others put up posters announcing the event.

Principal Claude Campbell on Wednesday said over the public address system that students would be punished if they came to school with their hair greased, Taggart said.

"That's why the other students were scared to come greased," he said. "The only thing I'm worried about now is my parents."

The students involved were told to leave the school today and report in the principal's office Friday morning, he said.

Contacted by a reporter Campbell gave no reason for his action.

"I would prefer to discuss this with a parent. I don't see how it concerns you," he said.

LAND DRAINS 'COMMON SEWERS'

Land drains which underlay most of Brentwood residential area now serve as communal sewers for a great many premises, Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, chief medical officer of the Metropolitan Health Board, informed Central Saanich council Wednesday.

(See also page 16.)

In a letter showing results of a recent survey in Brentwood and Saanichton, he indicated that only 44 per cent out of a total of 382 homes checked had properly functioning septic tanks.

Inspections of individual systems showed that throughout the entire Brentwood area, the permeable soil overlay and clay strata is incapable of absorbing septic tank effluent.

Ask the Times

Q. Where a club is meeting without charter or bylaws is it necessary to have a motion to adjourn the meeting or may the president declare the meeting adjourned? Also, if it is necessary to have a motion, is it necessary to have a seconder?—L.F.

A. How the meeting is adjourned should be decided among participants, if they don't want to use rules or order. Robert's Rules of Order says a motion to adjourn takes precedence over other motions, cannot be debated and doesn't need a seconder.

When You Are 104 Years Old You're Entitled to Opinions

By SALLY GLOVER

Short skirts are okay — but the knee is the limit!

That may sound a bit outmoded, but when you're 104, it's permissible.

Richard Albert Smithson was born 104 years ago Wednesday — that's 1867 for those whose math fails them. He may not remember Confederation, but he certainly remembered the fashions of his time.

"Naturally, I'm old-fashioned," he said in an interview at Glenwarren Private Hospital, "but short skirts are not modest and that is one of women's finest characteristics — modesty."

People today believe they "may as well be out of the world as to be out of fashion," he said.

"Old duffers like myself stick tenaciously to the vogue of our day."

FARM LIFE

Smithson spent his first 40 years on a farm in the township of Fenlon, Ontario.

He started school at age four, was "driving" horses when he was five and called himself a farmer by the time he left school.

His school days began hand in hand with his teacher (a boarder at the farm), walking 3½ miles to the single-room Smithson schoolhouse.

"The teacher had two older girls walk me home every day, but," he chuckled, "my feet barely touched the ground the whole way home."

When a pupil deserved to be punished the teacher went further than verbalizing.

"Sometimes the teacher would grab the poor beggar so hard, buttons would go flying across the room."

SOLD CHEMICALS

His family, five sisters and one brother, raised horses, cattle, sheep and pigs at a time when a "dry cow" sold for two cents a pound and resold in cans at 40 cents.

"I never bought anything in a can," he said.

He left the farm to sell chemicals in Saskatoon. On Christmas Eve, 1937, he arrived in Victoria.

Recently Mayor Haddock presented him with the centennial medallion.

He maintains a strong faith.

"Favoritism is evil and idle talk foolish."

The national anthem is Canada's prayer and "a man's greatest truth lies in kindness."

As to his good health, he credits a clean and honest life.

"You're looking at an old conservative bachelor," he said.

Family Condominiums To Be Ready April 9

Victoria's first low-income condominiums offering family-size accommodation are expected to be finished April 9.

Believed to be the first of their kind in Western Canada, the 44 units of Lampson Court, 477 Lampson, Esquimalt, are available to families with under $5,000 to about $5,900 annual income.

About half of them have been applied for and of these a dozen have been bought.

G. H. Wheaton Ltd., the builders, said it is taking names of persons in medium-income brackets for a proposed new development being discussed with Saanich for medium-density accommodation.

A recent discussion by local and provincial housing authorities indicates 36 per cent of Victoria people can't afford better than low-cost housing, said Wheaton spokesman A. E. Bowers.

Lampson units, offered in apartment-type or townhouse layouts, sell for $14,400 with monthly payments around $110.

Arthur Mayse . . .

TODAY I HAVE A FAVOR to ask of you. I want a typewriter for Mary Ann, a girl with a passion for learning who is involved in a contest with time and fate.

Perhaps when I tell you about her you will agree that she should have that typewriter.

Mary Ann is 18. She's Canadian by birth and Indian by heritage. She lives with her parents and brothers and sisters in a Vancouver Island west coast village.

For Mary Ann, life is a battle. Her adversary is cancer, which set in when she was about five years old.

On the credit side, she has a friend for all seasons in the person of Mrs. Harriett Esselmont, past president of Indian Arts and Welfare Society. It was Mrs. Esselmont who told me about Mary Ann — her struggle to learn, and her need for a typewriter.

The friendship began with a letter written by the girl when she was 14 and a student at a west coast residential school. The Indian Arts people had sponsored a story contest; Mary Ann's entry didn't place among the winners, but she wrote a letter to Mrs. Esselmont in which she thanked the society for the chance to try.

I've seen that letter, and others that have paced Mary Ann's teen-age ups and downs. They range from laconic to breezy. In total, they reflect the courage, sensitivity and intelligence that Harriett Esselmont claims for this girl who reached out to her.

The wish to learn — "To make something of herself," as Mary Ann expresses it — has grown very strong through the last two years.

The bright kid new in residential school suffered such agonies of bewilderment and homesickness as Indian artist-writer George Clutesi remembers. She would stand on a rock point and watch the water, a child tormented by a hope and a dream. If she hoped hard enough, her father might come in his boat and take her away.

He didn't, and in later years, Mary Ann has travelled farther from home. For a while she lived with a Victoria family. But the transition from small, isolated community to city is hard for any child, and doubly so for one of her race. Mary Ann returned to her village.

There have been other required trips to the outside. The Cancer Clinic at Vancouver has received her for treatment at various times.

She carries the marks of her ordeal. Mrs. Esselmont, remembering Mary Ann from their occasional visits, doesn't dwell on these.

"She has fine slender hands," says this sturdy friend, "and the most beautiful eyes and skin. And she has this tremendous desire to learn."

About two years ago, Mary Ann began to study intensively through the provincial government correspondence courses by which so many young ones far from the towns get their schooling. Her record shines. She's a straight-A student.

Nothing comes easy to her, but she's completing her Grade 10 subjects in style, and her sights are set on a commercial course in typing.

"I have to raise some money for a typewriter, though, she explained in her last letter. "Somehow, I guess I'll swing it."

She wasn't asking for help. But without help, her chances of getting that machine are mighty slim.

At this point, I asked a question that may also have occured to you. Why doesn't the Indian Arts and Welfare Society stake Mary Ann to a typewriter?

Mrs. Esselmont gave me a double-barreled answer. First, she is making the request as the girl's friend, not on behalf of the society. Second, the society is a small group with strictly limited funds which are subject to a tremendous number of demands. Because of this, its policy is to give to causes rather than individuals.

The girl who strives to learn in spite of the grimmest difficulties still hasn't been able to swing it.

That's why I've turned to you with this request — a typewriter for Mary Ann.

Not a portable. That won't fill the bill. A standard machine in top condition.

Any takers?

Rescuer's Fund Now at $1,341

Donations to the Percy Brown Trust Fund are building at the Royal Bank of Canada, Douglas and Saanich.

Manager Geoffrey Harrison said the latest total is $1,341 with "a little bit coming in every day."

Percy Brown, owner of Becher Bay Marina, who rescued four people in stormy seas when their troller capsized March 13, has gone out on a limb and borrowed $4,000 to buy a suitable rescue boat.

Brown made the rescue after the victims were in the frigid stormy seas for more than an hour. His 12-foot plywood boat ended up on the rocks.

In spite of his efforts, two of the people died. With a faster and more seaworthy vessel the ending might have been different.

The Times is accepting cheques for transfer to the fund.

Hodge Tops Howe Mark —Bruin Line Best Yet?

BILL WALKER

Life is continually made up of such amazement. The virtues of having a deep and abiding faith in youth have not gone out of style after all.

The shadow world behind the Tween Curtain has been opened up for all to see. The sham and the shame of it all has ended. The ethnic war is over, and the municipality has embarked on an era of achievement.

It was at council meeting this week that the story broke. It wasn't actually revealed to the media at the regular sitting, but was leaked to Times reporter Pat Dufour by the mayor herself. Mrs. Frances Elford broke away from the group as Pat was leaving and whispered: "call me later."

Pat shook hands with the mayor, and smiled. Perhaps now, finally, she had been recognized. She was a somebody, if only in the press group. The mayor had a message that needed to be put across. With the right emphasis. Pat had been picked to do the job. Because after all, Pat and Frances had much in common. They were both women. This was important.

"We have been thinking out our problems," the mayor said later. "And we have been putting together plans for an "Honor Oak Bay Day". To be a somebody in the community, we realize we have to do something, even if it means transcending the issues that have arisen previously. We want this to be our kind of town."

●

Pat was in a dither. "What is it?", she screamed. A portable breakwater?"

"No, we want to be the Lions of Victoria Sports Society." answered Mrs. Elford proudly. "We want to be respected for our contribution to this society and make Oak Bay a monument to the enduring qualities which make a municipality great. We want to become the power base of this area."

"You are going to build a wading pool?" queried Pat.

"The long vigil is over," Mrs. Elford continued. "This will be a great legacy. The impact on the sporting scene is beyond scope. We can't go on letting the children think that we are guilty of extending the generation gap. And if the young people have been asking questions about our future plans for their well-being, I am certain I can answer them now. If I couldn't before. I have the backing of the entire council in this. And I am convinced that we will be forever remembered as a council of achievement, not rejection."

"Dogs can swim again in the ocean?", said Pat hopefully.

"No," said the mayor, "this is bigger than all that trivia. And although the final plans have not been completely worked out, I have been authorized to tell you this:

"We are going to build a multi-million dollar sports complex. It will encompass a hockey and skating rink! We have been using those in other municipalities, you know. It will also have a curling rink. Every other municipality has one now, and I believe they are building rinks at Colwood, and at Sidney. It will also have a swimming pool. Our beaches are polluted too.

"But then there is something else. Something that we believe will be unique in Canada, if not the world.

"We are going to have an anti-ecology garbage-burning bee, together? On wash day!" suggested Pat. "That would be sport!"

"Wouldn't it, though?" said the mayor, "but not yet.

●

"On the outskirts of the complex, we plan to get back in the good favor of our horsey voters. We are going to have complete facilities for horse shows, both winter and summer. No it won't be a covered, dome-type enclosure. It will be open air, but with a difference. About six inches underground, pipes will be installed. These will be used to heat the ground, to make a dry track out of a wet track, if you see what I mean. Besides, it will keep the horses hooves warm on cold days. Within 10 minutes of a rain storm, everything will be groovy and comfy."

"Ridiculous," charged Pat. "Next thing you know hovercraft will be bringing the skaters, the curlers and the swimmers over from the mainland."

"Not so," said Mrs. Elford who has a great deal of respect for the truth.

Which is why it has been used sparingly here, on this April day of foolishness.

Canadiens Easy Victims; Rangers Win, Canucks Tie

By Canadian Press

"I suppose I'm prejudiced, but I think our line has to be perhaps the greatest in hockey," Ken Hodge said Wednesday night in one of the year's best understatements.

Hodge had just collected three assists to set a season record for points by a right winger — 104 — as Boston Bruins dumped Montreal Canadiens 6-3 in National Hockey League Action.

In other play, Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings skated to a 2-2 tie, New York Rangers nipped Chicago Black Hawks 4-2, Buffalo Sabres walloped Pittsburgh Penguins 6-4, California Golden Seals beat Minnesota North Stars 4-1 and Vancouver Canucks and Los Angeles Kings played to a 2-2 tie.

It was Hodge and his linemates, centre Phil Esposito and left winger Wayne Cashman, who paved the way for the Bruin win at Montreal.

Hodge's three points enabled him to break the previous mark of 103 set by Gordie Howe, veteran Detroit Red Wing winger, two seasons ago. Hodge has 42 goals.

EACH GOAL A RECORD

Esposito, who sets an NHL record for most goals in a regular season each time he scores and another each time he gets a point, notched his 70th and 71st goals for 145 points.

Cashman collected his 21st goal and two assists lifting his point-total to 77.

Each time one of the three linemates gets a point, it's another NHL record for the most points in one season by a line. "I can't give them enough credit," Hodge said of his linemates. "We play so well together, and we seem to complement each other's style of play."

"I'm just glad we won," said Esposito. "It has been a really good year for us."

The Canadiens, who meet the Bruins in the Stanley Cup quarter-finals starting April 7, jumped to an early lead when John Ferguson scored with the game just 59 seconds old.

Esposito scored less than four minutes later with the Canadiens two men short and Dallas Smith at 13.04 with the Bruins a man short to give Boston the lead they never lost.

BACK REGULAR

Defenceman Bobby Orr, who had been used only on power plays and to kill penalties in the Bruins' previous four games — all of which they lost — returned to regular duty at Montreal and helped set up Esposito's first goal to gain his 133rd point, second to Esposito in NHL scoring.

At Toronto, Howe celebrated his 43rd birthday by picking up his 1,808th regular-season point when he assisted on one of Detroit's two goals.

Howe, nearing the end of his 25th NHL season, holds records for the most goals — 785 — and most assists — 1,023 — for regular-season play, as well as many others.

The Red Wings led 2-0 after 40 minutes but the Leafs came back to tie the score with goals by Jim Dorey and Dave Keon in the final period.

Before the start of the game Howe was honored by the Leafs who presentedihim with a silver tray during a brief centre-ice ceremony.

NOTHING DEFINITE

"Nothing's definite about next year," said Howe when asked about plans to retire after this season. "It depends how I feel."

At New York, the Rangers snapped a 1-1 third-period tie with two goals 40 seconds apart by Vic Hadfield and Rod Gilbert.

Eddis Shack notched three goals at Pittsburgh as the Sabres built up a 4-0 lead going into the final period, then beat back a Penguin rally.

The Sabres scored on one of every four shots at Cam Newton, the Penguins' rookie goaltender, while their netminder, Joe Daley, stopped 36 drives.

Wayne Maki fired both Vancouver goals at Los Angeles. Going into the third period with the score 1-1, Mike Byers put the Kings out in front at 13:30. But Maki tied the game 17 seconds later with his 24th of the season.

DREAM IS SHATTERED for trainer Sid Watters, who stands glumly in stall as splint and bandages are applied to leg of Hoist the Flag after thoroughbred, one of favorites for Kentucky Derby, suffered fractures in workout Wednesday. Operation on leg was performed later.

Pele Seldom Sees Ball After Brigitte's Boot

PARIS (AP) — A combined team of French soccer league leaders scored three goals in overtime Wednesday night to defeat the Santos F.C., led by Pele of Brazil, 3-0, in a charity match before 40,000 fans at Colombes Stadium.

Pele, who was accorded a royal welcome Tuesday, saw relatively little of the ball during the match and rarely had a chance to display the talent that made him the world's greatest soccer player. The match had ended in a scoreless tie in regulation time.

Actress Brigitte Bardot, dressed in a tight sweater and white hot-pants, kicked the ball to start the match after admitting it was her first time in a soccer stadium.

Asked if she had trained for the kick-off, she replied with a grin: "Trained? I don't even know how to do it."

Trudell Sparks Centennial Win

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — A near-perfect goalkeeping performance by Lionel Trudell swept Vancouver Centennials to a 2-1 victory over New Westminster Royals here Wednesday night and a berth in the Coastal Division finals of the B.C. Junior Hockey League.

Centennials, victors over Royals in the best-of-seven league quarter-final series by a 4-2 margin, meet Chilliwack Bruins for division honors in another best-of-seven series starting in Vancouver Friday. Bruins reached the finals by eliminating Victoria Cougars.

The coast winner will meet the interior division titleholder for the league championship.

All the scoring in the game was concentrated in the second period, with Centennials taking a 2-0 lead on goals by Mike McCarthy and Jim Chapman before Gerry Vachon scored the lone Royal marker.

But it was Trudell who broke the hearts of Royals and a turnout of 1,765 fans. Royals, who fought to the final whistle to prolong the series, fired a 53-shot barrage at the Centennial netminder. Only one evaded him.

In the final minute of the game, Royals pulled goalkeeper Terry Richardson for an extra forward. Six times they roared in on Trudell, firing close-in shots that appeared sure goals. Each time Trudell manaegd to get a pad in the way.

Hoist the Flag Injury Scrambles Derby Scene

NEW YORK (AP) — Hoist the Flag, the favorite to win the Kentucky Derby, broke a leg Wednesday, ending what promised to be a brilliant racing career and throwing the three-year-old thoroughbred racing division into a scramble.

"He can't possibly race any more," said Dr. Michael Gerard, a veterinarian, after Hoist the Flag had suffered a shattered pastern and fractured cannon bone in his right hind leg at the end of a morning workout at Belmont Park.

SPECTACULAR VICTORY

Jockey Jean Curguet, Hoist the Flag's regular rider, said he was pulling the son of Tom Rolfe up following a five-furlong breeze in 1:02 when he felt the colt's right rear leg give.

It was Curguet who said after Hoist the Flag's spectacular victory in the Bay Shore at Aqueduct March 23:

"This horse can't lose unless he falls down."

In his six-race career, Hoist the Flag always finished first although he was disqualified in the Champagne Stakes last year.

The bay colt is owned by Mrs. Stephen C. Clark.

With Hoist the Flag in Saturday's one-mile Gotham at Aqueduct, racing secretary Tommy Trotter said: "We could only count, at most, four entries."

EXPECT 11 NOW

Now Trotter expects as many as 11 for the Gotham.

Hoist the Flag's injury also signals a probable cavalry charge for the Wood Memorial April 17 and for the Derby itself May 1.

A decision was made later in the day, a five-hour operation was performed on the colt's damaged leg.

Save the Cheering —Ed Recalls Past

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Giacomin doesn't wear button-down collars, but he's a conservative fellow nevertheless.

The veteran goalie refused all congratulations Wednesday night after New York's 4-2 victory over Chicago gave the Rangers a substantial 10-goal lead over the Black Hawks in the race for the Vezina Trophy.

The Vezina goes to the team allowing the fewest goals during the regular National Hockey League season and the only time New York has ever won it was 1939-40, the last time the Rangers won the Stanley Cup.

"See me Sunday," said the goalie. "That's when I'll celebrate. No, make that Monday, when I wake up."

The Rangers conclude their regular season this weekend with games Saturday in Montreal against Canadiens and at home Sunday against Detroit Red Wings. But Giacomin is running scared. That's because he has a long memory.

FINISHED THIRD

"About five years ago, we came down to the final day leading for the Vezina runner-up by six goals," he recalled.

"Chicago was playing here on the last night and they beat us 8-0. We finished third, two goals behind the Black Hawks.

The Vezina is worth $1,500 to the winning team's goalies, meaning $750 apiece to Giacomin and his swing man, rookie Gilles Villemure.

Greens Collect B.C. Hoop Berth

Saanich Greens ran an unbeaten streak to 26 games this season and captured the Victoria District Amateur Basketball Association pre-midget boy's Association pre-midget night by defeating Esquimalt 21-19 at S. J. Willis Junior High School.

Greens now advance to the provincial championship at Lake Cowichan, April 10.

Win Near Certain For Russian Team

GENEVA (CP) — Only an April Fool or a senile bookie would bet against the Soviet Union winning the 1971 world hockey championships as they near the final whistle, but a little luck and a lot of goals could put the silver and bronze payoffs up for grabs.

The Russians were virtually unreachable as they skated today against Czechoslovakia in a rematch of the clash that put the only blemish on the awesome Soviet record. The Czechs held the eight-straight-time champions to a 3-3 tie the first time they met.

The Czechs look good to capture the second-place silver medal in the six-country playoffs, although either Sweden or Finland has an outside chance to sneak in if the Czechs fall apart in their last two games.

The Swedes, upset 2-1 by lowly West Germany Wednesday, have the toughest going in their quest of the third-place bronze medal.

They were tied with Finland on points—nine apiece after eight games—heading into a crucial game between the two teams today, with the Finns still hot after a 7-3 romp over the United States Wednesday.

Japanese Side Downs Colts

VANCOUVER — Returning to winning form, the All-Japan High Schools XV dropped a Vancouver Colt (under-17) representative side 12-6 in the fourth game of a five-match rugby tour of British Columbia here Wednesday.

The visitors opened their tour with a 29-6 romp over the Victoria Juniors (under-19) in the capital city and a 14-8 victory over a Mid-Vancouver Island XV at Cowichan Bay. Last Saturday, however, the finely-tuned Japanese squad bowed 17-0 to the Vancouver Junior Reps.

Final match of the tour is scheduled for Sunday in Vancouver against a B.C. representative junior side.

Canada Wins, Loses, Invited to Peking

NAGOYA, Japan (CP-AP) — Canada's men had a victory and a loss Wednesday at the world table tennis championships, and now have two wins and four losses in Group B-2.

Today's victory was over the United Arab Republic, by a 5-2 margin. The loss was to Iran, 5-3. Canada is competing in the group which will decide 13th to 24th places in the world standings.

In the championships groupings, Communist China and Japan clashed today for the men's world team title and the Swaythling Cup, now held by Japan.

PACED BY CAPTAIN

Canada's male team, which gained entry to Group B-2 by beating Colombia here on opening day in a B-3 game, was paced by playing captain Derek Wall of Toronto in its victory over the U.A.R. Wall, 40, won three games. The other victories were by Larry Lee, 26, of Chinese ancestry and attending a Vancouver university and Erroll Caetano, 18, of Toronto.

Meanwhile English team officials here announced that China has invited the English and Canadian teams to play in Peking after the championships here end April 7.

Charles Wyles, chairman of the English Table Tennis Association, said the details were still being discussed with the Chinese, who returned to world play this year after being absent since 1965.

HOOP STAR RELIEVED OF CONTRACTUAL OBLIGATIONS

Haywood, Rockets End Feud

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Denver Rockets of the American Basketball League and their former superstar, Spencer Haywood, have settled their breach of contract lawsuit.

Ending litigation that began last November, the settlement frees Haywood of all contractual obligations to the Rockets and the former Detroit University star will continue to play for the Seattle SuperSonics of the rival National Basketball Association, with whom he signed a contract last December.

Last week the NBA dropped its action against Haywood and the SuperSonics but levied a $200,000 fine against the Sonics for signing the player in volation of its four-year rule — one that prohibits an NBA club from signing a player before his college class has graduated.

Details of the settlement were not disclosed.

Denver's suit accused 21-year-old Haywood of breaching his $1.9 million contract last fall. Haywood, who won most-valuable-player and rookie-of-the-year honors with the Rockets in the 1969-70 season, refused to report and claimed the long-term contract had been misrepresented to him.

In December he signed a $1.6 million six-year pact with Seattle, a move that brought the Denver suit as well as NBA action against its own member, Seattle, and its president, Sam Schulman.

GARY PLAYER'S GOLF CLASS:

OUTDOOR SCENE

By Barry M. Thornton

Since 1947 Canadians have annually observed National Wildlife Week. This week, established by an Act of Parliament, always contains the date of April 10, the birthday of the late Jack Miner, who won world-wide renown as a Canadian naturalist.

This year, National Wildlife Week is the week of April 4 to April 10. The focus is on environment.

In recent years, terms, previously little known and less understood, like ecology, environment, pollution, litter, ecosystems, quality outdoor experiences, a conservation ethic, and a conservation conscience, have gained prominence and a depth of understanding unknown in the past. These expressions have birthed organizations with massive public appeal and massive public membership because they have been concerned with the quality of life for all. They are the organizations concerned with life—the environment.

This last decade has seen man's assault on the environment reaching recognizable monstrous proportions. The fifties was the decade of growth—the sixties was the decade of unlimited and hideous onslaught on the environment—the seventies will be the decade for survival of a quality environment.

To focus attention on the survival of our species—a necessary but far-reaching point of concentration compared to last year's emphasis on the survival of Canada's rare and endangered species, this year's theme is: "Environment for Survival."

Following are some extracts from the manual, "Environment for Survival," the guide being distributed to all public schools for observance during National Wildlife Week:

"It is clear enough that Canada has the potential for a quality environment. We live in a land of great variety, laced with streams, rivers and lakes, with fertile soil, vigorous forests ad mineral riches we do not yet know. Compared to most other nations, we are, except in a few regions, a sparsely populated country with many options for development still open to us. We can maintain a quality environment in those areas where there has been little degradation; and we are not so poor that we cannot restore those environments that have been damaged.

"The only thing that we might question is our will. A fit environment will not be achieved without some sacrifice and determination. We will have to want a quality environment very badly if we are to give up for it some of the material things we have or hope to have. This will be difficult because we have a strong acquisitive instinct, reinforced day after day by the blandishments of the advertisers. We do not readily sacrifice private gain for public good. Everything in our culture strengthens the concept of private gain. So it will take money from our pockets to have clean water and air; if it costs some freedom of action to build a park where there might have been a parking lot; if we must finally settle for fewer mixmasters and motor cars instead of more dams and driveways—will we do it?"

Dr. David A. Munro, Fisheries Research Board

"But the earth is not without its limits—limits which we have known for several centuries. We have long since "conquered" the wilderness and "subdued" the last inhabitable frontiers. Our technology exploits forms of energy which gives to each of us power equivalent to hundreds of times the strength of our muscles and, with it, the potential for hundreds of times the impact on our environment. The wastes and even the products of our rapidly growing, diversifying technology are too often released into the biosphere to upset the eons-old balance of natural systems. . . .

"But if we do choose to co-operate with nature, we may—with luck—preserve our bountiful Canadian environment in a state which will permit more than mere survival We might hope to be surrounded by beauty and the rich diversity of challenge and opportunity which are essential to mankind as food, shelter and clothing."

Allison Bugden, president, Canadian Wildlife Federation

★ ★ ★

"In Canada we, individuals and groups of interested, concerned and active people, can make participatory democracy work to protect wild things and all the environment. The answer to the future is in our hands—we must be certain that our governments know what we really want."

Dr. D. H. Pimlott, University of Toronto

BOWLER OF WEEK

Capturing first weekly award in Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest is Kathy Byrnell, who topped women's tenpin division during 23rd week of eighth annual competition. Kathy laced together games of 252, 171 and 169 for 592 series in Friday Niters League at Mayfair Lanes to earn award and berth in Bowler-of-the-Year rolloffs on May 2. Winner of the men's tenpin award was Mick Wengrowich, who rolled 254-188-181 — 623 series in Tuesday Gold Crown League at same lanes.

Pare Lone Threat To Western Stars

MONTREAL (CP) — Yves Pare of Montreal was Eastern Canada's only remaining hope for the men's singles title as the Canadian closed badminton championships moved toward final stages today.

Pare defeated Canadian junior men's champion Doug McGillivray of Calgary, 10-15, 15-9, 15-3, in quarter-final play Wednesday and tackled top-seeded Wayne Macdonnell of Vancouver in semi-final action this morning. Macdonnell reached the semi-finals with a 4-15, 15-11, 15-8 win over Reider Getz of Edmonton.

In other action, Mike Epstein, defeated by McGillivray for the junior crown, downed fellow Vancouverite Cam Dalgheish, 15-7, 15-13.

Bruce Rollick of Vancouver defeated Don Smith of Calgary, 7-15, 15-9, 15-4, to advance against Epstein.

In women's singles action, top-seeded Nancy McKinley of Toronto had little difficulty downing Sandra Kolb of Vancouver, 11-2, 11-2, and will meet junior finalist Lorraine Thorne of Calgary in the semi-final round.

JUDY ROLLICK WINS

Miss Thorne defeated Mimi Nilsson of Vancouver 11-6, 11-4, while junior champion Sue Cutmore, also of Calgary, was defeating Jennifer Dakin of Toronto, 11-6, 7-11, 12-10. Second-seeded Judy Rollick of Vancouver downed Barbara O'Brien of Ottawa, 11-7, 11-8 in the other quarter-final match.

In women's doubles action, Barbara Hood and Marge Shedd of Toronto defeated Jane Youngberg and Barbara Nash of Vancouver, 15-12, 15-10, while Mrs. Rollick and Montreal's Jean Miller beat Nancy Lynch of Ancaster, Ont., and Miss Kolb, 15-12, 15-5.

Lorraine Thone teamed up with Miss Cutmore to defeat Sherri Boise and Miss Nilsson, 15-12, 15-7. The Alberta pair will face Miss Dakin and Miss McKinley in the semi-final. The Toronto twosome downed Miss Kolb and Kathy Henry of Vancouver, 15-9, 15-6.

In men's doubles action, Raphi Kanchanaraphi and Chan Ratanasaensuang of Calgary advanced to the semi-finals on the strength of a pair of 15-4 wins over Bill Parkes of Woodstock, Ont., and Ray Cornish of Stratford, Ont.

Jim Lynch of Ancaster, Ont., joined with Dave Charron of Toronto to defeat Dalgleish and Macdonnell, 15-1, 15-6.

Toronto's Ed Yablonski and John Holhouse will face Abdul Shaikh and Rolph Patterson of Vancouver in the other semi-final. The two Torontonians downed Greg Harris of Edmonton and Rollick, 15-11, 17-14, while Shaikh and Patterson disposed of Jean-Claude Laprise and Andre Martineau of Quebec City, 15-6, 15-5.

Button Golf Win

Jack Betts and Gordon Hutton of Uplands captured the district senior golf buttons on the 16th hole of their home course in a match against Bob Peers and Harold Morrow of Victoria Golf Club.

Clarkson Brothers Defend Golf Trophy

Brothers Vince and Reg Clarkson, the defending champions from Gorge Vale Golf Club, will be back for another try as a record field of 96 pairs tee off Sunday in the Centennial Foursomes event at Royal Colwood Golf Club.

The previous record entry was 83 teams in the tournament's inaugral year — 1957.

Ron Swoboda was always popular and sometimes controversial in a New York Mets uniform.

After he contributed to the 1969 World Series victory over Baltimore Orioles, Swoboda's stardom nose-dived like his head-first catches and the outfielder never hid his displeasure about manager Gil Hodges.

Well, he's not complaining anymore after his trade Wednesday to Montreal Expos.

"I can tell you he's happy now, Montreal Expos general manager Jim Fanning said after acquiring Swoboda and minor leaguer Dick Hacker for outfielder Don Hahn.

Montreal manager Gene Mauch is happy, too.

"I'm very glad to have Swoboda," said Mauch. "He represents right-hand power, and he'll help us against left-hand pitchers."

SEVERAL OUTBURSTS

After Swoboda's .400 average and hard-to-believe catches helped clip the Birds, Hodges continued to platoon the right fielder in the 1970 season. His bench-sitting sparked several Swoboda outbursts, including the baseball cliche: "Play me or trade me."

Swoboda, 26, a right-handed hitter who has been with the Mets since 1964, has a lifetime batting average of .242.

In another trade, Montreal sent outfielder-infielder Jimmy Qualls to Cincinnati Reds for outfielder Stan Swanson. The Expos also trimmed their squad to 29 by sending infielder Angel Hermoso and pitcher Bob Reynolds to Winnipeg Whips of the International League and placing pitcher Jim Britton on the disabled list.

Minnesota Twins released two well-known and injury-plagued right-handers—Dave Boswell and Luis Tiant. Boswell, 26, plans to try out with Detroit Tigers and Tiant, 30, with Boston Red Sox.

Frank Howard delivered two mammoth homers Wednesday as Washington Senators took a 6-5 victory over Baltimore. Both clouts cleared the 70-foot fence 380 feet away in left-centre field.

Claremont Retains Badminton Crown

Claremont's combined team of boys and girls has nailed down its second straight Greater Victoria Inter-High School Badminton League championship.

Claremont finished with a 41-15 win-loss record for an average of .732. Oak Bay (39-17) placed second in the league with a .698 average.

Mount View was only one win behind in fourth place while Victoria finished fourth with 29 victories.

A total of 13 players were included on each team with competition composed of boys' singles, girls' singles and mixed doubles.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Tight end Jim Cox of the Miami Dolphins has been acquired by the Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League in exchange for a future Vikings' draft choice.

First Match For Glenlyon Ends in Draw

Rugby players from Glenlyon School were scheduled to continue a five-game tour of Great Britain today with a match against Stockport Grammar School.

The Victoria youngsters opened the tour competition in Scotland Monday by playing to a 10-10 draw with Perth Acadamy.

Although an early injury deprived them of the services of Peter Smith, Glenlyon forwards deominated play with hustling, aggressive tactics.

Smith was reported to have suffered a broken collarbone.

Harry Carter was the scoring star for the Canadians, going over for a try and kicking two conversions. James McKenzie scored the other Glenlyon try.

Central Saanich Ratepayers Blast Sewer Scheme

By PAT MUNSON

A packed meeting of Central Saanich Ratepayers' Association Wednesday night peppered Ald. Ken Stanlake with questions and criticisms on the latest sewer scheme, planned to serve specific areas of the municipality.

Earlier in the day, Central Saanich council set a tentative date of April 24 for the sewer referendum.

Stanlake told the ratepayers in Brentwood he suspected many were at the meeting because of a rumor that voting arrangements on the referendum were illegal.

Under the latest scheme only residents of Brentwood, Saanichton and Turgoose Point can vote.

WILL PAY

The other taxpayers of Central Saanich will not vote although they will contribute a two-mill tax levy toward trunk and treatment plant installations. This is a regional board responsibility and does not require a referendum.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell suggested the area vote, said Stanlake, adding that the sewer collection system is really classed as a local improvement.

Cost to those in sewered areas works out to about $9 a month, plus the two-mill tax levy, and $75 connection charges.

"This scheme can stand on its own feet," declared Stanlake. "It is predicated on only 60 new connections each year, we need a very minimal growth to make this plan viable."

MINIMAL COST

In fact, Central Saanich will discourage future home builders in the sewered areas by charging them a $600 connection fee.

Stanlake emphasized the efficiency of the two-stage treatment plant and the minimal cost of the system to those residents outside the design (about $1 a month — or two cigarettes a day).

Waterfront areas will be connected to a sewer line just above high tide mark and force-pumps from a central location to the main trunk, explained Stanlake.

John E. Gordon, of Harding Lake, said he was one of many on a fixed "declining" income and asked if council could amortize the $75 connection fee. Ald. Ted Clayards, chairman of the tax stabilization committee, said this is being considered.

Criticisms came from Dave Hancock, who charged that council was "coming in the back door" with the same scheme voted down on two previous occasions.

Patricia Groves, association president, objected to the area voting, as well as the trunk system concept.

Several residents doubted Stanlake's claim that pollution actually exists but loud applause greeted Victor Dawson, who said "You've just got to go down to the ditch and smell it."

Dawson, chairman of the Brentwood Waterworks District, said, "There is a silent majority at this meeting who have said little because they are worried. Our water supply is bordering on pollution and it comes out of the grounds that we ourselves saturate."

ARA Conducts Sabotage Fight In Portugal

LISBON (Reuter) — With mounting audacity, an underground organization calling itself the Armed Revolutionary Action Group (ARA) is gradually stepping up a campaign of sabotage against Portuguese government installations.

Since last October, "commando units" of the ARA have bombed a police training college, blasted a hole in a troop ship in Lisbon harbor and placed an explosive charge—which went off prematurely—in a pile of luggage awaiting loading on another troop ship in Lisbon. They also have shattered the glass front of the United States library in the heart of this city.

Recently they planted explosives in a hangar of the most heavily-guarded Portuguese air force base and destroyed or damaged about a dozen helicopters and planes.

The ARA said the air force base, at Tancos, about 90 miles northeast of Lisbon, and the adjoining parachute training school and army engineers' college, formed the biggest single military establishment preparing men for Portugal's "wars against guerrillas" in Angola, Mozambique and Portuguese Guinea.

AIM AT MILITARY

The ARA has said its aim is to hit at Portugal's military machine, particularly the parts of the machine which feed the "wars" in Africa.

Police are stepping up their hunt for the ARA members. The group so far has eluded the powerful security service and this points to an efficient underground organization, tight, compact and with few outside friends who could become talkative.

The group has even kept its precise political complexion a secret. It has merely said it "stands beside the country's anti-Fascist forces in their struggle against the colonial wars and against imperialist domination of our country."

Teachers Protest Slow Talks

MONTREAL (CP) — A Montreal teachers group resorted to both strong words and actions Wednesday to protest the slow pace of their reclassification talks being held in Quebec City.

Matthias Rioux, president of the 9,500-member Alliance des Professeurs de Montreal, told a gathering of about 1,000 members that he was unhappy with the pace of talks.

Mr. Rioux indicated that the alliance, made up of French-language Roman Catholic school teachers, may be prepared to end its month-long truce initiated to stimulate talks aimed at ending their dispute with the provincial government. Wednesday's walkout was intended to reawaken public awareness in the dispute.

Later, some 1,000 teachers blocked rush-hour traffic in the east-end, parading noisily through the offices of the Montreal Catholic school commission, against whom they began their dispute with a series of rotating walkouts last Jan. 25.

The walkouts, which disrupted teaching services throughout the city for more than a month, were in reaction to a board directive that some members would have to pay back up to $1,300 in salaries because some teachers were being reclassified at lower levels. The retroactive pay reduction later was cancelled. The teachers earn between $4,500 and $14,500.

Manager Fired

LONDON (AP) — The man who runs Parliament's dining rooms said Wednesday he has fired the House of Commons restaurant manager and hired an industrial catering firm in find out why the operation is losing $4,080 a week. "I have raised some prices, but instead of making ends meet they have made them further apart," said Dr. Reginald Bennett, chairman of the parliamentary catering committee.

Automobile Emissions To Be Tested

OTTAWA — The federal government has ordered equipment for a $225,000 motor vehicle emmisions test facility, to be centered in Ottawa.

The motor vehicle pollution control unit, as it will be called, will be responsible for checking that cars produced in Canada or imported into Canada comply with federal air pollution standards.

The first set of federal motor vehicle emission standards went into effect for 1971 automobiles Jan. 1, 1971. A slightly more stringent set of standards covering emissions of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide have been proposed for 1972 model light vehicles.

Most of the equipment for the test facility will be installed in a mobile van. It is expected to be ready for use in July.

Jan Chrystman, assistant chief of air quality management in the department of fisheries and forestry (soon to become the environment department), said this will allow the equipment to go to ports of entry, such as Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver, and check imported vehicles as they come off the boat, to assure they do not emit more than the allowed amounts of specified air pollutants.

The mobile test van could also be driven to domestic automobile production plants to check vehicles as they come off the assembly line.

Chrystman said the equipment is identical to that being used by the U.S. federal government. This will allow the exchange of information on the emission performance of domestic and imported vehicles, made all the more important by the U.S.-Canada auto pact.

But federal officials will face a major problem in dealing with domestic car manufacturers. Under the existing and proposed regulations covering 1971 and 1972 vehicles, manufacturers select which vehicles will be tested.

And there is growing concern, supported by tests in the United States by federal air pollution experts there, that even with careful maintenance, vehicles will emit more than allowable amounts of pollutants only months after manufacture.

Until July, the Canadian government will continue to rely on U.S. government data in determining whether automobiles (particularly imported models) meet federal ministry of transport emission standards.

Initially, the Ottawa facility will concentrate on doing all federal emission tests. Eventually, it will do a large amount of research, to provide a basis for future air pollution standards for automobiles.

Hijacking To Protest Calley Case

MIAMI (AP) — A fellow passenger says the white-haired, toothless Latin who hijacked an Eastern Airlines DC-8 to Havana said he was angry over the conviction of Lieut. William Calley.

Passengers and crew aboard Eastern's Wednesday night Flight 939 said after arriving back in Miami early today that a white-haired man stepped from his first-class seat aboard the plane after it left New York for San Juan, Puerto Rico, and began strolling the aisles of the jetliner, working a plastic noisemaker.

Two hours into the flight the man motioned to the stewardess, Hilda Estay, to take a wad of envelopes to the pilot. The red-ink letters, said Capt. Edward L. Foss, threatened "the complete and immediate destruction of the aircraft."

"They were all to the effect that if we wished to see daylight, we'd better head for Havana," said Foss.

Eastern Airlines said the flight's passenger manifest listed the name of the man who remained in Havana as Diego Ramirez.

"I'm not kidding. I'm a funny looking man, but I'm not alone," Miss Estay quoted the hijacker as saying. He pointed to the rear of the plane and said: "I have friends back there."

"He said he was protesting Calley's being convicted," said John Meehan, of Malibu, Calif., one of 74 passengers aboard the plane. Calley was sentenced at Fort Benning, Ga., Wednesday to life in prison for slaying Vietnamese civilians at My Lai.

Special to the Times

OTTAWA — A federal government scientist has developed the world's first radio echo sounder for determining the depth and internal features of temperate glaciers.

And since Canada is one of the world's most glacier-covered countries with about 100,000 glaciers covering some 78,745 square miles, the new glacier depth probe promises to be instrumental in the development of Canada's northern and mountainous western regions (especially Alberta and British Columbia).

Also, since many large river systems in the western and Prairie provinces are fed by glacial melt during the summer months, the instrument could be useful in determining the water content of important glaciers and for general glacial water management.

* * *

Of course, the electronic equipment will aid scientists generally in understanding the lifestyle of glaciers and their effects on weather and local geology.

The first prototype of the radar-powered instrument was demonstrated recently to government and industry representatives in Ottawa.

And now, its developer, Dr. Ron Goodman, and an assistant are field testing the snow vehicle-mounted prototype — first on the Athabaska glaciers in the British Columbia-Alberta border country, later in the panhandle area near Alaska in B.C.. It will amount to a continuous nine months in the field. And Dr. Goodman, with the hydrologic sciences division of the federal department of fisheries and forestry (soon to be department of the environment), says his family is not exectly overjoyed at the prospect of the lengthy separation.

* * *

The glacier radio echo sounder uses standard radar to bounce high frequency radio waves off the earth's surface under the glacier and off features more than a yard long such as cracks within the glacier.

The reflected radio waves (about channel 40 on your television) are timed to determine the depth to features inside or the surface below the ice.

Accurate position-location devices are placed on nearby elevations to allow scientists to determine their exact location on the glacier surface.

The prototype is the product of three years of effort and about $300,000 of federal money. Leigh Instruments of Carleton Place, near Ottawa, designed and built the radar portion at a cost of $50,000. E.D.A. Electronics of Ottawa assembled the equipment this past year, at a cost of $25,000. And, Dr. Gooderman says Foremost of Calgary is providing the "Sure Go" tracked vehicle on which the prototype will be mounted.

* * *

He hopes the commercial models, which will likely be airborne, will not have to be as complex and as bulky as the current prototype.

Why would scientists be interested in measuring the depth of glaciers?

In addition to general science reasons and water planning, such information would be useful to mining companies (such as in British Columbia) planning to mine under glaciers.

In the north, oil and mining companies must know the ice thickness to correct seismic and gravity data to locate oil, gas and mineral deposits.

In several areas of British Columbia and the Yukon, glaciers have blocked lakes. Sporadically, a stream opened up through the glacier, allowing the lake to discharge in a matter of days, sometimes wiping out roads and causing much property damage.

Finally, if scientists are to accurately determine whether North America is headed into another ice age, they must know how, when and why the size of glaciers are changing.

FIREMAN TRIMMED

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI) — Bryan Magee has been fired from the Hollywood fire department for refusing to trim collar-length hair which Chief John Gerkin called "a fire hazard."

Magee, 29, a seven-year veteran with the department, was notified of his dismissal by letter. He says he will appeal the dismissal to the civil service board.

Orchardist Tests Law

PENTICTON (CP) — Charles Peschek, a Westbank orchardist spearheading a move to reorganize the Okanagan fruit industry, says he is prepared to face prosecution to assert his right to market his fruit crop outside the industry's central sales agency.

He told 250 persons attending a protest meeting here he is prepared to take the the issue to the Supreme Court of Canada if necessary.

Peschek says he plans to truck an anticipated 5,000-box crop of 1971 apples to markets in Vancouver and Calgary instead of delivering them to the sales agency.

Man Jailed 1 Day

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vents Beaumanis, 24, of Toronto was sentenced to a day in jail and placed on probation for two years Wednesday after pleading guilty to cashing worthless cheques and obtaining transportation by false pretences. He was ordered to pay $209 restitution. The crown withdrew a charge of public mischief arising from a report to police by Beaumanis that a cheque for one million Swiss francs, worth about $236,000 in Canadian funds, had been stolen from him.

Kidnap Trial Adjourned

MONTREAL (CP) — The trial of Michel Viger on eight charges of being an accessory after the fact in the kidnap-murder of Pierre Laporte was adjourned Wednesday.

Mr. Justice Antonio Lamer adjourned proceedings to allow defence lawyer Gaetan Robert and members of the jury an opportunity to attend to other business.

Viger, a 31-year-old insurance salesman, is charged with helping Paul Rose and three other men after the kidnap-killing of the former Quebec labor minister. The eight charges link him with each of the four men in connection with both the kidnapping and murder of Mr. Laporte.

Rose was sentenced March 13 to life imprisonment after being convicted of non-capital murder in the Laporte case.

Jacques Rose, Francis Simard and Bernard Lortie, the other three accused of kidnapping and killing Mr. Laporte, are to go on trial April 13.

ELITE TAGS

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Just before his Republican administration left office in January, Gov. Raymond P. Shafer reissued a series of low-numbered auto licence plates to a small group of political faithful.

When Democratic Gov. Milton J. Shapp took office shortly afterward, requests for diminutive digits began flowing into his office, but none was left.

So, Shapp has ordered the issuance of a new series of low-numbered plates to be distributed "to state officials and other dignitiaries at the pleasure of the governor."

The new "elite tags," numbered one through 200, bear the state coat of arms superimposed upon a keystone, the symbol of the state. Shafer's low-numbered tags just had low numbers.

U.S. Navy Deploying Multiple N-Warheads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Navy has started deploying submarine-launched Poseidon missiles armed with multiple nuclear warheads which can be aimed at many separate targets, it was announced Thursday.

The submarine James Madison left Charleston, S.C., Wednesday and now is at sea with 16 Poseidon missiles, each of which can carry up to 10 individual warheads.

A second Poseidon-armed submarine, the Daniel Boon, is due to deploy this summer and eventually the U.S. plans to convert 31 of its 41 Polaris submarines to this multiple re-entry vehicle weapon.

Within the next few years the U.S. will be able to mount a total of up to 5,440 Poseidon and Polaris missile warheads in submarine firing tubes. About half of that fleet will be deployed at any one time.

The Poseidon is the second U.S. multiple re-entry system to achieve combat readiness.

The air force now has more than 50 three-warhead Minuteman III ready in U.S. launch silos. A total of 550 of the present 1,000 Minuteman land-based missiles will be converted to the multiple-warhead model.

Garden Contest Open Again

The Metchosin Garden Club is again sponsoring a miniature garden contest open to all elementary school children in the Sooke school district.

Club secretary, Mrs. Gordon Powers, says entry forms and rules have been mailed to the schools and students may enter in each of two groups — growing and design.

The club will appoint judges who will choose the winners May 7. The final judging and prize-giving will take place May 8.

Money prizes will be given to the final winners. The school whose students earn the most points will receive the Colwood Plaza Merchants Trophy.

OXFAM Support

Students of Malvern and Westerham school are holding a variety program to support OXFAM, (Oxford Committee for Famine Relief,, tonight at 8 in the church hall of St. Mary the Virgin on Elgin Street.

Magazine Expects Growth

B.C. Studies, a quarterly journal published by B.C.'s three public universities, expects to almost double its circulation by summer.

"There is a growing list of individuals who are interested in B.C. . . . and we would like to see a circulation of about 1,500 by the summer," said Dr. Walter Young, head of University of British Columbia's political science department and co-editor of the magazine.

The journal currently has a circulation of 800, with most of the subscribers schools and libraries.

At present the magazine is financed by UBC, University of Victoria, and the Koerner Foundation.

Faulkner Flies for London Parley

LONDON (AP) — Brian Faulkner, Northern Ireland's new prime minister, flew into London for talks with Prime Minister Edward Heath today, fortified by a vote of confidence from the Ulster Parliament.

Faulkner's week-old government was given the support of Northern Ireland MPs by 27 votes to eight with five abstentions after a marathon 14-hour debate.

The vote was the last of the political hurdles Faulkner had to surmount before getting down to the business of governing.

Prominent dissenters at the climax of debate in the small hours of today were the rightist Protestant evangelist, Rev. Ian Paisley, and his lieutenant, Rev. William Beattie, who demanded tough crackdowns on minority Roman Catholics to preserve Protestant ascendency.

During the debate Faulkner denied giving secret assurance to rightist-inclined members of his cabinet that there would be changes in the London-inspired reform program aimed at giving Catholics equal rights in voting, housing and jobs.

Faulkner also ruled out a general re-arming of the police, which hardliners have insisted is necessary to quell Irish Republican Army terrorism.

Faulkner was not expected to make any major demands of the British government over law-and-order issues. He appeared likely only to suggest the more than 8,000 British troops in Northern Ireland play a wider role alongside the police in stamping out violence.

CP Air Pushing China Link

TORONTO (CP) — CP Air wants the federal government to open talks with Peking aimed at introducing flights between Canada and China, airline President John Gilmer said Wednesday.

"We've had a Shanghai on our licence since 1948 when we flew out some refugees," he told a news conference. "However we got that from Chiang Kai-shek. I don't suppose you could sell it for very much today."

Canada and China established diplomatic relations last October and agreed to exchange ambassadors by mid-April of this year.

Mr. Gilmer said CP Air had no intention to look elsewhere for a replacement for the supersonic transport scuttled last week by the U.S. Congress. The airline had deposited $600,000 with the Boeing Co. for delivery of three SST aircraft.

The Anglo-French Concorde supersonic transport had too short a range for CP Air's Pacific and European routes, he said, and the airline was not interested in the Russian TU-144.

PILL BAN PROTEST

'We Shall Not Conceive' Chant

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish Senate has sidetracked a woman member's bill to legalize contraceptives while outside a group of women chanted: "We shall not conceive."

Three of the women climbed through an unguarded window in a men's room Wednesday night, attempting to take their protest to the Senate floor, but policemen grabbed them as they emerged.

By an overwhelming show of hands, the Senate voted to shelve discussion of a bill introduced by Senator Mary Bourke Robinson to repeal the 1935 ban on the import, sale and advertising of contraceptives.

The hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church, traditionally a powerful voice in the Irish Republic, has said it would fight to maintain the status quo as well as any attempt to legalize divorce.

Senator Robinson, a newlywed who is a law professor at Trinity College, Dublin, is a Roman Catholic.

She and her co-sponsor, Senator John Horgan, contend that unity can never be achieved with Northern Ireland while the republic clings to laws opposed by the Protestant majority in the North.

About 20 women, some with their children, demonstrated for 30 minutes outside the Parliament building, chanting, "We shall not conceive" to the tune of We Shall Overcome.

CREE ARTIST IN LONDON

Snow Scenes Sizzling Sellers

LONDON (CP) — Paintings of Canadian snow scenes by Indian artist Allen Sapp sold like the proverbial hot cakes at a private view Wednesday on the eve of Sapp's second exhibition in London.

The 41-year-old Cree, who has lived all his life on Saskatchewan's Red Pheasant reserve, was not present to see the red "sold" stickers going on one after another at the champagne reception in Mayfair's Alwin Gallery. Prices ranged from $250 for studies of Indian heads to $1,375 for large snowscapes.

Gallery owner Denys Alwin said Sapp's last London exhibition, a one-man show in 1970, was a "sellout." This time Sapp shared gallery space with the north-country industrial and country scenes of British artist Derek Wilkinson, but there was no doubt whose paintings were the greater attraction.

Alwin said prices for Sapp paintings are lower in London than in North America—the Cree artist has exhibited in Los Angeles as well as Canadian cities—and dealers cross the Atlantic to buy them here.

Clearly the dominant appeal to the Canadian buyers Wednesday was the nostalgic feeling of Sapp's bright, cold scenes with their patient horse hauling logs and men in scarlet jackets trudging through deep snow under silver birches. Still-life studies of sawhorses and sleighs evoked happy childhood memories for many businessmen or government officials now tied to urban desks.

The London show runs for a month from April 1.

BAN COINS FROM CANS?

DOVER, Del. (AP) — State Senator Herman M. Holloway is sponsoring a "free-use-of-toilet-facilities bill."

It would require that "any place of business which is required to maintain toilet facilities shall have at least one such facility for each sex free of charge or payment whatsoever."

The bill introduced Wednesday would impose fines of $25 to $200 on establishments with only coin-operated toilets.

Sub Hulk Threat

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A sunken German submarine which apparently has drifted under water for nearly 30 years and 400 miles is reported to be threatening the Florida coast with a deadly cargo of mercury and munitions, federal officials say.

The vessel is believed to contain nearly 200 tons of mercury, a potent contaminant, and explosives, including TNT, torpedoes and other armaments.

Howard Zeller, southeastern chief of water quality standards for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, said he was ordered to investigate the situation after a commercial salvage operator reported finding the sub in 2g to 50 feet of water near Tampa Bay on Florida's west coast.

Zeller said he notified the government that the sunken hulk bore the number U-166.

Prof Raps 'Torture' In Examinations

LOS ANGELES (CP) — The "t" in examination stands for teaching, not torture. The "e" is for evaluation.

A University of Alberta chemistry professor said today teaching should be the primary function of exams with evaluation of student knowledge secondary.

The best way to provide this instruction is to hand out a paper with the answers on it right after the student has completed an examination.

Dr. W. E. Harris of Edmonton, professor of analytical chemistry, told an education session of the American Chemical Society that immediately after writing the exam the student is virtually interested in the answers to the questions posed.

"If an instructor waits for two days to satisfy this thirst for knowledge it is largely too late. Two days later he is interested primarily in his grade."

Wildlife Program Important—Kiernan

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan told the legislature Wednesday the time has come for British Columbia to develop a more intensive program of managing its wildlife ranges and habitat.

Kiernan said such management is becoming increasingly more important "particularly in the areas where there is the greatest concentration of people, livestock and wild animals."

He made the comment during wide-ranging debate on spending estimates of $8.7 million allocated for the department of recreation and conservation.

The house approved the estimates as MLAs pointed toward a likely end to the 1971 session by the weekend.

Kiernan had a fairly easy afternoon fielding questions and occasionally chiding members for long-windedness.

James Chabot (SC—Columbia River) urged the provincial wildlife branch to carry out surveys of potential wildlife reserves and to work towards a policy of intensive game management. Wildlife management in the past had been restricted to regulating the harvest.

He disagreed with legislature members from the Greater Vancouver area who advocated a ban on hunting, saying they should visit the more remote areas of the province where wild animals are plentiful in order to rid themselves of the notion that hunting is wiping out big game.

ASKS CLOSED SEASON

Alex Fraser (SC—Cariboo) asked Kiernan to declare a closed season this year on antlerless moose, reduced in numbers by severe winter weather.

Because of deep snow, he said, 10 per cent of the 15,000 moose in the province will die of starvation before spring. Every game guide in the north believes there should be a closed season, Fraser said.

He also urged Kiernan to consider establishing more parks in the interior of the province and asked why the parks department has not developed a single park between Williams Lake and Bella Coola.

Fraser suggested Alexis Creek, about 80 miles west of Williams Lake, as a favorable site.

Frank Calder (NDP—Atlin) said there is an increasing problem with wolves in northern B.C., killing caribou, sheep and moose. One remedy, he suggested, might be to lower the $40 trophy fee on wolves to $10 to encourage more hunting of the animal.

Answering Fraser, Kiernan said that under moderate conditions moose double their population in four to five years. If hunting were reduced, the population growth would inevitably result in the animals starving.

Referring to Calder's remarks, he said wolves are an important part of the province's wildlife and will be controlled only if they become a serious problem.

PAB 'Found 2,815 Jobs'

The Provincial Alliance of Businessmen found permanent jobs for 2,815 people during 1970-71 and temporary employment for 482, according to figures filed Wednesday in the legislature by Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi.

Of the 2,815, some 1,789 were given jobs in 21 federal and provincial government departments. These included 483 who went to the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, 422 to the provincial highways department, and 37 to the department of recreation and conservation.

Gaglardi said some of the people placed had been receiving social assistance, but he did not know the number.

B.C. WINES FAVORED

The provincial government revealed its liquor and wine pricing policies Wednesday in answers to questions tabled in the legislature by Attorney-General, Leslie Peterson.

The answers, detailing the cost of buying and selling every brand listed by the liquor control board, show that foreign wines are sold with a 50 per cent or greater mark-up while B.C. and other Canadian wines are marked up about 35 per cent on the average. Japanese saki is marked up only 8 per cent.

The figures confirmed the government's general policy of favoring B.C. wines over others.

They also showed that Scotch whisky is sold with about a 50 per cent mark-up while Canadian whisky mark-ups are in the 45 per cent range.

B.C. cider has a 21 per cent mark-up, one of the lowest of any product. Beer price mark-ups were previously disclosed as about 25 per cent.

The answers were in reply to questions from Opposition Leader Dave Barrett.

Stores Sponsor Bikathon

Bicycle shops and department store sports departments will sponsor a bikathon April 18 as a prelude to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce Victorian Day celebrations.

Riders can pick up registration forms at participating stores starting Friday. The bikathon route will approximate the 25-mile course of Miles for Millions walkathons in 1967 and 1969.

Pledge sheets will be supplied along with registration forms so riders can be sponsored on a distance basis — so many dollars for so many miles. The proceeds will be used to support Victorian Day activities.

The Chamber will present a challenge trophy to the school which received the greatest per student amount of money in pledges.

Car, motorcycle and bicycle dealer Fred Deeley of Vancouver will donate a 10-speed Peugeot to a draw.

Bennett, Belly Dancer And Booze

What do Premier Bennett, the belly dancer Little Egypt and a cocktail party in Palm Springs, California have in common?

They're all part of the promotion for the 35th annual Palm Springs Desert Circus Week which ended March 31, Opposition Leader Dave Barrett told the legislature Wednesday.

During debate of estimates Recreation and Conservation Minister Ken Kiernan, Barrett read from an advertising brochure for the festival which showed Bennett's picture on the front page and an ad for Little Egypt's nightclub show on the back.

On March 26, Barrett said, quoting the brochure, the government sponsored a "Mink and Manure movie premiere, 'Cactus in the Snow,' an American first. Also cocktail party and Kangaroo court, Tennis club. Price—$25 per couple."

"Mink and manure?" Barrett said. "What's that!"

"Why are we sponsoring cocktail parties in California when we were banning liquor ads in British Columbia?"

Committee chairman Burt Campbell tried to rule Barrett out of order, saying he should speak during Kiernan's travel industry department debate. But Kiernan asked Campbell to permit Barrett to speak.

The publication states that the circus was being held this year in honor of B.C.'s centennial. It is an annual affair in Palm Springs.

Bennett was not in the legislature when Barrett spoke. When asked about the festival later, Bennett said, "I don't know anything about it."

Male Chauvinists Discuss Their Hangups

By JUDY KLEMESRUD

NEW YORK — Seven men sat in a circle in a highrise apartment in Greenwich Village the other evening, sipping coffee out of blue mugs and trying to come to grips with their "male chauvinism."

The men, most of them in their late 20s and members of the National Organization for Women ,NOW,, are participants in a men's consciousness-raising group that has met three times a month since last October.

The sessions were started by Warren Farrell, a 27-year-old Ph.D. candidate in political science at New York University, who is also the only man on the board of directors of the New York chapter of N.O.W.

"At NOW meetings, I saw that men were very low in their awareness of how they were keeping women in their place," he said, in explaining why he formed the men's group. "The men would actually tell the women how to conduct their own meetings."

The session was a rousing and candid free-for-all, which much psychoanalytic jargon bantered about. Among the subjects discussed were whether a man should allow a woman to go first on a bus, how to tell a wife she has gotten too fat, how to break the habit of calling women "girls" or "chicks," and whether a man should ask a woman to pay for a date.

David F., a 23-year-old commercial artist from Manhattan, who didn't want his real name used, spoke first. He said he was troubled by the fact that he didn't think his girlfriend, Lila, was intelligent enough for him, but that he didn't want to lose her because then he would be "out in the cold sexually and socially."

"If she were a man, would you be friends with her?" asked Jordan Hornstein, a hirsute 26-year-old bookstore clerk from Brooklyn.

"Absolutely not!" David replied.

"I think this is the root of your problem, David," Hornstein said.

Several of the men then suggested to David that he was treating Lila "like any other male chauvinist pig" would, and that he should start looking around for a woman who he would consider his equal.

Charles Cogan, 28, of Manhattan, who is separated from his wife and is the father of two children, asked the group if he had done the right thing by letting a woman go ahead of him on the bus that morning.

"When I go in front of a woman, I say, 'I'm treating you just like I would treat any other person,'" Farrell said. "I also see the necessity of sitting down and talking with her about it. I feel badly about leaving the impression that I've insulted a person as a person, even if I feel justified in doing it."

Arthur Rebee, 31, of Brooklyn a bearded professor of psychology at Brooklyn College, told how he has refused to give up his seat on a bus to an overweight woman standing in front of him who had obviously had a hard day.

"She kept reeling back and forth, giving me hints," he said. "I said to myself, 'would I get up for a man?' The asnwer was no, so I pulled my jacket up and pretended to go to sleep."

The session, held in Farrell's apartment, often became heated. Farrell's wife, Ursula, who sells computer systems for International Business Machines, remained in a bedroom all evening.

The men seemed to be unanimous in agreeing that they preferred liberated women to ones who weren't.

"A liberated woman is much more interesting and titillating," one man said.

They also seemed to favor natural-looking women who use little or no make-up, and who don't, as one man put it, "spend a lot of time beautifying themselves in front of a mirror."

Perhaps the most poignant problem was posed by Rick F., a thirtyish school teacher from Brooklyn. He said he had always had an aversion to fat people, but didn't know how to go about telling his wife that he was repulsed by the 20 pounds she had gained after the birth of their second child.

Farrell suggested that Rick should look for other things in his wife that are attractive, now that she is a liberated woman.

Another man pointed out that in American society, a man who puts on a beer belly is accepted, wheras a woman who becomes fat is not.

"You just have to deal with it, I suppose," Rick said, shaking his head sadly.

The session ended after Rick reluctantly decided to tell his wife that he wished she would lose weight, even though dieting was not a part of her "liberating experience."

'Pusher' Is Informant In New Drug Film

TORONTO (CP) — Acting in a film about drugs has been a more satisfying experience than actually taking drugs, a Toronto teen-ager says.

Mimi Tyrrell, 17, plays a 16-year-old who tries hashish, marijuana and LSD in the film "16th Floor, which the Ontario Addiction Research Foundation calls a "breakthrough in drug education.".

Mimi, who two years ago tried drugs herself and went through much the same experiences as the gril she portrays, says that acting the movie, when she used no drugs, "was the greatest 'High' of my life." "It was real."

Of her own experiences with drugs, she says;

"I'm just grateful I'm through it — that its behind me.

"Using drugs is growing up the hard way. There must be an easier one."

The 27-minute film, co-sponsored by the research foundation, was described by Bob Robinson, education director of the foundation, as "an important departure from the usual in drug education."

The actor providing the drug information is the "pusher" who comes across as a humanitarian.

"The usual white-coated scientist providing information is not effective with teenagers," Robinson said.

The film was first shown in late March before representatives of government and medical, religious and educational organizations.

Dual Purpose

TORONTO (CP) — Day care centres in high schools are "a good idea," the chairman of the royal commission on the status of women said in Toronto recently. Florence Bird, (Ottawa broadcaster Anne Francis) said such centres could serve a dual purpose. They would care for children of working mothers and sole-support parents and, at the same time, be used to educate high school students in the care of children and in other aspects of family life.

Puppets 'Teaching Tools' In Developmental Drama

By ELIZABETH BENNETT

Two years ago Trish Joseph was a stage manager at Sadlers Wells theatre in London.

Now she manages the stage of the puppet theatre she and two friends run in the basement of First United Church, and is looking forward to taking her place "centre stage" in a B.C. elementary school next year.

Trish began her double career in Australia.

She had always been interested in theatre and finished two years of a three-year course at the Australian National Theatre drama shool before taking a job as a stage manager.

Meanwhile she went to night school to earn the teaching credentials that have given her practical experience in Australian, English and local classrooms.

Three years of theatre work in Australia and New Zealand led to her job at Sadlers Wells.

"After two and a half years, 16 operas and many tours with the company I decided to settle down," she explains.

At first Trish thought she would become a drama teacher.

She received a brochure describing the developmental drama couse at the University of Victoria. After reading some of Richard Courtney's books, she decided to enrol in the fine arts department here.

"When I first read about developmental drama, it made sense to me. It seemed to answer certain questions. These weren't the answers I found when I got here, however," she says.

One of the things Trish changed her mind about during her two years at Uvic was her goal. She decided that instead of specializing in drama, she should go back to the elementary school classroom and work to develop the "whole child" using the techniques of developmental drama.

"I trained in traditional methods," she says, "so I'm not as dogmatic as those who've done nothing but 'dd.' Other methods provides answers, too.

"I think our educational system tends to think of children as sitting in certain boxes with certain exams to pass. I'm concerned that many children aren't getting as much out of school as they could.

"The bright child will always get by and the ones who aren't bright will always have trouble. It seems to me that the average child, if such a term exists, doesn't get enough out of life.

"I think we, through our educational system and society, have denied the creative side of life. Most of us think that the only people who can create are artists who earn a living from their art. This isn't so.

"Education is part of living. It goes on after school as well. And the most basic drama is living."

She feels a teacher should find out what the children in her class are already interested in, and teach a subject from there "instead of importing a preconceived place to start."

"If, for instance boys are interested in hockey, why not have them find the places their favorite players come from on a map to teach them geography?

"The basic thing that stands out for me is the need to start with the child. That is the main thing developmental drama has to say."

Puppetry is another aspect of her drama studies that Trish is enthusiastic about from a teacher's viewpoint.

"I needed a community project for one of my courses. I'd only been in the city for two months and didn't know much about the community at all. I had heard about a puppet man, though, so I worked with him."

The puppet man, retired Hollywood artist John McCall, Trish and Vivian Coombs, run their small marionette theatre out of the basement of First United Church.

They do special shows for groups such as the boy scouts as well as private performances.

"It's for our own amusement as much as anything," Trish says. "Marionettes are very adult toys.

"And puppetry gives children a chance to act out dramas of their own.

While teaching in a boys' ward at a hospital, Trish introduced one artistically-inclined pupil to puppetry. Soon everyone in the ward was busy making puppets and putting on shows.

The boy she started with used the puppets to act out his own fear of illness.

"The Welcome Medium"

DEAR ABBY . . .

Goes for Gun

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I read your column faithfully and think you hand out some good advice, however I disagree with you on one very important issue: You don't think a boy or man should have to marry a girl if he is the cause of her pregnancy.

It takes two to tango, and it takes two to cause a pregnancy. If my unmarried daughter became pregnant, there would be either a willing bridegroom or a shotgun wedding.

The most important thing would be to make sure the child had a name. Then afterwards, if the parents decided they didn't want to stay married, let them get a divorce. It is not as much a blot on the child as being labeled "illegitimate."

I will be watching the paper to see if you print this. — Pity the Babes.

DEAR PITY: No one can force a man to marry against his will, but the law can insist that a man support his illegitimate child. Besides, an unwilling bridegroom makes a poor husband and a miserable father.

DEAR ABBY: I recently met a seemingly charming woman, and on parting I casually invited her to come and see me "sometime." I meant for her to come and visit with me for an hour or so.

She telephoned me the very next day and stated that she and her husband would like to come to my home for lunch on Saturday! This shocked me as I certainly did not intend for her to bring her husband. Also, I have been brought up to never invite myself anywhere. I told her that Saturday was not convenient for me, so she has been calling me daily to set up a date.

If she is this nervy at the beginning of a friendship what can I expect if we become better friends? Knowing how presumptuous this woman is, I would rather not get involved with her at all. How can this be handled tactfully? — Spoke Too Soon

DEAR SPOKE: Continue to find each suggested date "inconvenient" and don't feel guilty. She is obviously not as "charming" as you thought she was.

DEAR ABBY: A letter signed PRO AND CON was in your column. It was from a man who said he and his wife were having a mild disagreement—over whether they should continue to bathe their adopted daughter, 11, with their own son, 9. He said the kids have separate bedrooms, but they undress in front of each other and have always bathed together and from the standpoint of sex, they seem to ignore the difference.

You said: "As long as the children are not self-conscious about their bodies, don't make an issue of it; if you suggest they 'hide,' they may be unduly curious, or get the idea that nudity is 'wrong,' or 'dirty.' As your daughter acquires maturity, she will acquire modesty without being told."

Well, I am an 11-year-old girl and know the facts of life. And if an 11-year-old girl isn't conscious of her body yet, someone should explain a few things to her.

I have a nine-year-old brother, and I sure would not care to bathe with him. Have you ever seen how DIRTY a nine-year-old boy can get? — Conscious 11-Year-Old

St. David's ACW Plans Shower

The Anglican Church Women of St. David's Church will hold a community shower Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the church hall.

The public is asked to donate new and used clothing, old nylons, bedding, hats, white elephants, books, material and knitting wool.

The ACW will sort and distribute the donations. For example, torn sheets will be sent to the cancer clinic, scraps of material are made into quilts and sent to northern relief, books are sent to the Seamen's Mission at Chemainus, hospitals or the Wilkinson Road Corrective Institute.

Shorts Fad Ignores Facts About Average Female Legs

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

DALLAS — The Texas fashion market is still largely dominated by sportswear, so there was great rejoicing when the fad for shorts as general wear virtually exploded into the news. Dallas is used to making shorts, and if these were to be briefer, matched to jacket or tunics, that was easily done.

But as model after model paraded around the Hilton Inn ballroom runway, one awful thought kept intruding. Like the mini skirt, mini shorts simply ignored the facts of legs.

Models are by definition girls with lovely, long pipestems for legs and as small a bottom as is possible on a human female. Most of the shorts were fitted to them with not an eighth of an inch to spare between fabric and flesh.

The average female, also by definition, simply isn't built like that, which is why there are models.

Even most young girls have more hip and thigh than a model.

Visions began to pass before the eye of the average leg, the average bottom and the average hip in short shorts. Then a brighter thought occurred.

The sudden leap to popularity of short shorts prophesied a quick end to the fad. Already they're in the most popular price category, not even having been a couture fashion first.

The solution, therefore, is just to close one's mind to the sights bound to appear for spring and summer.

After all, we've had plenty of practice ignoring fat thighs during the four years of the mini. Short shorts bid fair to be a much briefer fad than that.

May Be Harmful

TORONTO (CP) — Putting children with learning problems in regular classrooms with normal children doesn't always work, said Dr. E. N. McKeown, the co-inspector of special education for the Toronto board of education. "Taking a child out of an opportunity class and putting him in a regular class, if he is not accepted by the other children and by the classroom teacher, can be as psychologically devastating as putting him in a phone booth in an open field," he said.

FADD Rejoices Over the Defeat Of Midi Designers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FADD closes its doors today, the victor in its fight against dictating designers.

Later it may search for greener pastures. For instance, some women long for a return of high-heeled, pointed-toe pumps, while others promise they will never abandon the low-heeled, round-toed shoes. This problem might merit consideration.

But for the moment Mrs. Doris S. Sweeney, FADD's executive vice-president and chief spokesman, is revelling over the defeat of designers who tried in vain to make the midi skirt the fashion news of the early 1970s.

She said more than 1,000 women in the Washington area paid $1 dues, and others helped spread the word that fashion designers could not bully them into lowering their hems.

Protests from mini-skirted girls with pretty legs, and even from those with unpretty gams, echoed across the land. They didn't like the idea of trailing around in mid-calf skirts and they let the world know it.

In 1970, FADD joined the battle for freedom of choice in women's fashions. On a sunny spring day they paraded through downtown Washington waving banners and posters proclaiming their right to choose the length of dresses they bought.

They staged a hem-cutting ceremony, persuading a sweet young thing to sacrifice her stylishly long skirt to the cause of a shorter length.

They asked the Federal Trade Commission to investigate a trade publication which FADD contended overstepped its function in its promotion of midi lengths.

They said Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., had launched an investigation of the garment industry.

(But an FTC spokesman said he doubted the commission would take any action in the matter, and a Hart staff member said investigation disclosed no cause for congressional action.)

Mrs. Sweeney said she has seen midis on the street. But she sees plenty of minis too, she added, and the new hot pants as well.

"The garment industry has lost its importance to the American woman," she said. "Women are tending to wear what they like, what is becoming to them, not what the industry dictates."

She emphasized that her fight against mid-calf skirts should not cast her in the role of champion of the micro-mini, or even just the mini. She said she is at "a grandmother's age" and likes to wear her skirts at about the knee.

"That's the way I'll wear them no matter what the designers do," she said.

She does not plan to take up hot pants, a variation of the micro-mini, reminiscent of short-shorts of the 1930s and '40s but more form fitting.

Mrs. Joan Kennedy, wife of the Democratic Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, was photographed in brocade hot pants only slightly concealed by a slit skirt. That's fine for Mrs. Kennedy and anyone else who likes the costume, according to Mrs. Sweeney, but not for her.

Reports circulated through the capitol that a pretty unidentified girl working in an unidentified senator's office came to work in hot pants. A cursory investigation failed to locate her, though an aide (male) said, "Wouldn't it be great."

Simple Gift Starts Hobby

PRINCE ALBERT, SASK. (CP) — Most households have a couple of sets of salt and pepper shakers, but Mrs. P. G. McKay has more than 1,000 of them.

Collecting them is her hobby and has been for 30 years, ever since she received an unusual set as a gift.

In the animal world, she has everything from cats and dogs to mice and dinosaurs from which to shake salt and pepper. There's even a pair of drunken mice crawling out of small liquor bottles.

Mrs. McKay says she has become a fanatic. A Sunday drive finds her and Mr. McKay visiting novelty shops within a 100-mile radius.

Visits to other cities find the McKays searching stores which look as though they may yield unusual shakers.

When friends go abroad they frequently bring back shakers for Mrs. McKay, and she has them from just about every state in the United States.

The largest set is from Missouri and is about 15 inches high, while the smallest was bought in Butte, Mont., and is one inch high.

Brown, 2555 Cotswold Road, Uplands, Members of the Good Will Circle, the junior group, will sell bunches of flowers containing the silver dollar plant. Leanne Wilkins, age five, helps Sandra Beech, age 12, package silver dollar seeds for sale at the tea.

Musical Rivals to Share Concert Stage for Season

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Arts Centre orchestra, going on two years old, has acquired a 79-year-old tradition by the process of absorption.

In 1882, Louise Carling, daughter of the Ontario beer baron, Sir John Carling, gathered 100 of her high-society friends in Ottawa for a series of recitals in her palatial home.

That led to the formation of the Morning Music Club, which continued until 1962 — though for 30 years its concerts were held in the evening.

Subsequently it was renamed the Pro Musica Society of Ottawa and later, when it ran into copyright troubles with that name, the Concert Society of Ottawa. Now it has joined forces with the National Arts Centre.

The early Morning Music Club introduced internationally-renowned artists to Ottawa audiences. Many of them, though, didn't earn their international stardom until years later. Pianist Glen Gould of Toronto appeared here in 1953. So did French pianist Philippe Entremont, in 1956.

Maureen Forrester sang for the club in 1959 and Dame Myra Hess played in 1939. Before that, the club introduced Lotte Lehmann, Pablo Casals and Percy Grainger to Ottawa.

Through the years, it had a variety of meeting and recital halls, all since abandoned or torn down. Before the $43 million arts centre was built by the federal government, the society held its recitals in high school auditoriums, none of them really satisfactory.

The society moved to the centre's 800-seat theatre for the 1969-70 season, but competition came from the centre's own orchestra in a series of chamber music concerts using its own talent and some guest stars.

The orchestra's chamber music series prospered outgrowing the 150-seat studio and salon, and this season had to move into the larger theatre.

For 1971-70, the music society and the arts centre will combine resources for a 10-recital series, five by visiting artists selected by the society and five by the arts centre orchestra. All 10 will be under the general direction of Mario Bernardi, Canadian-born leader of the orchestra who this year was named director of music for the arts centre as a whole.

People Crazier Than Ever Says Gaglardi

DUNCAN — There have never been so many psychiatrists involved in people's lives as there are today.

"And you've never seen people crazier than they are today," Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi told an Anglican church group in Duncan on Wednesday.

Although the world is making amazing gains scientifically, "never before has there been more social trouble," he said. "All over the world there is human upheaval."

•

Gaglardi, an ordained minister, said the problems are caused because "we have ruled God out of society."

Most illnesses today come from a neurosis, a nervous base or an imaginary base that may end up in physical illness, he said.

"Today we are failing to reckon with the most important force in the world. That is God."

Most people are afraid of being labelled religious and "yet Christianity today has given us what we have. Democracy is based on Christian principles. Democracy is the right to choose. This comes from the Bible."

Everyone is individualistic," Gaglardi said.

"When God made me he threw the mould away."

•

The trouble with society today is that it is forgetting the simple fundamentals in the Bible, Gaglardi said.

He said the remedy is to get back to integrity, individuality, strength, and the ability to choose.

Gaglardi told the predominantly female group he does not understand the women's liberation movement.

"If God didn't want you to be women, why didn't he make you men?"

He said that women should be the most powerful advocates of the true church because they set the morals of the nation.

GAGLARDI
. . . easy rider?

Flying Phil Shot Down

DUNCAN — Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi likes to kid around about his reputation for speeding on B.C. highways.

Addressing an Anglican church group in Duncan Wednesday, the minister got kidded right back, and by an RCMP officer to boot.

Gaglardi was reminiscing about his childhood days in Mission when he used a horse for transportation. Noting Sgt. Paul Gilchrist of the Duncan RCMP detachment in the audience Gaglardi said, "Mr. RCMP, I never got him over 10 miles per hour."

"I'll bet you tried," Sgt. Gilchrist fired back.

Beer Garden Plan Vetoed By Board

DUNCAN — Although the RCMP gave Duncan Jaycees permission to set up a beer garden at the Cowichan Exhibition in September, the exhibition board has vetoed the plan.

The board said the exhibition is a family affair and a beer garden would disrupt it.

Jaycee secretary Wayne Buck, who said his group is unhappy with the decision, said the board "turned us down and never gave us a chance to explain. A beer garden would not mean a big drinking affair but we wanted to have music, singing and dancing, just like a happy get-together like they do in European countries."

Chairman of the exhibition board, Tom Groves, said he was not against beer gardens but it could not be duplicated here.

That's Not Pollution, That's 'Hydroseeding'

By DONNA CLEMENTS

DUNCAN — Polluting?

Far from it . . . it's "hydroseeding."

The department of public works today said all that roadside activity isn't doing any harm, contrary to many residents' belief.

Ambrose Casagrande, local road foreman, said the three-man hydroseeding crews are seeding grass along the roadsides as part of the program of roadside development and improvements.

"The establishment of a good cover crop of grass not only beautifies the highway but prevents erosion and the growth of unwanted weeds and brush," Casagrande explained.

"The hydroseeder is an interesting machine in that it can apply a slurry of water, grass seed, fertilizer and mulch on to the roadside slopes in a single operation. The seed mixtures used are those best adapted to the area in which they are applied and the soluble fertilizer is one based on soil requirements. The machine can seed an acre of roadside in approximately 15 minutes."

Casagrande said he wanted to explain the hydroseeding process because they had several complaints from people who thought the crews were polluting the area.

"The department of highways has two of these mobile crews working in various parts of the province from February to November and wants the local residents to know that when they see this equipment working, the department is creating a safer, more pleasant highway on which to travel," he said.

THREE GAIN $500 PRIZES

MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. scholarships of $500 each have gone to three students at the University of Victoria.

The winners are William Bradley Whittaker of Duncan who is working on a master of chemical engineering degree, Marie Elizabeth Stillin of Ladysmith, a theatre student, and Richard Ikona of Nanaimo, now studying marine biology.

50 SUMMER JOBS

DUNCAN — City council will seek $75,000 of the $50 million made available through the federal government's opportunities for youth program to provide jobs for 50 university or senior high school students this summer.

Mayor Jim Quaife said plans are being made to have the students work on parks development in the city.

The money was made available to help young people create projects they consider useful and rewarding.

Veteran Arrested

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A Vietnam war veteran who figured in the investigation of the massacre at My Lai has been arrested on marijuana possession charges, the Jefferson County sheriff's office said. Authorities said Robert T'Souvas, 22, was one of the four persons arrested Tuesday night at nearby Fultondale after officers received an anonymous tip.

Chretien Studying Maoris

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — Jean Chretien, Canada's minister of Indian affairs and northern development, flew here today from Wellington where Monday he began a four-day tour of New Zealand.

He and his party visited the Auckland Technical Institute in the afternoon and later toured the War Memorial Museum containing a large display of Polynesian artifacts, including large Maori war canoes.

He also met Dr. Pat Hohepa, chairman of the Auckland Maori district council.

Wednesday at Wellington, Chretien told a reception that Canada's former orientation toward Europe is changidg.

He said that Canada is taking an increasing interest in the Pacific and pointed out that he was the second Canadian minister to visit New Zealand since Prime Minister Trudeau's recent trip.

Chretien is travelling with a party of 12, including his wife and four members of the Canadian Parliament.

The major purpose of the tour is to study the relations between citizens of European descent and the indigenous Maoris—said to be among the most successful examples of harmonious race relations in the world.

There are about 202,000 Maoris, of predominantly Polynesian extraction, making up about 15 per cent of the country's population.

Controversial Development Approved

VANCOUVER (CP) — The controversial Four Seasons hotel-apartment development proposed for the entrance to scenic Stanley Park in Vancouver has been given the go-ahead by the National Harbors Board.

Leases covering 10 acres of water lots were signed by the board in Ottawa Wednesday, one day after a four-hour city council hearing on the project.

Critics of the development claim it will mar the park entrance as well as contribute to traffic congestion.

Ald. Ernie Broome, a supporter of the scheme, said he was pleased that Ottawa approval has been given. It had been delayed pending council action on the $40 million plan.

"It's about time all of this stalling was stopped," he said.

Mr. Broome said he expects a start can be made on the project by June.

An opponent of the project, Ald. Harry Rankin, said he still intends to pursue his proposal that the development be put to the electorate in plebiscite form before any go-ahead is given.

The development will includ a 600-room hotel, three 33-storey apartments, three nine-storey apartments, townhouses, a 30-boat marina and commercial facilities.

It will cover 14 acres, including the 10 acres of water lots.

Rapid Transit Move Up to Bennett

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Greater Vancouver Regional District is waiting on Premier Bennett go get negotiations going for the financing of the proposed $300 million rapid-transit plan for the region.

A. C. Kelly, chairman of the district's transportation study committee, told a district board meeting Wednesday that efforts to meet with federal cabinet ministers have been fruitless because of federal insistence that he go through provincial channels.

Kelly said he has asked for an appointment with the premier and hopes to see him before the current session ends.

"It now is apparent that any discussion of federal contribution to the costs of providing public transportation in the region will only take place through discussions on a federal-provincial level," Kelly said.

He said he hopes these discussions can be held within two months.

In other regional district business, the 1971 budgets for both the regional district and the regional hospital district were approved.

The district's budget is $4,895,159, of which $4,082,884 is a bookkeeping entry because the district takes care of debt charges for some member municipalities.

The hospital district budget is $3,033,950 with the provincial government contributing $717,906 to this amount.

Space Age Play Well Worth Seeing

By LAWRENCE RUSSELL

Two weeks ago George Ryga Grass and Wild Strawberries stood in the Student Union Building at Uvic and delivered a harangue about the "myth" of Canadian theatre. Nothing, said Ryga, was happening. Last night, in the same room, a play was performed which came as a welcome contradiction to Ryga's gloomy appraisal of our dramatic talents.

★ ★ ★

Vacuum, a one-act play by Bryan Wade, was premiered to an audience of some 50 people, a few of who left afterwards believing they had ray guns in their hands. Vacuum is a play of the space age. As the program says: "This play shows how people plot out their own galaxies and set up their individual mystical systems within these galaxies."

★ ★ ★

Wade, 21, is a student in the Uvic creative writing program and Vacuum, his first staged play, is to be published in the program's literary magazine, Introductions From an Island II, appearing next week.

Vacuum is a strange piece of writing. It does not conform to the usual shape and image of a stage play. The characters — a neurotic mother, her tadpole son, a clerk named Jones — seem as if they have emerged from the mists of Venus. When they speak, they speak at you, through you, impaling your mind with a storm of surrealist images which fit no normal recording of human dialogue. Each character vomits his consciousness — fears, hopes, fantasies — in a direct umbilical line from the id.

The play is recommended viewing for those of you who are tired of cliches and platitudes and the prehistoric duplication of TV soap opera that passes on our local stages as drama.

★ ★ ★

Ralph Dale, the director, is to be congratulated on his choice of drama. The performances by Peter Lower (the clerk) and Kim McCaw (the son) are good. Patti Linstedt (the mother) appears to be unhappy in her role.

The play continues tonight and Friday night in the upper lounge of the Student Union building. Curtain up at 8:30. Admission is free. It is well worth an hour of your time.

To Tour Europe

Air Canada's first fully-loaded DC-8 charter flight out of Patricia Bay Airport Friday will carry two groups to Europe for three-week tours.

Departing at 6:20 p.m. the aircraft will carry 150 passengers representing Victoria Senior Secondary Athletic Association and Claremont Choral Society, comprised of school-age youngsters.

The athletic group will play soccer and rugby in games scheduled in the U.K., and the choral group will sing a series of 15 concerts, mostly in England, one in Wales.

Singers include 34 girls and 12 boys, who will be accompanied by five adults.

Foreign Ownership Spurs Unemployment

Foreign ownership of the economy means Canadians can look forward to continuing high unemployment rates for the rest of the decade, University of Toronto economist Melville Watkins warned Wednesday night.

He was speaking to about 150 people at the University of Victoria.

A branch-plant economy in Canada, with the majority of subsidiaries owned by parent companies in the United States, coupled with the policies of the Trudeau government was responsible for rising unemployment rates, Watkins said.

He charged that the present system forced inefficiency on Canadian industry.

"We shouldn't be surprised by the fact that Canada has more unemployment than the United States."

SENSITIVE

Canadian subsidiaries are extremely sensitive to downturns in the U.S. economy, Watkins said, and like the Boston and New York Irish at the turn of the century, Canadian workers are often "the last to be hired and the first to be fired."

"For the first time it's not just the uneducated who can't get jobs.

"You get a BA and you can't find a job; you get an MA and you still can't find a job — then you get a PhD and become totally unemployable."

He said multi-national corporations are inefficient and have created a good deal of duplication in Canada. The branch-plant economy also means Canadian subsidiaries don't export goods in competition against their American parent companies.

"Unless we can become efficient in production of highly manufactured goods, we are going to have a persistent unemployment problem," said Watkins.

SELL RAW MATERIALS

Resource deals which sell Canadian materials in a raw state and then buy back finished products are making the present situation worse.

"We have become a resource hinterland for the U.S.," he said.

"We are in very considerable danger that we will find ourselves exporting materials that do not create jobs and importing those that would have created jobs.

WATKINS
. . . lack competition

"This can be very serious for the 1970's when increasing numbers will be entering the labor force."

He said Canada's economy would have to grow by five per cent every year during the 1970's just in order for unemployment to remain at its present rate.

Watkins also said the benefits of foreign ownership and investment in Canada have been exaggerated out of all porportion.

'TALK ABOUT COSTS'

"We have spent far too much time in Canada talking about the benefits of foreign investment and too little time talking about the costs."

Foreign investment imposes specific costs upon Canada, Watkins said, and charged that for every $100 of new investment in the country by foreign owners only $15 came from outside.

Capital raised in Canada comprised the other $85, he said.

"There isn't that much capital that ever comes directly into Canada.

"Eighty-five per cent, in fact, is financed by Canadians."

"What is really involved in foreign ownership is the control of the savings and investment processes," said Watkins.

PRIOR NEEDS

He said the flow of profits back out of Canada to the origin of the foreign investment "to serve the prior needs of the investor" actually outweighs new investment in the country.

Watkins was asked how he proposed to regain control for Canadians, and what methods he proposed for removing foreign ownership and investment. "They brought it in slowly, they can take it out slowly," he said. "They can use the credit plan."

He said the rise of nationalism in Canada is not unique, but is a trend that is rapidly developing in most countries that are hinterlands to economic giants.

In the past the United States was held up as a model and an example for the future in Canada.

"Now we see what that future looks like and we don't like it"

"There is little we can do in changing our lives unless we bring that power back home.

"We don't have the levers — we can't even find them — to affect our own lives."

He said Canadian nationalism is essentially anti-imperialist and is being felt in the United States. Watkins cited a report in Business Week magazine on "12 ways to pacify Canadian nationalism."

"We're finally penetrating and we're making a few strides."

Before the Judge

A 20-year-old Saanich man was sentenced to two years in prison Wednesday by Judge William Ostler for a two-count charge of breaking and entering with intent to steal to which he pleaded guilty Tuesday.

Randall S. Reid, 3126 Donald, was arrested by Saanich police officers early Tuesday crouching beside a cigarette machine with a screw driver in one of the gas stations he had broken into, an officer testified.

The officer said the accused broke into Burnside Service and Garage, 2 West Burnside, by breaking double glass doors and was in the office area when apprehended.

He had earlier broken into Burnside Texaco Service Station, 110 Burnside, but nothing was taken, the officer said.

Reid had a record of two separate two-count charges of breaking and entering and theft convictions as well as convictions for armed robbery, and breach of recognizance.

Ostler sentenced the man to two years on each count to be served concurrently.

★ ★ ★

Arthur W. Hawes, 27, of 828 Courtney, was sentenced to six months in prison for breaking and entering and theft.

He broke into a confectionary store at 1002 Blanshard early March 20 and took merchandise worth $8.49.

★ ★ ★

Roy E. Baker, 18, of 1680 Poplar, was given a suspended sentence and put on an 18-month probation for theft under $50.

Evidence showed that he had taken a radio earlier in March from a car parked on the road six miles east of Jordan River.

The vehicle had been left by the owner after it had broken down.

★ ★ ★

Harry Thaemlitz, 21, address unknown, was given a suspended sentence and placed on a one-year probation for one charge of false pretences under $50 and another of false pretences over $50.

Thaemlitz earlier pleaded guilty to writing two worthless cheques last November to obtain a lady's watch and a man's blazer, a total value of $118.64, from Eaton's department store.

Ostler instructed the man to repay the store.

★ ★ ★

Earle F. S. Cooper, 39, of 500 Rithet, was fined a total of $550 in traffic court Tuesday by Judge E. F. N. Robinson for impaired driving and refusing to give a sample of his breath when asked to do so by a police officer.

Robinson also prohibited the man from driving for four months except for business purposes.

★ ★ ★

Michael W. Davies, 20, of 726 Goldstream, was fined $300 Wednesday by Robinson for impaired driving. He was prohibited from driving for three months.

George Henry Jackson, 45, of 1755 Carrick, was fined $200 for driving with a blood-alcohol content over .08 per cent.

He was prohibited from driving for two months.

★ ★ ★

Gerald Smoski, 37, of Vancouver, was fined $300 for impaired driving and prohibited from driving for three months.

Harry Roy Cook, 21, was committed by Ostler for higher court trial on a charge of escaping custody and being unlawfully at large from William Head minimum security prison Feb. 8 and 9.

Ostler also sentenced Cook to eight months in prison for breaking, entering ad theft summer home i the Metchosin area last Feb. 9.

Ostler said the term would start after the accused had completed a five-year sentence he was serving from Ontario. He had been due for release in September, 1973.

Black Market In S. Vietnam Almost Dead

By GLORIA EMERSON

SAIGON (NYT) — Gone are the bottles of Old Spice and Jade East shaving lotions from the United States army post exchanges. For the huge black market on the sidewalks of downtown Saigon, where peddlers spread out their illicit wares on army ponchos, is no more.

Also gone are the American soaps and shampoos, the insecticides, the G.I. underwear and socks, the big bath towels, the flashlights and foot powders, the paper plates and pilots gloves, the wristwatches and the cognac.

For more than four years, these items — and hundreds more — were spread out on the pavements of such boulevards as Nguyen Hue and Le Loi under the noses of Vietnamese police and members of the U.S. mission.

The appointment of Maj. Gen. Tran Thanh Phong as the Police Director General last December was the first step in the reform.

The new chief cracked down hard and he has almost, but not quite, wiped out the black market.

Last year occasional raids by the police on Nguyen Hue and Le Loi Boulevards, caused the women peddlers to scoop up their stocks and shrink back into doorways — for at least 30 minutes. They were always back in business the same day.

'Police Will Lose Struggle'

No one knows how long the peddlers will be out of work. Many of them, especially those who sell cameras, transistor radios, television sets and wrist watches, are carrying on.

These women take orders in advance and appear later, by appointment, with the goods.

"This is a struggle in patience between us and the police," one young woman peddler said. "They will lose for sure."

On Huynh Duc Khang Street, which runs off Le Loi Boulevard, more than 50 Vietnamese women sit on the sidewalks, trying to sell what they have hidden someplace else. It is usually a camera.

"What you do need," a woman called out in Vietnamese to a passerby. "I have an Asahi Pentax with 300 m.m. telescope. you want to buy?"

There were Vietnamese policemen on the corner of Huynh Thuc Khang and Vo Di Nguy streets, but they did not seem to notice the loud sales pitch.

"You suggest, maybe, that I find someting else to do to make a living?" a 28-year-old peddler said, scornfully in Vietnamese. "But what? No place for us to sell fruits or vegetables in the markets — they are already full of vendors and you must pay a huge price to legally have a place in the market."

A woman sitting next to her shook her head.

"Why are only we watched?" she asked. "Why don't they crack down on the American, Thai, Korean soldiers who have the right to go into PX's and then resell items to us? We are the weak and this government attacks the weak. Not good."

No information is available from the United States military command here on the quantity of PX goods that are stolen every month by Vietnamese employees despite strict security measures.

Resale of PX goods by allied soldiers is forbidden, but it happens.

American PX cigarettes, and chewing gum are still on sale in downtown Saigon.

Egypt Urges Jordan Conference

CAIRO (Reuter) — Egypt called Wednesday for an urgent meeting of the representatives of Arab kings and heads of state to discuss the army-guerrilla crisis in Jordan.

The minister of state for foreign affairs, Mohammed Hafez Ismail, conferred with Arab diplomats here today and informed them that the meeting could be held in Cairo or any other Arab capital.

Guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat appealed to President Anwar Sadat two days ago to intervene immediately to put an end to "the blood bath to which the Palestinians are being exposed."

Egypt condemned Jordanian troops attacks against the commandos and withdrew Egyptian officers from the Arab military observers team in Jordan.

The last Arab summit was six months ago. It was held at the initiative of the late president Nasser and ended 10 days of fighting in September between King Hussein's forces and the guerrillas.

Al Ahram says in a report from Amman today that fighting is still raging in Jordan for the fifth day running between commando forces and the Jordan army.

4-DAY BREAK FOR GOV'T

Death to Pusher

BAGHDAD, Iraq (Reuter) — An Iraqi revolutionary court has imposed a second death sentence for drug trafficking, it was announced. The Iraq news agency said authorities found about 50 pounds of hashish and about 10 pounds of opium in the house of Khaled Mahmoud, the second man found guilty of such an offence.

A Life of Peace and Harmony

"How long have you been a monk?" the reporter asked Brahmachari Sattyanand, who belongs to the 3,000-year-old Shankaracharya order.

The little man sitting cross-legged on the couch with yellow roses in his lap was on his third trip around the world in the cause of transcendental meditation.

"I have been trying to live a simple life since 1947," he said. "Before that I was a householder with wife and children . . ."

For a year he has been travelling through Europe, Canada and the United States, living in hotels and airplanes.

Today, after speaking to students at the University of Victoria, he went to Shawnigan Lake where he will conduct a course until Sunday. On Sunday he will speak at 8 p.m. in the Oak Bay junior secondary auditorium.

HAPPY TO TRAVEL

During a press conference Wednesday at the Imperial Inn, Brahmachari was asked if the pace of his life during the past 12 months was tiring.

"Oh no. I am happy to travel around the world and show people how they can find happiness in their lives," he replied.

The meditation movement is spreading rapidly around the world to the extent that the Maharishi now spends all his time teaching those who will become teachers of meditation."

Maharishi Mehesh Yogi, the man generally credited with bringing meditation to the western world, is currently conducting a course for some 800 teachers at Majorca, Spain.

Within the last decade meditation has become an important part of the lives of millions of people in the industrialized nations of the west.

"While they are doing a lot on the level of science and technology, a rising standard of living makes them vulnerable to stresses and strains," Brahmachari said.

SIMPLE TECHNIQUE

While to a westerner meditation appears to have the trappings of religion it is really "just a simple technique for enriching the life," he said, by allowing the mind to contact the source of thought, and making life a "wave of joy, peace and harmony."

The technique is so simple that it can be taught in a single lesson. The initiate then practises the technique for three days under guidance of a teacher, and by then he is ready to meditate twice daily on his own.

"Even if only one in 100 starts this practice it will change the shape of this earth," Brahmachari said.

He said use of drugs by youths is a sign of their dissatisfaction with the social structure. The way to change the social structure is not to struggle against it but to spread peace and harmony through it by meditation.

"It is not the social structure that will bring peace, but knowledge of what is behind it," he said.

WOMEN'S GROUP SEEKS FAMILY ACT DELAY

VANCOUVER (CP) — An organization representing thousands of women in British Columbia called on the provincial government Wednesday night to delay action on Bill 73, which amends the Wives and Children's Maintenance Act, until women are consulted about its provisions.

The Status of Women Action and Co-ordinating Council of B.C. said in a statement that the amendments proposed by Minister without Portfolio Grace McCarthy "should be studied much more thoroughly before they are made law."

The statement was issued a few hours after the legislature gave second reading, approval in principle, to the bill.

About 50 women's organizations in B.C. belong to the Status of Women co-ordinating council and the organization also represents more than 600 individual members.

Mrs. Rosemary Brown, recently named ombudsman of the organization, said the council's study group on the family supports some of the 16 amendments but believes others need clarification and expansion.

"The laws governing garnisheeing of a husband's wages are a good example, Mrs. Brown said. "They are fine as far as they go, but the law as it now stands has no way of forcing a self-employed man or a salesman on commission to support his wife and children."

Her group is also concerned about the proposed amendment which states that a woman is legally liable to support and maintain her children. It makes no mention of what percentage of the responsibility should fall to the wife and how much to the husband.

Bill Extends Vote

EDMONTON (CP) — A bill introduced in the Alberta legislature Wednesday would allow municipalities to authorize all electors to vote on money bylaws. Existing regulations permit only property owners to vote on money bylaws.

Victoria Run Resurrects Early Railroad Travel

Those with a hankering for the early days of railroad travel will be able to indulge their fancy May 24 when a unique rail excursion line starts operating between Colwood and Saanich.

A steam locomotive built in 1928, now being overhauled and refitted in Vancouver, will be used on the 45-minute runs, hauling three passenger cars, two open and an old-fashioned observation car being brought out from Transcona, Man.

The two open cars are being bought from B.C. Hydro.

Douglas Eyrl, one of the partners in Pacific Tours Ltd. that will bring the Victoria Pacific Railway into being, says the May 24 deadline will be met in spite of some challenging problems.

STATION NOT USED

One of them is the transportation of the old station, built in Sidney in 1890, from there to the Colwood site beside the Sooke Road. The building is 25 feet wide and 45 feet long.

Originally built to serve the north end of the Saanich Peninsula, the station has not been used for many years.

The engine that will be used on the runs is a Mikado which used to work as Comox Logging's No. 16.

Eyrl says a second engine, of about the same vintage, will be operable but will be mainly used for display.

The company is building a short siding near the Colwood station site. It will hold the second engine and other old railroad equipment.

When the trips begin, the train will travel from Colwood to just inside the Saanich border near Admirals Road. It is expected the train will back all the way down because there is no turnaround near the end of the route; going forward on the return trip.

WILL SIGN LEASE

Eyrl says the company will sign a lease with Canadian National Railways this week which will allow his firm to use a 5.4-mile stretch of the track for the excursions.

He says that eight trips are expected to be run daily, leaving hourly from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. It is estimated the service will run for about five months each summer with special trips laid on at Easter and Christmas.

There will be a crew of four aboard the train and five mini-skirted girls on staff at the station.

Operations may be expanded to include a restaurant and a gift shop if the operation proves successful.

But, says Eyrl, the Victoria Pacific will wait a few months to see if the old steam engines generate sufficient appeal to Victorians and tourists.

Seminar to Discuss Wastes, Oil Spills

Disposal of municipal and industrial wastes and the possibility of oil spills will be discussed at a seminar for engineers to be held at the Provincial Museum Friday and Saturday.

Interested laymen may attend the seminar entitled the Engineer and the Straits of Georgia, for a fee of $40 which includes lunch, dinner and course materials.

The seminar will open at 1:30 Friday with a speech by Resources Minister Ray Williston.

Esquimalt-Saanich MP David Anderson will speak at a dinner to be held at 6:30 Friday at the Uplands Golf Club.

The Friday afternoon session will cover disposal of municipal sewage. Industrial wastes will be treated during the Saturday morning session, while the afternoon will be devoted to oil spills.

Panelists will include engineers and scientists employed in the private and public sectors.

The seminar has been organized by the Victoria branches of the Association of Professional Engineers and the Engineering Institute of Canada in co-operation with the University of B.C. Centre for Continuing Education.

Fellowship To Victoria Student

A Victoria student at the University of Alberta has been awarded a Canada Council doctoral fellowship for the study of English literature.

David O'Neill, son of G. H. O'Neill, 1140 Clovelly Terr., will use the fellowship to complete research in England for his dissertation, a critical biography of the Elizabethan playwright John Marston.

O'Neill attended St. Louis College, received a BA in English from the University of Victoria in 1968. He is now completing his PhD.

Royal Chance For Musicians

The talents of musically-inclined children in Greater Victoria schools will be on display briefly during the royal visit next month.

The schools have been invited to field a 1,000-voice choir to sing "Go British Columbia" as the Queen is greeted on the steps of the Legislative buildings by Premier Bennett May 4.

Principals of local elementary schools have been asked to select up to 25 pupils in Grade 5 and 6 to take part in the demonstration.

School bands will also get their day in the sun. Three bands from unspecified schools will be chosen to play, one at dockside when the royal party steps off the royal yacht, one at the legislature and one in Heritage Court at the Provincial Museum.

When the Queen tours the city on the evening of May 4, two city blocks will be reserved for school children.

63 Science Experiments On Display

Sixty-three scientific experiments went on display at the Hillside Shopping Centre today as the 10th annual Vancouver Island Regional Science Fair got under way.

The fair will run until Saturday during shopping hours. Judging by a panel of 25 judges took place during the afternoon, and prizes will be awarded at 8 tonight.

The fair, which draws entries from as far up-Island as Campbell River, is sponsosred by the Victoria chapter of the B.C. Science Teachers Assoc., the Professional Institute of the Public Service Alliance of Canada and the SS Beaver Kiwanis Club.

World Tours Final Film About U.K.

A film entitled "Byways of Britain" will be shown at the McPherson Playhouse on Friday, April 9.

There will be two shows at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m.

Produced and narrated in person by Thayer Soulde, it is A. K. Gee's World Adventure Tours final presentation of this season.

The film deals with familiar places, names from history, legend and literature.

Scenes include old villages, churchyards, the cathedral city of Salisbury, the walled city of York and the Midland centres of industry.

Many old inns dating back to the time of Chaucer are shown, as well as pageantry, such as the colorful state opening of Parliament by the Queen.

NICKY TRIMS MOTHER'S MILK BILL

DATCHWORTH, England (UPI) — When 13-year-old Nicky Glenn heard his mother complain of rising prices, he decided to do something.

He bought a cow for $120 dollars. Now the cow provides four gallons of milk a day.

"Nicky has sacrificed pocket money until the cow is paid for," said his father, Peter Glenn.

"Mum was worried to begin with. But she's pleased now," Nicky said.

Ottawa Gets Worst Features Of Two Governments—Douglas

By DAN TURNER

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is in great danger of getting the worst features of both parliamentary and presidential governments, New Democrat Leader T. C. Douglas told the Commons Wednesday.

Committee-of-the-whole debate dealt with a section of the government's reorganization bill that would allow the cabinet to name up to five new ministers and supporting departments without consulting Parliament.

Debate on the bill was scheduled to continue today.

Mr. Douglas said that even under the presidential system of government the president does not have the authority to allocate powers and duties unless they are based on statutes provided by elected representatives.

"In the United States," he said, "a cabinet minister has to be ratified by Congress. The department over which any cabinet minister presides is based on statutes passed by Congress.

"He exercises powers which have been approved and passed by Congress."

LOSING CONTROL

In Canada, control of the purse strings had largely passed out of the hands of Parliament, with spending estimates going to committees and no House control except a possible vote without discussion.

"We are now asked to go one step further and give the cabinet the stupendous powers to set up departments of government with sweeping powers."

Asked by Treasury Board President C. M. Drury whether he would prefer a presidential system, Mr. Douglas said he was not suggesting that.

"What I am saying is that we are in great danger of getting the worst features of both.

"We are going to get the presidential system without the controls and power which are available to the United States Congress."

Earlier in the debate, there were cries of shame from the opposition benches when former prime minister John Diefenbaker had a roaring speech cut off because an unidentified Liberal member refused the unanimous consent required for him to continue.

DEVELOPED THEME

Mr. Diefenbaker had been working over a theme he developed during second-reading debate on the bill—that by providing for new ministers and new parliamentary secretaries the bill was providing patronage to keep government members in line.

But he had some new phrases going—the bill was "a fraud and a political swindle on the institution of Parliament" and a raid on the public treasury—when he was cut off.

In addition he said the government would lose a vote on the bill if a Commons standing order preventing members from voting on questions which involved their own pecuniary interests was applied.

Justice Minister John Turner seemed embarrassed at the refusal for unanimous consent, which is rarely denied.

He rose to say it had appeared to him that there had been no negative voices, but Deputy Speaker Russel Honey said he had heard one.

Mr. Douglas was cut off at the end of his allotted 20 minutes as well. In both cases Mr. Drury said there was no proof that the dissenters had been Liberals, but neither opposition members nor gallery observers were convinced.

Les Benjamin (NDP—Regina-Lake Centre) followed up by saying of the Liberals that "there has never been a political party with a better reputation for lining up at the trough."

Besides providing for five new secretaries of state—cabinet ministers to be assigned specific duties, possibly for temporary tenures—the bill would allow the government to increase its number of parliamentary secretaries to 28 from 16.

Parliamentary secretaries are government MPs who get an extra $4,000 a year for assisting ministers.

Steve Otto (L—York East) said the purpose of the bill is to make some sense of what remains of Parliament.

Mr. Diefenbaker walked out when Mr. Otto said the Parliament members had been talking about no longer really existed. "It is an Alice-in-Wonderland Parliament."

Parliament had been designed for a rural, sedentary society, and would have to change, perhaps to "a compromise between Parliament as we know it and a republican system."

Andre Fortin (Creditiste—Lotbiniere) said the power of Parliament was being overlooked to the advantage of the executive authority.

Senate Appointments On Ethnic Basis Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Two Ukrainian associations have called for a complete revamping of the Senate which would turn the upper house into a body representing Canada's ethnic population.

In briefs presented Wednesday night to the joint parliamentary committee of the Senate and the House of Commons on the constitution of Canada, the two associations noted that ethnic groups can never hope to gain proportionate representation in the Commons because their populations are too scattered.

The Canadian League for Ukraine's Liberation suggested that the new body be called the House of National Representatives and that its 100 members represent the ethnic composition of Canada.

The composition would be changed every 10 years to match changing statistics. Based on the 1971 population figures, the league said, its proposed Senate would include 40 Canadians of British ancestry, 29 French and 31 non-British, non-French members.

Report Denied

JAKARTA (Reuter) — The Pakistan embassy dismissed today a report that East Pakistani leader Sheik Mujiubur Rahman has fled to Indonesia. An embassy spokesman said the report, in the independent daily newspaper Indonesia Raya, was a complete hoax.

Youths Line Up to Get Into Calgary Tavern

YOUTHS LINE UP AT HOTELS

EDMONTON (CP) — It was a night for celebration as 80,000 young Albertans "turned legal" Wednesday, gaining the right to consume alcohol and to vote in provincial and civic elections.

The age of majority act was passed in the legislature Wednesday afternoon, lowering the legal age to 18 from 21.

Alberta is the eighth province to lower the age of majority from 21. Ontario and New Brunswick are the only provinces to retain the legal age of 21.

Following royal assent of the legislation, Roy Ellis (SC—Grouard), the only hotel keeper in the 65-seat legislature, rushed discreetly to a phone to give his employees the go ahead to serve anyone over 18.

An Edmonton hotel reported an increase of about 25 per cent in business which it attributed to the lowering of the drinking age.

Rural hotels did not open their doors to the young crowd as quickly, because word did not reach them as soon.

Befort the onslaught of youthful drinkers, hotel managers anticipated the event with some trepidation.

"We're going to be mobbed," said a manager of one Edmonton hotel.

"I think it's going to be a nightmare," said another. "We expect a fair amount of trouble — not fights or anything, but long line-ups and kids without ID (identification."

At least one Edmonton hotel reported a line-up of new drinkers at its door.

RECEIVING HONORS from Governor General Roland Michener at Government House ceremony Wednesday are B.C. industrialist Harvey MacMillan, above, invested as companion of the Order of Canada, and B.C. journalist Margaret (Ma) Murray, given a medal of service. Eleven other outstanding Canadians were invested in the Order of Canada and 21 more received service medals. (CP Wirephotos.)

Men Spurn Welfare, Make Own Jobs

EDMONTON (CP) — Six men on welfare Wednesday, announced plans to give up their government benefits and form a co-operative — but they won't earn any more money.

The plan, sponsored by local businesses, is for the six men to become directors of their own company and sell their services as maintainers of furnaces, lawns, gardens ad downtown sidewalks.

Each man is to receive wages only equal to, and as a replacement for, his former welfare allowance. Surplus funds earned will belong to the co-op and are to be used to expand the business.

The project was conceived by F. L. W. Binnie, president of Lucky's Investments Ltd., who told a news conference he formulated the idea after hearing somebody say: "All people on welfare are a bunch of bums."

He said the people who join this co-op, called Community Service Association Co-op Ltd., will be proving to employers that they are interested in bettering themselves and that they are not afraid to work.

The six initial members are expected to continue looking for regular jobs and are to be replaced by other welfare recipients when they leave the co-op to take up regular employment.

The men attended a two-week, government-financed course on the managemet of small busiesses and another on routine maintenance of furnaces, provided free by a local organization.

Other organizations donated legal services to register the co-op, trucks, tools, lawn mowers, office space and supplies.

"It won't solve the unemployment situation," Binnie said. "But if it can take 20 persons a year off welfare then we have a success."

PROBERS CHECK FILES OF IRVING PAPERS

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Federal combines investigators and RCMP officers searched newspaper offices in Moncton, Fredericton and Saint John Wednesday apparently for files and records relating to newspaper interests held by New Brunswick industrialist K. C. Irving.

Acting with a warrant signed by Judge Charles Tweedale of Gagetown, the investigators checked files of executives in offices of The Telegraph-Journal and Times-Globe here, The Gleaner in Fredericton and The Times and Transcript in Moncton.

They searched desks and files of Gleaner executives with a warrant empowering them to look for documents pertaining to the sale of University Press of New Brunswick to Irving interests. A similar search was conducted in October, 1969.

Ottawa Ceremony Honors Canadians

OTTAWA (CP) — Twelve persons were made companions of the Order of Canada and 22 others received medals of service in a ceremony at Government House Wednsday.

Spray Shows No Harmful Effects

OTTAWA (CP) — Forestry Minister Jack Davis told the Commons Wednesday research into a chemical spray proposed for use on Vancouver Island has turned up no harmful effects so far.

Thomas Barnett (NDP—Comox-Alberni) said there were known dangers attached to the use of the defoliants 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T. He asked the minister to halt the proposed aerial spraying program in forests along the Klanawa River basin on the west coast of the Island.

Barnett said research should be conducted to determine ecological impact in addition to the danger of direct fish kill.

"A considerable amount of research has already been done on this subject," said Davis. "No unfavorable ecological effects have so far been discovered from the use of this spray material."

Ex-Consul Shot

HAMBURG (Reuter) — A woman shot and killed Bolivia's former consul general to Hamburg, Roberto Quintanilla, in his home, police said. He was shot twice in the chest and died in a hospital. The woman was seen running out of the house after the shooting and dropped a grey wig on the steps.

9 IN MEMORIAM

DAY—In loving memory of our dear father and grandad, Bertram Francis Day, who passed away April 1, 1970.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear;
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Ever remembered and sadly missed by his daughters, Violet Bradley, Gertrude Humphreys and families.

LANDY—In loving memory of my dear wife, Gertie, who passed away April 1, 1967.
God knew that she was suffering,
That the hills were hard to climb.
So He closed her weary eyelids
And whispered, "Peace be thine."
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair,
Some day, we know not when,
We will meet our loved one there.
—Always remembered by her loving husband, W. H. (Bill) Landy; son, Larry, and family, and Bob.

LANDY — In loving memory of my mother, who passed away April 1, 1967.
Dear Mother, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more.
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.
Always remembered by son Larry, Bea, Garry, Gordon and Deanna.

In loving memory of Mrs. W. Landy (Gertie), passed away April 1, 1967. — D. F. M.

FAMILY AFFAIR. 7 p.m., Channel 8 (rerun). Ida Lupino is another name star whose initial appearance in this series last year was good enough to earn an encore. As ex-barmaid Maudie Wiggins and currently Lady Maude Marchwood, she comes to New York to watch her horse compete in an international race. French is an old friend and flame getting ready to escort her to a pre-race ball, and entertaining new romantic notions.

FLIP WILSON SHOW. 7:30 p.m., Channel 5. Flip's guests tonight are Tim Conway, Johnny Brown and singer-dancer Sandy Duncan. Flip and Conway team up for four skits, which include Flip playing his janitor role, Conway as a senile headmaster; Conway as Paul Revere, and both give a demonstration on how to win shooting pool. Brown salutes 25 years of TV, featuring various dance crazes.

ALIAS SMITH AND JONES. 7:30 p.m., Channel 4. Tonight's episode gets a boost from comic Tom Ewell and Laugh-In's former sick-it-to-me girl Judy Carne. In "The Root of It All" Heyes and Curry stand to lose their chance for amnesty because of a lost Civil War payroll.

IRONSIDE. 8:30 p.m., Channel 5. William Shatner, making a few TV appearances since Star Trek ended, is tonight's guest as a parole officer who treats addicts harshly because of his sister's LSD-caused mental illness A young parolee is suspected of trying to kill Shatner, but Chief Ironside demands evidence. Also featured are Patricia Mattick and Lazaro Perez.

THE DEAN MARTIN SHOW. 8:30 p.m., Channel 8; 10, Channel 5. Dean's guests tonight arre Peggy Lee, Ernest Borgnine and Dom DeLuise. Miss Lee sings "One More Ride on the Merry-Go-Round" and a medley with Dean. Dean sings "Bye Bye Blackbird" and "Imagination" and Borgnine and DeLuise spoof crime and the Old West.

THE THURSDAY NIGHT MOVIE. 9 p.m., Channel 7. "Brainstorm" (1965) Starring Jeff Hunter, Anne Francis, Dana Andrews and Viveca Lindfors. One in a long line of "let's get hubby" plots about a young man who decides to kill his lady love's husband and feign insanity. All goes as planned until his rehearing comes up. You guessed the rest.

ADAM-12. 9:30 p.m., Channel 5. Guest star Rod Cameron plays the big-hearted former western star who tries to protect his young helper after his riding school is burglarized. Randolph Mantooth is the suspect and Linda Kaye Henning the student. Norm Crosby also plays a straight role as an unhappy salesman.

WANTED 10-SPEED BICY

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

Today, there is a good deal of interest in getting more and more lay assistance for doctors, because today there are not enough doctors to go around. Also, there is so much that a good, kindly, sensible lay person, if well trained, can do to help the doctor he or she works with. This is a good field for young or middle-aged people to go into — people who haven't the money or the basic education to try for a medical degree.

★ ★ ★

I know a layman who obtained training as a medical assistant during his years in the army, who now runs an emergency room for a big industrial company, a place where a person who gets a cut hand or a bad headache or a sprained muscle, can go to get help quickly. Although the man is not a physician, I have come to respect him for his knowledge and good sense in handling patients, and I have come to the conclusion that in many ways he is wiser than some physicians I know. He is also a bit of a philosopher, and has a lively curiosity and an interest in people — qualities that every physician should have.

Early in my life in medicine, I also learned that the wise physician listens to what the nurses taking care of a patient have to say; they, in their daily care and conversation with a patient will often pick up some important information that can be invaluable to me in making a diagnosis or in helping the patient get well.

I was much interested to see that there is a book published recently that would help many people who want to become involved in some way in helping psychiatrists. It is called, "The Nonprofessional Revolution in Mental Health," by Francine Sobey, and is based on a study of more than 10,000 nonprofessionals who are working in 185 projects scattered across the U.S. and sponsored by the U.S. National Institutes of Mental Health.

These people perform such tasks as counseling, so-called milieu treatment, case finding, and perhaps the taking of good histories of patients. Miss Sobey shows that people without a medical education can learn enought to be very able helpers to physicians.

"TUDOR? TWO DOOR?"

What's in a name, when a dazzling white stucco charmer dons a charcoal trim and invites spring into the big living room thru sky bright windows? When the Japanese Cherry flaunts flirty, pink flounces at the rugged oak beams in the spacious dining room and ignores the stalwart shade tree? Who can concentrate on modernized kitch., 2 bdrms, F.C.B., OOM or even price $18,500 at a time like this? To see this love drama, just call "SPRING FEVER" or "DISTRACTED" at 384-8001, day or night (we can't sleep anyway till we know the final outcome.)

BEN FRANKLIN'S UNUSUAL COPY

Benjamin used advertisements for everything and anything. This amusing example from the July 14, 1737, issue of his newspaper, The Pennsylvania Gazette, illustrates his unusual copy:

"TAKEN OUT OF A PEW IN the Church some months since, a Common Prayer Book, bound in red, gilt, and lettered 'D.F.' (Deborah Franklin) on each cover. The who-took-it is desired to open it and read the eighth Commandment, and afterwards return it into the same Pew again, upon which no further Notice will be taken."

SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 65
(COWICHAN)
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
Sealed tenders marked "Tender for Elementary School Gyms" are invited by the Board of School Trustees for the construction of Gymnasiums and Administration additions to Crofton Elementary Schools, located at Crofton, B.C. and Mill Bay, B.C.

Working drawings, specifications, instructions to bidders, and forms of tender may be obtained, by GENERAL CONTRACTORS only, from the School Maintenance Office, 2870 James Street, Duncan, B.C. on payment of a deposit of Twenty-Five dollars ($25.00) for each set of working drawings, etc., which will be returned on receipt of the set of documents in good condition. Applications for refunds will only be received for thirty (30) days after the award of the contract.

Vancouver and Lower Mainland Bid Depository procedures and rules for Sub-Trades will be used, to close at the Amalgamated Construction Association, 543 Bastion Street, Victoria, B.C. at 4:00 p.m., Tuesday, April 13th, 1971. Plans are on view at the Amalgamated Construction Association at Victoria and Vancouver, Nanaimo Builders' Exchange at Nanaimo, Industrial Construction Centre and the Provincia Government Plan Viewing Room, both at Vancouver.

Contractors may submit tenders on either project or a combined tender for both projects. A Certified Cheque or Bid Bond, in the amount of $7,000.00 for Crofton, $8,000.00 for Mill Bay, or $15,000.00 for a combined bid must accompany all Tenders. A Performance Bond, to bind the tenderer in the amount of 50% of the contract price, must be provided within fourteen days of a contract being accepted. This bond shall be approved by and acceptable to the Owner and be made out to School District No. 65 (Cowichan) as owners.

If the tenderer defaults in executing the contract within six (6) days following notification in writing of the award of the contract, then said Certified Cheque or Bid Bond will become the property of the Board of School Trustees, School District No. 65 (Cowichan).

Tenders must be in the hands of the undersigned by 2:00 p.m., Friday, April 16th, 1971, at which time the tenders will be opened in public. The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted, and the Board of School Trustees reserve the right to reject any or all tenders without explanation. No tender will be accepted having any qualifying clauses whatsoever.

Finish Pruning the Roses

By HILDA BEASTALL

The swelling of terminal buds on the huge horse chestnut trees adjacent to the Victoria Press had been my spring signal for a good many years. Luckily I had located another group, although smaller trees, before the recent demise of the big fellows.

Nearly a week ago the buds on the new group were showing light against the dark branches tossing in the rainy wind.

The next spell of warm sunshine will see bright green flags flung out for all to see.

When this happens we know all kinds of spring work can begin. Some of the preparations must be indoors to be safe from random frosts, but as the soil dries a little on the surface we can get along with outdoor spring jobs too.

Hilda

First is to finish pruning of roses; then the odds and ends of light pruning on later summer and fall flowering shrubs.

We can see now too, where the dead wood is on lilacs and forsythias. It may as well be cut out as low down as the wood is dead.

Prepare a place for rooting cuttings of early flowering chrysanthemums. A shallow six-inch pot of sand and peat will root 25 cuttings if kept warm and plastic covered; each will need almost nine square inches of space in a flat after rooting so that it will grow well before going into the garden in early May.

Ornamental gourds, squash, peppers and eggplants all need their seeds sown indoors in early April. These are fine plants for home-grown vegetables, and also give specimens for classes you will seen in practically every local fall show schedule.

When horse chestnuts have fully leafed out, you can sow many more kinds of seeds in the open garden, but now it is a case of preparation.

If your soil is very wet, keep off it. If your garden is on rocky sloping ground, go ahead and prepare whatever soil you have with all the compost you can spare.

Seeds of hardy vegetables and flowers can be sown now in this well drained soil, for you have what we call an early garden. The compost is needed to hold the moisture you will have to supply as soon as rains cease.

Carrots, early peas, lettuce, onions, and a few radishes can be sown in any soil which is not saturated.

Veneer plant bands are suitable for starting beans of all kinds, sweet corn, squash and cucumbers indoors, since the bands unwrap from the root squares for planting in the garden. There is no root disturbance, and the bands can be used at least twice.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

When one possesses a very good hand, possibly the most annoying thing that can happen to him at the outset is to have his right-hand opponent open the bidding with a pre-emptive call. Such a call deprives the "good-card" holder and his partner of the bidding space needed to interchange information; and it frequently forces them to resort to pure guesswork in setting the final contract.

An example of this type of guesswork can be observed in today's deal. It arose in a duplicate game. Both sides vulnerable. West deals.

♠ 5
♡ A K Q 2
◇ A Q 4 2
♣ K Q J 10

WEST
♠ Q 4 2
♡ 8
◇ K J 10 9 8 7 6 5 3

EAST
♠ 3
♡ J 9 7 5 4 3

SOUTH
♠ A K J 10 9 8 7 6
♡ 10 6
♣ A 5 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
3 ◇	3 NT	Pass	6 ♠
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Eight of ♡.

When West opened the bidding with three diamonds, there was just no technically correct bid that North could make. A "double" in this position would have been of a "take-out" nature, and would have commanded South to name his longest suit. And North was ill-prepared to play the hand at spades if South held, for example, the J-x-x-x-x.

North's choice of three notrump was strictly a lesser-of-evils call. This bid, directly over an opening pre-emptive bid, generally shows about 21-24 points (roughly the equivalent of a two notrump opening bid, or a trifle less) and, of course, a stopper or two in the adversely bid suit.

At most tables, West's usual opening bid was three diamonds. And in each case North then bid three notrump.

At virtually every table, South, with his tremendous hand, jumped right to six spades. As he did, he was completely in the dark as to whether he would make just six spades, or whether a grand slam in spades was there for the taking. As is evident, only 12 tricks could be made, since West possessed a sure trump winner in his spade queen.

The best North-South score was obtained by one South player who had hunch that North, for his three notrump bid, had a double stopper in diamonds, West's bid suit. So he did not make the "conservative" bid of six spades. Instead, he bid six notrump.

At this contract, as at six spades, North-South's only loser was one spade trick. The score for making six notrump was 1,440 points (trick score of 190; 500 for a vulnerable game; and 750 for the small slam). The score for making six spades was "only" 1,430 points, since the trick score was 180.

7-7-7 WINS FOR CLEANER IN LAS VEGAS

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Gamblers who bet against the "Lucky 7" in a high-stakes game often are taken to the cleaners.

But at least one cleaner knows better.

Ray Owens, owner of the Sunkist Cleaners in Hastings, Neb., had one of 11,000 tickets in the hopper for a $1,000 cash door prize during the National Institute of Dry Cleaners meeting at the International Hotel.

Owens won — the number was 7-7-7.

Horsetrade Leads to Car Deal

HARBURY, England (UPI) — When Wilmer Mann rode his racehorse into car dealer Dave Dick's showroom, Dick was delighted. He always had wanted a race horse.

Mann wanted a new car. After a bit of horsetrading, the men struck a deal. Now Dick is the proud owner of an eight-year-old gelding named Four Wishes.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IDEA REFUSES TO DIE

1972 UN Session in Geneva?

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — It is possible but not probable that the 1972 meeting of the 127-country General Assembly will be held in Geneva.

When advocates of such a move see the cost—estimated by UN officials at several million dollars for three or four months—they probably will drop the idea.

The idea has been cropping up here since late September when some Swiss hotelier suggested it.

Some advocates see advantages to a meeting in a city that is more neutral than this troubled United States area. For the last couple of years radical advocates of various causes have been harassing UN delegations and many Arabs feel they live in a hostile atmosphere here.

At the same time the Geneva facilities are being expanded, but the work is being done to accommodate meetings of such large UN-related organizations as the World Health Organization.

UN officials say there is not nearly enough staff in Geneva to accommodate a long meeting of the General Assembly, and a large number of people would have to be moved from here for the session.

But the idea refuses to die. Many delegates would like to be out of the U.S. during the American presidential year and when there is a chance for the admission of Communist China.

Ottawa Has Coughed Up $173M in Tax Refunds

OTTAWA (CP) — Refund cheques for overpayment of 1970 income taxes have reached $173.4 million so far in the revenue department's assessment of tax returns.

The deadline for filing returns is April 30.

The total amount of refunds is up nearly 24 per cent from a year earlier, but this is due in part to earlier filing of returns by taxpayers to whom refunds are owing.

As of Monday, the revenue department said, it had received 4.2 million tax returns and assessed 1.7 million. As of the same date last year, it had received 3.9 million returns and assessed 1.4 million.

Outside Journals Face Ad Ban Too

VANCOUVER (CP) — The head of a major magazine distributing company said Wednesday he has been advised by the attorney-general's department that the forthcoming ban on liquor and tobacco advertising in B.C. will apply to magazines printed outside the province.

James Grubb, manager of Vancouver Magazine Service Ltd., said he was told the ban, which goes into effect Sept. 1, definitely includes material coming into B.C. for distribution.

During debate in the legislature preceding final approval of the legislation Tuesday, opposition members repeatedly asked Attorney-General Leslie Peterson how the law would be applied to advertising inout-of-province journals.

Without giving a clear-cut explanation, Mr. Peterson saidp

WANTS MEETING

"I think the provisions in this particular statute must be read in the light that the province can only legislate within its own jurisdiction."

Mr. Grubb said he has been attempting to arrange an appointment with Mr. Peterson to discuss the new legislation but "so far I haven't had any luck."

He said his business would be "hurt very seriously" by the legislation and estimated it could mean a drop of up to 60 per cent in gross sales now exceeding $10 million annually.

Vancouver Magazine Service is the major distributor of magazines and books on the lower B.C. mainland. It has 82 employees.

Mr. Grubb said that if the government is able to enforce the ban, it would virtually wipe out the magazine sales business in B.C.

He said readers would be forced to obtain out-of-province magazines by subscription through the mails.

"In other words," he said, "publishers in Eastern Canada would earn extra profits at the expense of earnings and jobs in B.C."

ENGINEERS TALKING

Rails' Non-Ops Agree to Pact

56,000 Involved

MONTREAL — Canada's major railways and 56,000 non-operating employees today reached a contract agreement which Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey hopes will exert pressure on 7,000 locomotive engineers scheduled to strike Monday.

Negotiations resumed today between the engineers and Canadian National Railways and CP Rail.

Sitting in on negotiations is Bernard Wilson, assistant deputy labor minister.

Mackasey said today his department is prepared to do "everything possible" to arrive at a settlement.

Unless a settlement can be reached, Canada appears headed for its second national railway strike in five years following the decision Wednesday by the brotherhood to call its 7,000 members off the job Monday.

PARALYSE TRAFFIC

The walkout would paralyse all traffic by the CNR and CP Rail, including freight, passenger and commuter service.

Already, all of Western Canada is without railway service. Traffic on the Victoria-Courtenay line of the E and N halted today.

The CN has adjusted its schedule for transcontinental trains to ensure that passengers are not caught in mid-trip when the engineers walk off.

Some businessmen reacted to the news that the brotherhood's negotiating committee had broken off contract talks with predictions of serious economic problems and possible price increases.

Albert David, division manager of Dominion Stores in Quebec and eastern Ontario, said food prices could rise because of the extra cost of using trucks to transport products.

The port of Vancouver will be effectively closed Monday if the tieup is not settled this weekend, acting port manager William Duncan said.

Duncan said there were seven grain vessels in berth this morning, but only four were taking on grain. Four

REGINA LABOR LAW TO GET TEETH

Times News Services

REGINA — Power to impose compulsory arbitration in all labor disputes falling under provincial jurisdiction would be given the Saskatchewan government under an amendment introduced in the legislature Wednesday.

Under terms of the government-sponsored amendment, heavy fines would be imposed on either employees or employers if arbitration awards are rejected by either side.

Before the Wednesday amendment, the Essential Services Emergency Act, originally passed in 1966, covered only employees in such services as electric power, natural gas, water, hospital employees and construction workers.

FIRE BASE HIT . . . . . ROCKET BARRAGE

Reds Drive Out S. Viets

SAIGON (AP) — A North Vietnamese regiment crossed from Laos into South Vietnam's central highlands and in a furious assault drove Saigon's troops out of a frontier fire base, the South Vietnamese Command reported today.

Continuing an upsurge of offensive action that began Sunday, apparently in relaliation for the South Vietnamese invasion of Laos, the North Vietnamese also unleashed a barrage of 500 rockets agginst two other artillery bases close to the Laotian border.

Meanwhile, a South Vietnamese commando force returned from an overnight raid on a North Vietnamese base on the Ho Chi Minh trail six miles inside Laos. The 26-hour operation apparently produced only minor results, with the South Vietnamese destroying some ammunition and fuel but failing to engage the North Vietnamese.

DAWN ATTACK

The North Vietnamese attack on the Firebase No. 6 began at dawn Wednesday with rocket and recoilless rifle bombardments. This was followed by a ground assault by the veteran 28th North Vietnamese Regiment.

The attacking force, estimated at more than 2,000 men, penetrated the base several times and forced out its two companies of South Vietnamese, said a spokesman for the South Vietnamese command, Lt.-Col. Le Trung Hein.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION MAY END SATURDAY

The legislative session is expected to end Friday or Saturday after a record number of sittings.

Work left to be done includes approval of Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi's spending estimates, salaries of the ministers without portfolio and miscellaneous other votes as well as committee debate and third reading for as many as 12 bills.

If the house progrogues Friday afternoon the legislature will have had 77 separate sittings. The previous high of 75 was in 1968.

Ecuador Quells Military Revolt

QUITO (AP) — Without firing a shot, the Ecuadorean government ended today a military revolt against President Jose Maria Valesco Ibarra's regime, the defence ministry announced.

Gen. Francisco Guzman, undersecretary of defence, said Gen. Luis Jacome Chavez, the rebel leader, surrendered to the army commander-in-chief.

Earlier, the rebels were reported gaining support in their revolt, aimed not at the president but at his nephew, the defence minister.

They not only demanded the replacement of Defence Minister Jorge Acosta Velasco but the ouster of the army commander, Gen. Julio Sacolo Montero. They threatened force if the demand was not met. Jacome Chavez had been fired Tuesday as head of Ecuador's War Academy.

Fifty academy officers who supported him were reported detained in barracks.

Before the capitulation, Jacome Chavez had claimed support of the army's airborne battalion and "military units throughout the country with the exception of one in Quito."

Pakistan Launches 'All-Out Offensive'

NEW DELHI (Reuter) — Pakistan military forces have launched an all-out offensive against the followers of East Pakistan secessionist leader Sheik Mujibur Rahman in five cities and towns of East Pakistan, All-India Radio reported today.

And in Islamabad, Pakistan, a foreign office spokesman said today armed Indians have infiltrated border areas of East Pakistan. He said the authorities in East Pakistan are "fully alive to the needs of the situations and are taking the necessary steps to meet it adequately."

But official sources in New Delhi denied the Pakistan allegation.

All-India Radio, quoting reports reaching Calcutta from across the border, said the Pakistan army, navy and air force offensive is aimed at Mujib's followers in the capital of Dacca, the port city of Chittagong and in Comilla, Rangour and Bogra.

The reports quoted by the radio said the offensive was intensified following the arrival of more troops from West Pakistan.

The radio quoted another report reaching the Indian border town of Shillong, saying the West Pakistan army early today launched a heavy attack on the East Pakistani area around Cherrapunji.

Heavy gunfights between West Pakistani soldiers and East Pakistani riflemen were reported south of the Cherrapunji hills, the radio said.

Delayed reports reaching Kishanganj on the Bihar state border said the town of Dinajpur, in East Pakistan, was recaptured by Sheik Mujib's followers Wednesday, All-India Radio reported.

There was no confirmation here of London reports that Sheik Mujib, leader of the outlawed Awami League, has

Calley Term Draws Flood of Protests

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — Thousands of telegrams and telephone calls flooded the White House Wednesday and today in the wake of the conviction and sentencing of Lt. William Calley for the My Lai massacre.

Support for Calley, sentenced to life in prison, was running almost 100 to 1 against the conviction, officials said.

Calley, 27, was spared the death penalty Wednesday by the same military jury which convicted him Monday of the murder of 22 Vietnamese men, women and children.

The sentence will be subject to automatic review through a procedure that could take at least a year and possible as long as five years.

After exhausting its remedies within the military judicial system, to as high as the U.S. Court of Miltary Appeals, the defence would have recourse to civil courts.

President Nixon could at any time pardon Calley or reduce his sentence, although there has been no indication he would do so.

At Fort Benning, Calley's civilian defence lawyer, George Latimer, said: "Lieut. Calley was relieved when the court martial sentenced him to life — he got the best of two terrible penalties."

There were two verdicts available to the jury — death, presumably by hanging, or life imprisonment. The life

Chinese 'Spitting' On Soviet Experience

MOSCOW (Reuter) — China has not escaped sharp criticism at the 24th Soviet Communist party congress despite the olive branch offered to Peking this week by party leader Leonid Brezhnev.

One of Brezhnev's senior lieutenants, Pyotr Masherov, said Wednesday Chiense leaders are "spitting" on Soviet experience in the creation of communism.

This was the sharpest retort yet to Peking press attacks on Moscow just before the congress began this week, at which China is not represented.

Masherov's broadside came just a day after Brezhnev, in a keynote address to the 5,000 delegates, offered to re-establish friendship and good-neighbor relations with Peking.

U.S. Navy Deploying Multiple N-Warheads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Navy has started deploying submarine-launched Poseidon missiles armed with multiple nuclear warheads which can be aimed at many separate targets, it was announced Thursday.

The submarine James Madison left Charleston, S.C., Wednesday and now is at sea with 16 Poseidon missiles, each of which can carry up to 10 individual warheads.

A second Poseidon-armed submarine, the Daniel Boon, is due to deploy this summer and eventually the U.S. plans to convert 31 of its 41 Polaris submarines to this multiple re-entry vehicle weapon.

Within the next few years the U.S. will be able to mount a total of up to 5,440 Poseidon and Polaris missile warheads in submarine firing tubes. About half of that fleet will be deployed at any one time.

The Poseidon is the second U.S. multiple re-entry system to achieve combat readiness.

The air force now has more than 50 three-warhead Minuteman III ready in U.S. launch silos. A total of 550 of the present 1,000 Minuteman land-based missiles will be converted to the multiple-warhead model.

CBC Workers Terminate Walkout

TORONTO (CP) — All employees were scheduled to be back to work today in CBC centres across Canada following a brief walkout by television production employees at some centres Wednesday, a corporation spokesman said. No programming was affected.

He said mediation talks at Montreal between representatives of the CBC and the Canadian Union of Public Employees broke off at 6 a.m. this morning.

"The negotiators will get some sleep and be back at the bargaining table at 3 p.m.," he said.

A CUPE official said the talks were proceeding satisfactorily but still were a long way from reaching a conclusion. The union spokesman said earlier the men left their jobs to protest the protracted talks in Montreal.

A promise by the CBC to work for an early contract settlement lured the men back.

Guy Coderre, vice-president of administration for the CBC, "advised the union that the CBC is willing to continue negotiations immediately in hopes of an early settlement," the CUPE official said.

About 1,600 employees were involved across Canada, including 600 in Toronto. Affected were studios in all cities with CBC facilities except Halifax.

Ford Offers 32.4 Per Cent Pay Raise

LONDON (AP) — A pay raise of 32.4 per cent over two years, to settle Ford of Britain's two-month-long strike dismayed the British government Thursday.

The deal shatters the ceiling the government has tried to impose on wage increases in its battle to contain inflation.

Over the winter months Prime Minister Heath's government withstood strikes and go-slows in vital public sectors of industry including power and postal workers — to keep pay increases down about the 10-per cent mark.

A two-year contract offered by Ford Wednesday to its 48,000 striking labor force provides a raise of 16 to 17 per cent on basic rates in the first year, and 32.4 per cent over two years.

Second Round Begins in Oil Tanker Fight

By JOHN MIKA
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Commons special committee on environmental pollution today picked itself up off the floor to fight the proposed Alaskan oil tanker route again.

The committee authorized chairman David Anderson to arrange for expert witnesses to be brought here from the West Coast later this month and to renew its request for permission to travel to Victoria and Vancouver about the end of next month to hold public hearings. (See also Page 3.)

The action was taken at a post-mortem meeting this morning to decide what to do as a result of the Commons' shelving two weeks ago the committee's plans to hold hearings in Vancouver and Victoria this week.

Anderson was blamed by some members for mishandling the presentation to the Commons and he also was criticized for publicly blaming all MPs from B.C. for the earlier failure. The Liberal backbencher apologized to the committee.

"I'm quite cheerful because the committee hasn't given up on this after all," Anderson said after the meeting.

"The criticisms were fair enough and perhaps I should have done things differently but I don't have all the answers."

He said he hopes to have the first experts from both the Canadian and U.S. sides of the Georgia-Gulf-Puget Sound area — testifying before the committee about April 26 or 27. They likely would be oceanographers, biologists and marjners.

"These are the kinds of people who can tell us what the dangers of oil spills are in those waters, where the currents would take the oil and what it would do to the oyster industry and so on," he said.

"After those witnesses are heard here, we'll reword our request to take the committee to the West Coast for two or three days for hearings on the spot. I'd say the target date for doing that now would be June 1."

Anderson said the committee's second travel request would have better chances of succeeding because of the public reaction to his humiliation in the Commons when his effort to get the original motion through was blocked by all parties and only committee vice-chairman Philip Givens supported him.

"We'll try the motion again and try harder this time with more lobbying for it in advance," he said.

"But the real lobbying has been done already by the people in B.C. who have been writing lots of letters to the prime minister and the government House leader (Allan MacEachen).

"They (letter writers) have changed the attitude around here so that I think the chances of success next time will be higher."

Under Half of B.C. Texts Canadian

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Americans, British Make Inroads in Schools

Slightly less than half of textbooks prescribed in B.C. elementary and high schools are Canadian publications, according to figures appearing in a B.C. Teachers' Federation publication.

The latest newsletter of the B.C. Principals' and Vice-Principals' Association reports of all textbooks in the prescribed list: 45.6 per cent are Canadian publications, 36.6 per cent are American and 17.8 per cent are English.

The report says that from time to time there is concern about the source of B.C. textbooks and more particularly, reports of a large number of American textbooks.

•

So the summary was prepared to provide specific information showing that department of education policy giving priority to Canadian textbooks is in fact being carried out.

The newsletter says that at the elementary school level, 52.6 per cent of textbooks are Canadian in origin, 34.8 per cent are American and 12.6 per cent are English.

At the secondary level the breakdown is 43.8 per cent Canadian, 37.1 per cent American and 19.1 per cent English in origin.

Of textbooks originating in the U.S., 17.4 per cent were rewritten to make them appropriate for use in Canadian schools. Canadian authors were involved in the rewriting.

The remaining textbooks were on topics where subject matter wasn't affected by origin, such as books on typing and electronics.

•

The newsletter notes that these statistics relate only to the list of titles and could lead to misunderstanding unless the actual number of books in the hands of pupils is considered. Not all titles listed are provided in any quantity.

It illustrates the situation for one Grade 9 required course in a typical school of 200 pupils.

The course deals with modern history and geography of the developed world and there are three core books, specially prepared for Canadian schools by Canadian publishers and Canadian authors.

Of all books issued for this course, in terms of quantity: 66.6 per cent are Canadian (784 books), 23.2 per cent are English (284 books) and 10.2 per cent are American (120 books).

Entire Town Blasts Plan For Tailings

Almost all residents of Jordan River have signed a petition opposing an application of Dison Development Ltd. for permission to discharge mine tailings on a beach on the east side of the west coast settlement.

The 65-name petition has been submitted to the B.C. Pollution Control Board.

Cubs and Scouts have also written letters requesting the board to save the beach from being polluted by the discharge of one million gallons a day of mine slurry into tidal waters.

"It's the cub pack favorite beach during the summer months," said Mrs. Mamie Dods, cub leader of the 6 Juan de Fuca Pack. "One other cub group from Victoria also uses the beach."

The petition said the recreational use of the beach is being sacrificed to a project which contributes little to the economy of Jordan River.

PROTESTS ACT

It also protests a section of the Pollution Control Act which states that only residents living within a five-mile radius of the mine have a right to protest to the board.

They say hundreds of people from Victoria and other areas who use the beach should also be allowed to file their objections.

"This effluent has a most objectionable odor, precluding enjoyment of swimming and surfing," the petition states. "The effluent builds up a black, clay-like mass, which adheres to clothing and skin. It also spreads to other beaches."

The Capital Regional District has protested to the board, stating the mine tailings may destroy the beach.

William Venables, director of the pollution control board, said a decision to hold a public hearing on the matter will only be made after all objections and the company's application have been processed.

He said this takes about 180 days.

"Then a decision is made on whether a hearing will be held," he said. "A hearing is only held if there is additional information which may assist the director to arrive at a decision."

When You Are 104 Years Old You're Entitled to Opinions

By SALLY GLOVER

Short skirts are okay — but the knee is the limit!

That may sound a bit outmoded, but when you're 104, it's permissible.

Richard Albert Smithson was born 104 years ago Wednesday — that's 1867 for those whose math fails them. He may not remember Confederation, but he certainly remembered the fashions of his time.

"Naturally, I'm old fashioned," he said in an interview at Glenwarren Private Hospital, "but short skirts are not modest and that is one of women's finest characteristics — modesty."

People today believe they "may as well be out of the world as to be out of fashion," he said.

"Old duffers like myself stick tenaciously to the vogue of our day."

FARM LIFE

Smithson spent his first 40 years on a farm in the township of Fenlon, Ontario.

He started school at age four, was "driving" horses when he was five and called himself a farmer by the time he left school.

His school days began hand in hand with his teacher (a boarder at the farm), walking 3½ miles to the single-room Smithson schoolhouse.

"The teacher had two older girls walk me home every day, but," he chuckled, "my feet barely touched the ground the whole way home."

When a pupil deserved to be punished the teacher went further than verbalizing.

"Sometimes the teacher would grab the poor beggar so hard, buttons would go flying across the room."

SOLD CHEMICALS

His family, five sisters and one brother, raised horses, cattle, sheep and pigs at a time when a "dry cow" sold for two cents a pound and resold in cans at 40 cents.

"I never bought anything in a can," he said.

He left the farm to sell chemicals in Saskatoon. On Christmas Eve, 1937, he arrived in Victoria.

Recently Mayor Haddock presented him with the centennial medallion.

He maintains a strong faith.

"Favoritism is evil and idle talk foolish."

The national anthem is Canada's prayer and "a man's greatest truth lies in kindness."

As to his good health, he credits a clean and honest life.

"You're looking at an old conservative bachelor," he said.

'Greasers' to Get the Boot, Today Is Not Grub Day

Ten April Fool "greasers" were "kicked out for the day" this morning before they reached their home room class, a Cedar Hill Junior Secondary student said.

"We just came dressed normally, but tried to be like the teachers — conformists. All we did was put on hair cream and slicked our hair back. It says on the tube, greaseless," said 15-year-old Peter Taggar.

Taggar, who last month was elected "Spring King" by the teachers, said he signed up for king so he could organize some activities in the school.

"Yesterday I was teacher's pet, today I'm a student rebel. We only did it as an April Fool's joke. We haven't even had a grub day yet, nobody organizes things."

Although he didn't initiate this gag, he thought it was a good idea, so he and a few others put up posters announcing the event.

Principal Claude Campbell on Wednesday said over the public address system that students would be punished if they came to school with their hair greased, Taggart said.

"That's why the other students were scared to come greased," he said. "The only thing I'm worried about now is my parents."

The students involved were told to leave the school today and report in the principal's office Friday morning, he said.

Contacted by a reporter Campbell gave no reason for his action.

"I would prefer to discuss this with a parent, I don't see how it concerns you," he said.

LAND DRAINS 'COMMON SEWERS'

Land drains which underlay most of Brentwood residential area now serve as communal sewers for a great many premises, Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, chief medical officer of the Metropolitan Health Board, informed Central Saanich council Wednesday.

(See also page 16.)

In a letter showing results of a recent survey in Brentwood and Saanichton, he indicated that only 44 per cent out of a total of 382 homes checked had properly functioning septic tanks.

Inspections of individual systems showed that throughout the entire Brentwood area, the permeable soil overlay and clay strata is incapable of absorbing septic tank effluent.

Q. Where a club is meeting without charter or bylaws is it necessary to have a motion to adjourn the meeting or may the president declare the meeting adjourned? Also, if it is necessary to have a motion, is it necessary to have a seconder?—L.F.

A. How the meeting is adjourned should be decided among participants, if they don't want to use rules or order. Robert's Rules of Order says a motion to adjourn takes precedence over other motions, cannot be debated and doesn't need a seconder.

Arthur Mayse . . .

TODAY I HAVE A FAVOR to ask of you. I want a typewriter for Mary Ann, a girl with a passion for learning who is involved in a contest with time and fate.

Perhaps when I tell you about her you will agree that she should have that typewriter.

Mary Ann is 18. She's Canadian by birth and Indian by heritage. She lives with her parents and brothers and sisters in a Vancouver Island west coast village.

For Mary Ann, life is a battle. Her adversary is cancer, which set in when she was about five years old.

On the credit side, she has a friend for all seasons in the person of Mrs. Harriett Esselmont, past president of Indian Arts and Welfare Society. It was Mrs. Esselmont who told me about Mary Ann — her struggle to learn, and her need for a typewriter.

The friendship began with a letter written by the girl when she was 14 and a student at a west coast residential school. The Indian Arts people had sponsored a story contest; Mary Ann's entry didn't place among the winners, but she wrote a letter to Mrs. Esselmont in which she thanked the society for the chance to try.

I've seen that letter, and others that have paced Mary Ann's teen-age ups and downs. They range from laconic to breezy. In total, they reflect the courage, sensitivity and intelligence that Harriett Esselmont claims for this girl who reached out to her.

The wish to learn — "To make something of herself," as Mary Ann expresses it — has grown very strong through the last two years.

The bright kid new in residential school suffered such agonies of bewilderment and homesickness as Indian artist-writer George Clutesi remembers. She would stand on a rock point and watch the water, a child tormented by a hope and a dream. If she hoped hard enough, her father might come in his boat and take her away.

He didn't, and in later years, Mary Ann has travelled farther from home. For a while she lived with a Victoria family. But the transition from small, isolated community to city is hard for any child, and doubly so for one of her race. Mary Ann returned to her village.

There have been other required trips to the outside. The Cancer Clinic at Vancouver has received her for treatment at various times.

She carries the marks of her ordeal. Mrs. Esselmont, remembering Mary Ann from their occasional visits, doesn't dwell on these.

"She has fine slender hands," says this sturdy friend, "and the most beautiful eyes and skin. And she has this tremendous desire to learn."

About two years ago, Mary Ann began to study intensively through the provincial government correspondence courses by which so many young ones far from the towns get their schooling. Her record shines. She's a straight-A student.

Nothing comes easy to her, but she's completing her Grade 10 subjects in style, and her sights are set on a commercial course in typing.

"I have to raise some money for a typewriter, though, she explained in her last letter. "Somehow, I guess I'll swing it."

She wasn't asking for help. But without help, her chances of getting that machine are mighty slim.

At this point, I asked a question that may also have occured to you. Why doesn't the Indian Arts and Welfare Society stake Mary Ann to a typewriter?

Mrs. Esselmont gave me a double-barreled answer. First, she is making the request as the girl's friend, not on behalf of the society. Second, the society is a small group with strictly limited funds which are subject to a tremendous number of demands. Because of this, its policy is to give to causes rather than individuals.

The girl who strives to learn in spite of the grimmest difficulties still hasn't been able to swing it.

That's why I've turned to you with this request — a typewriter for Mary Ann.

Not a portable. That won't fill the bill. A standard machine in top condition.

Any takers?

Family Condominiums To Be Ready April 9

Victoria's first low-income condominiums offering family-size accommodation are expected to be finished April 9.

Believed to be the first of their kind in Western Canada, the 44 units of Lampson Court, 477 Lampson, Esquimalt, are available to families with under $5,000 to about $5,900 annual income.

About half of them have been applied for and of these a dozen have been bought.

G. H. Wheaton Ltd., the builders, said it is taking names of persons in medium-income brackets for a proposed new development being discussed with Saanich for medium-density accommodation.

A recent discussion by local and provincial housing authorities indicates 36 per cent of Victoria people can't afford better than low-cost housing, said Wheaton spokesman A. E. Bowers.

Lampson units, offered in apartment-type or townhouse layouts, sell for $14,400 with monthly payments around $110.

Rescuer's Fund Now at $1,341

Donations to the Percy Brown Trust Fund are building at the Royal Bank of Canada, Douglas and Saanich.

Manager Geoffrey Harrison said the latest total is $1,341 with "a little bit coming in every day."

Percy Brown, owner of Becher Bay Marina, who rescued four people in stormy seas when their troller capsized March 13, has gone out on a limb and borrowed $4,000 to buy a suitable rescue boat.

Brown made the rescue after the victims were in the frigid stormy seas for more than an hour. His 12-foot plywood boat ended up on the rocks.

In spite of his efforts, two of the people died. With a faster and more seaworthy vessel the ending might have been different.

The Times is accepting cheques for transfer to the fund.

PAROLE DENIAL KEEPS HIM IN JAIL

Hoffa's Teamster Reign Appears Over

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Riddle Hoffa's 13-year reign over the giant Teamsters union appears all but ended after the U.S. parole board denial of his appeal for freedom.

Hoffa, serving consecutive sentences totalling 13 years for jury tampering and mail fraud, will retain the title of union president for several more months, but Teamsters' sources said he will almost certainly be replaced at the union's July convention in Miami Beach, Fla.

Acting Teamsters' President Frank E. Fitzsimmons, Hoffa's old Detroit sidekick and handpicked stand-in, is rated the favorite to succeed Hoffa.

Hoffa will not become eligible for parole again until June, 1972, when Fitzsimmons, or some other successor will have had nearly a year to consolidate a hold on the union presidency. Presidential terms currently are for five years.

Hoffa at the last Teamsters convention in 1966 managed to rewrite the union constitution to make it virtually impossible for other union leaders to oust him. But the parole denial appeared to dash Hoffa's last hopes of retaining control of the union after more than four years in prison.

PLEDGE CRUSHED

The parole refusal Wednesday crushed Hoffa's pledge to the union's members shortly before a federal marshal whisked him in handcuffs to the penitentiary in 1967: "I'll be back, God willing, sooner than our enemies would have you believe."

The board didn't divulge its voic nor its reason for denying parole.

A parole would have almost certainly put Hoffa back in the driver's seat of the world's largest, richest, most powerful labor union, in the view of most Teamsters sources.

The cautious manoeuvring of Teamsters leaders for control of the $1,000 million two-million-member Teamsters' empire now is expected to move into the open.

Under Fitzsimmons, the union had begun a slow drift away from Hoffa's tight national control to a more decentralized operation with increasing roles for the 12 other vice-presidents.

While Hoffa still has union supporters and may continue to exercise influence, the parole denial evidently will accomplish something a host of opponents, including the late president John F. Kennedy, the late attorney-general Robert F. Kennedy, congressional investigators, other labor leaders and even some of his own union members, were unable to do—get him out of office.

Ecuador Army Wants Head's Nephew Out

QUITO (AP) — Ecuadorean army officers demanding the ouster of President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra's nephew from control of the defence ministry were reported gaining support today, but the 78-year-old president held out against them.

The dissidents said they have no direct quarrel with Velasco Ibarra, but they demanded that he fire Defence Minister Jorge Acosta Velasco, considered by many to be the strongman of his aged uncle's regime.

The rebels also demanded the replacement of Gen. Julio Sacoto Montero as commander of the army. They said that if their demands are not met, forceful measures will be taken.

The rebellion centred in the war college and was led by its head, Gen. Luis Jacome Chavez. He and 50 officers of his staff said they have the support of the army training school, the army's airborne battalion and "military units throughout the country, with the exception of one in Quito."

A report from Guayaquil, Ecuador's largest city, said the provincial garrison there is backing the rebels.

The defence minister fired the war college chief Tuesday, but he refused to get out. He and his staff waited until President Gustav Heinemann of West Germany concluded a state visit Wednesday, then issued a communique defying the dismissal order and demanding the removal of the president's nephew and the army commander.

Outside Journals Face Ad Ban Too

VANCOUVER (CP) — The head of a major magazine distributing company said Wednesday he has been advised by the attorney-general's department that the forthcoming ban on liquor and tobacco advertising in B.C. will apply to magazines printed outside the province.

James Grubb, manager of Vancouver Magazine Service Ltd., said he was told the ban, which goes into effect Sept. 1, definitely includes material coming into B.C. for distribution.

During debate in the legislature preceding final approval of the legislation Tuesday, opposition members repeatedly asked Attorney-General Leslie Peterson how the law would be applied to advertising in out-of-province journals.

Without giving a clear-cut explanation, Mr. Peterson said.

WANTS MEETING

"I think the provisions in this particular statute must be read in the light that the province can only legislate within its own jurisdiction."

Mr. Grubb said he has been attempting to arrange an appointment with Mr. Peterson to discuss the new legislation but "so far I haven't had any luck."

He said his business would be "hurt very seriously" by the legislation and estimated it could mean a drop of up to 60 per cent in gross sales now exceeding $10 million annually.

Vancouver Magazine Service is the major distributor of magazines and books on the lower B.C. mainland. It has 82 employees.

Mr. Grubb said that if the government is able to enforce the ban, it would virtually wipe out the magazine sales business in B.C.

He said readers would be forced to obtain out-of-province magazines by subscription through the mails.

"In other words," he said, "publishers in Eastern Canada would earn extra profits at the expense of earnings and jobs in B.C."

NEWS BRIEFS

'Separatist Generals'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Quebec separatist leader Rene Levesque said Wednesday there are separatist generals in the Canadian Armed Forces. Speaking on a local CBC television show, he made the statement while speculating on a possible military solution to Quebec's problems.

2 More Shocks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two more aftershocks jolted the earthquake-jittery San Fernando Valley today. There were no reports of new damage.

Pakistan Launches 'All-Out Offensive'

NEW DELHI (Reuter) — Pakistan military forces have launched an all-out offensive against the followers of East Pakistan secessionist leader Sheik Mujibur Rahman in five cities and towns of East Pakistan, All-India Radio reported today.

And in Islamabad, Pakistan, a foreign office spokesman said today armed Indians have infiltrated border areas of East Pakistan. He said the authorities in East Pakistan are "fully alive to the needs of the situations and are taking the necessary steps to meet it adequately."

But official sources in New Delhi denied the Pakistan allegation.

All-India Radio, quoting reports reaching Calcutta from across the border, said the Pakistan army, navy and air force offensive is aimed at Mujib's followers in the capital of Dacca, the port city of Chittagong and in Comilla, Rangour and Bogra.

The reports quoted by the radio said the offensive was intensified following the arrival of more troops from West Pakistan.

The radio quoted another report reaching the Indian border town of Shillong, saying the West Pakistan army early today launched a heavy attack on the East Pakistani area around Cherrapunji.

Heavy gunfights between West Pakistani soldiers and East Pakistani riflemen were reported south of the Cherrapunji hills, the radio said.

Delayed reports reaching Kishanganj on the Bihar state border said the town of Dinajpur, in East Pakistan, was recaptured by Sheik Mujib's followers Wednesday, All-India Radio reported.

There was no confirmation here of London reports that Sheik Mujib, leader of the outlawed Awami League, has Britain is mounting an airlift to evacuate Canadian and British citizens wanting to quit trouble-torn East Pakistan the British foreign office announced today. RAF planes at Singapore will carry out the estimated 100 Canadians and 700 Britons in Dacca.

Ford Offers 32.4 Per Cent Pay Raise

LONDON (AP) — A pay raise of 32.4 per cent over two years, to settle Ford of Britain's two-month-long strike dismayed the British government Thursday.

The deal shatters the ceiling the government has tried to impose on wage increases in its battle to contain inflation.

Over the winter months Prime Minister Heath's government withstood strikes and go-slows in vital public sectors of industry including power and postal workers — to keep pay increases down about the 10-per cent mark.

A two-year contract offered by Ford Wednesday to its 48,000 striking labor force provides a raise of 16 to 17 per cent on basic rates in the first year, and 32.4 per cent over two years.

ACCUSED of giving money to organizations supporting the cause of their father, deposed Cambodian head of state Prince Sihanouk, are his children Princess Botum Bopha, 27, and Prince Norodum Naradipo, 21. Sihanouk is in exile in Peking. (AP Wirephoto)

FIRE BASE HIT . . . . . . ROCKET BARRAGE

Reds Drive Out S. Viets

SAIGON (AP) — A North Vietnamese regiment crossed from Laos into South Vietnam's central highlands and in a furious assault drove Saigon's troops out of a frontier fire base, the South Vietnamese Command reported today.

Continuing an upsurge of offensive action that began Sunday, apparently in relaliation for the South Vietnamese invasion of Laos, the North Vietnamese also unleashed a barrage of 500 rockets against two other artillery bases close to the Laotian border.

Meanwhile, a South Vietnamese commando force returned from an overnight raid on a North Vietnamese base on the Ho Chi Minh trail six miles inside Laos. The 26-hour operation apparently produced only minor results, with the South Vietnamese destroying some ammunition and fuel but failing to engage the North Vietnamese.

DAWN ATTACK

The North Vietnamese attack on the Firebase No. 6 began at dawn Wednesday with rocket and recoilless rifle bombardments. This was followed by a ground assault by the veteran 28th North Vietnamese Regiment.

The attacking force, estimated at more than 2,000 men, penetrated the base several times and forced out its two companies of South Vietnamese, said a spokesman for the South Vietnamese command, Lt.-Col. Le Trung Hein.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION MAY END SATURDAY

The legislative session is expected to end Friday or Saturday after a record number of sittings.

Work left to be done includes approval of Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi's spending estimates, salaries of the ministers without portfolio and miscellaneous other votes as well as committee debate and third reading for as many as 12 bills.

Nixon Lets Calley Out of Stockade

BULLETIN

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon today ordered that Lt. William Calley be removed from stockade at Ft. Benning, Ga., and confined instead to quarters while a review of his life sentence is under way.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said the president called Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and ordered that Calley be removed from the stockade in which he was put following his conviction on charges of murdering civilians at My Lai.

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — Thousands of telegrams and telephone calls flooded the White House Wednesday and today in the wake of the conviction and sentencing of Lt. William Calley for the My Lai massacre.

Support for Calley, sentenced to life in prison, was running almost 100 to 1 against the conviction, officials said.

Calley, 27, was spared the death penalty Wednesday by the same military jury which convicted him Monday of the murder of 22 Vietnamese men, women and children.

The sentence will be subject to automatic review through a procedure that could take at least a year and possible as long as five years.

At Fort Benning, Calley's civilian defence lawyer, George Latimer, said: "Lieut. Calley was relieved when the court martial sentenced him to life — he got the best of two terrible penalties."

There were two verdicts available to the jury — death, presumably by hanging, or life imprisonment. The life

Chinese 'Spitting' On Soviet Experience

MOSCOW (Reuter) — China has not escaped sharp criticism at the 24th Soviet Communist party congress despite the olive branch offered to Peking this week by party leader Leonid Brezhnev.

One of Brezhnev's senior lieutenants, Pyotr Masherov, said Wednesday Chinese leaders are "spitting" on Soviet experience in the creation of communism.

This was the sharpest retort yet to Peking press attacks on Moscow just before the congress began this week, at which China is not represented.

Masherov's broadside came just a day after Brezhnev, in a keynote address to the 5,000 delegates, offered to re-establish friendship and good-neighbor relations with Peking.

Rail Strike Threat Eases

56,000 Involved

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (CP) — All elements for a settlement of the threatened rail strike are "in place" Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey told the Commons today.

MONTREAL — Canada's major railways and 56,000 non-operating employees today reached a contract agreement which Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey hopes will exert pressure on 7,000 locomotive engineers scheduled to strike Monday.

Negotiations resumed today between the engineers and Canadian National Railways and CP Rail.

Sitting in on negotiations is Bernard Wilson, assistant deputy labor minister.

Unless a settlement can be reached, Canada appears headed for its second national railway strike in five years following the decision Wednesday by the brotherhood to call its 7,000 members off the job Monday.

PARALYSE TRAFFIC

The walkout would paralyse all traffic by the CNR and CP Rail, including freight, passenger and commuter service.

Already, all of Western Canada is without railway service. Traffic on the Victoria-Courtenay line of the E and N halted today.

The CN has adjusted its schedule for transcontinental trains to ensure that passengers are not caught in mid-trip when the engineers walk off.

Some businessmen reacted to the news that the brotherhood's negotiating committee had broken off contract talks with predictions of serious economic problems and possible price increases.

The port of Vancouver will be effectively closed Monday if the tieup is not settled this weekend, acting port manager William Duncan said.

Duncan said there were seven grain vessels in berth this morning, but only four were taking on grain. Four

REGINA LABOR LAW TO GET TEETH

Times News Services

REGINA — Power to impose compulsory arbitration in all labor disputes falling under provincial jurisdiction would be given the Saskatchewan government under an amendment introduced in the legislature Wednesday.

Under terms of the government-sponsored amendment heavy fines would be imposed on either employees or employers if arbitration awards are rejected by either side.

Before the Wednesday amendment, the Essential Services Emergency Act, originally passed in 1966, covered only employees in such services as electric power, natural gas, water, hospital employees and construction workers.

Ecuador Quells Military Revolt

QUITO (AP) — Without firing a shot, the Ecuadorean government ended today a military revolt against President Jose Maria Valesco Ibarra's regime, the defence ministry announced.

Gen. Francisco Guzman, undersecretary of defence, said Gen. Luis Jacome Chavez, the rebel leader, surrendered to the army commander-in-chief.

Earlier, the rebels were reported gaining support in their revolt aimed not at the president but at his nephew, the defence minister.

They not only demanded the replacement of Defence Minister Jorge Acosta Velasco but the ouster of the army commander, Gen. Julio Sacoto Montero. They threatened force if the demand was not met. Jacome Chavez had been fired Tuesday as head of Ecuador's War Academy.

Fifty academy officers who supported him were reported detained in barracks.

Before the capitulation, Jacome Chavez had claimed support of the army's airborne battalion and "military units throughout the country with the exception of one in Quito."

Gaglardi 'To Name' Welfare Abusers

In a drive against welfare fraud, the provincial rehabilitation department is curculating "names of persons who have defrauded or appear likely to do so to all offices for checking."

The policy was revealed in a report to the legislature released today by Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi.

It does not say how the department arrives at the names of persons likely to defraud the department.

FRAUD ON INCREASE

Figures in the report say that charges of fraud against individuals rose from 75 in all of the 1969-70 fiscal year to 180 in the period from October, 1970, to February, 1971.

The total amount alleged to have been defrauded in the October to February period was $88,855 and 91 of the 180 persons were convicted on a total amount of $53,341.

The percentage of convictions for the year ending March 31, 1970 was much higher. A total of 56 of the charges resulted in convictions totalling $34,340.

The figures were expected to come in for close study today during debate on Gaglardi's spending estimates.

CBC Workers Terminate Walkout

TORONTO (CP) — All employees were scheduled to be back to work today in CBC centres across Canada following a brief walkout by television production employees at some centres Wednesday, a corporation spokesman said. No programming was affected.

He said mediation talks at Montreal between representatives of the CBC and the Canadian Union of Public Employees broke off at 6 a.m. this morning.

"The negotiators will get some sleep and be back at the bargaining table at 3 p.m.," he said.

A CUPE official said the talks were proceeding satisfactorily but still were a long way from reaching a conclusion. The union spokesman said earlier the men left their jobs to protest the protracted talks in Montreal.

A promise by the CBC to work for an early contract settlement lured the men back.

Guy Coderre, vice-president of administration for the CBC, "advised the union that the CBC is willing to continue negotiations immediately in hopes of an early settlement," the CUPE official said.

About 1,600 employees were involved across Canada, including 600 in Toronto. Affected were studios in all cities with CBC facilities except Halifax.

Second Round Begins in Oil Tanker Fight

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Commons special committee on environmental pollution today picked itself up off the floor to fight the proposed Alaskan oil tanker route again.

The committee authorized chairman David Anderson to arrange for expert witnesses to be brought here from the West Coast later this month and to renew its request for permission to travel to Victoria and Vancouver about the end of next month to hold public hearings. (See also Page 3.)

The action was taken at a post-mortem meeting this morning to decide what to do as a result of the Commons' shelving two weeks ago the committee's plans to hold hearings in Vancouver and Victoria this week.

Anderson was blamed by some members for mishandling the presentation to the Commons and he also was criticized for publicly blaming all MPs from B.C. for the earlier failure. The Liberal backbencher apologized to the committee.

"I'm quite cheerful because the committee hasn't given up on this after all," Anderson said after the meeting.

"The criticisms were fair enough and perhaps I should have done things differently but I don't have all the answers."

He said he hopes to have the first experts from both the Canadian and U.S. sides of the Georgia Gulf-Puget Sound area testifying before the committee about April 26 or 27. They likely would be oceanographers, biologists and mariners.

"These are the kinds of people who can tell us what the dangers of oil spills are in those waters, where the currents would take the oil and what it would do to the oyster industry and so on," he said.

"After those witnesses are heard here, we'll reword our request to take the committee to the West Coast for two or three days for hearings on the spot. I'd say the target date for doing that now would be June 1."

Anderson said the committee's second travel request would have better chances of succeeding because of the public reaction to his humiliation in the Commons when his effort to get the original motion through was blocked by all parties and only committee vice-chairman Philip Givens supported him.

"We'll try the motion again and try harder this time with more lobbying for it in advance," he said.

"But the real lobbying has been done already by the people in B.C. who have been writing lots of letters to the prime minister and the government House leader (Allan MacEachen).

"They (letter writers) have changed the attitude around here so that I think the chances of success next time will be higher."
